Today

Wasting the Native Born.
Those Shrunken Heads.
Burning the Shack.
Earth's Danger Spot.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

REFERRING to "National Hospital Day," President Hoover writes, "Our citizens will never rest content until the poorest children in our cities, the loneliest mothers on our isolated farms, have the comfort and protection of good hospitals."

MOST important is adequate medical care for the lonely mothers when their children are born.

Skillful obstetrics dates back only a few years and has been limited, largely, to the prosperous class. Until recent years childbirth was left to the mercy of unscientific midwives.

WHEN trained surgeons began attending women in childbirth, deaths seemed to be more frequent.

A midwife was commanded to bring Queen Victoria into the world, after the Princess Charlotta had died in childbirth under the care of two court physicians.

Thousands of mothers are still sacrificed every year to lack of care and to the ignorance or carelessness of those supposed to give care.

IT WAS Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, once a teacher at the Harvard Medical School, who told the world's doctors, "You have been killing mothers in childbirth with your own hands."

He referred to the fact that doctors came from other patients, or from work in the dissecting room, to handle childbirth cases, hands unwashed and covered with germs.

Antiseptics were unknown.

The doctors, highly indignant, said mothers died because Providence wished them to die. Had not Eve and all her daughters been threatened with childbirth troubles, for listening to the snake?

Now doctors clean their hands, wear rubber gloves, and in good practice it can no longer be said that "one might as well deliver a woman to the guillotine as to the bed of confinement."

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES did more for the world in that one warning to doctors than in all his admirable writing, and that fact should be mentioned under his bust in the Hall of Fame.

If President Hoover can procure medical protection in childbirth for the "loneliest mothers on our isolated farms," of whom tens of thousands every year die in childbirth unnecessarily, he will be a very great president, though he should do nothing else.

Mortality in childbirth is higher in America than in any other civilized country. A good recommendation for this richest nation, which pretends to value the native born so highly.

The Jivaros kill their enemies, cause the skulls to shrink by a secret process, and preserve them as fetishes. The spirit of the slaughtered enemy, imprisoned in his shrunken skull, is compelled to work magic in favor of the enemy that killed him.

CHRISTIANITY will not let us believe that, as we look at the strange little heads, smaller than your fist, with features and long black hair, preserved as in life. But we wonder what will be done about bringing them back, as "in the flesh," for the judgment day.

Will those Jivaros appear for judgment with shrunken heads on broad shoulders, or will a special miracle give them back their full-sized heads, as another miracle, doubtless, will restore heads to the bodies of those guillotined in France, and beheaded by axmen and swordsmen elsewhere?

HJALMAR BLOMBERG, former constable, was found guilty of arson, having set fire to a shack said to be used for distilling liquor. Judge Risjord, in Wisconsin, sets aside the verdict, because arson means destroying property by fire, and a whisky shack has "no property right in it."

THE law is the law, and it's not for laymen to interpret it.

But an alleged whisky shack, property right or no property right, might have children sleeping in it.

It is to be hoped that prohibition enforcers will make sure about that, before starting the fire.

Too many shootings and burnings might arouse prejudice against prohibition.

NEWTON D. BAKER, former secretary of war, says Chicago's Loop is the most dangerous spot on earth. Gen. Pershing's divisions were not as fully armed as guards who stand at machine gun turrets while a bag of gold is moved from one side of a street to the other.

THERE is one place more dangerous than Chicago's Loop. Mr. Baker will identify it, if he will take his money to New York's Wall Street and play the game that is played there.

IF you throw up your hands and keep quiet, Chicago's gunmen will take only what you happen to have with you.

Wall Street does things in a more thorough manner. You can face any gunman without loss when the ticker gets through with you. Many Americans will realize that, shortly.

FUNDS FOUND $33,000 SHORT

The Federal Grand Jury today indicted Ferruccio W. Ronchetti, former manager of the foreign department of the First National Bank in Bridgeville, on a charge of embezzling $33,621.65 of the bank's funds.

The charge relates that the embezzlements took place between June, 1926 and December, 1928.

Ronchetti, aged about 45, has been missing since the alleged defalcation was discovered, it was said at the bank today.

The man's wife and three children are living in Bridgeville.

Ronchetti's connections with the bank were severed last December. The amount involved is fully covered by insurance, bank officials announced.

SOCIAL RIVALS STIR SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(INS.)—The staid and august Senate could hardly believe its eyes today when Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Mrs. "Dolly" Gann, rival leaders in the capital's great social war, strolled nonchalantly into the gallery together, sat down and proceeded to converse amiably.

An almost audible gasp went around the chamber and the two immediately became the cynosure of all eyes, from the floor as well as from the visitors galleries. Senator Smith W. Brookhart(Rep.), of Iowa, was speaking at the time, but nobody paid any attention. All eyes were on Alice and Dolly.

CALM DURING STIR

Neither appeared embarrassed or cognizant of the stir they were creating by appearing together, although the tea tables of Washington have buzzed with nothing else for a week except the sanguinary conflict between the Vice President's half-sister and the speaker's wife over social precedent at official functions.

Only a week ago, Mrs. Longworth sent her "regrets" to Mrs. Eugene Meyer when she learned that Mrs. Gann was to be seated as the ranking lady at a formal dinner. When Mrs. Meyer re-arranged her tables so as to avoid seating any guest as the ranking lady, Mrs. Gann developed a diplomatic headache and also sent regrets.

Washinton hostesses were given informally, but very effectively, to

Old Show Manager Dies in Reading

READING, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—John D. Mishler, 82, veteran theatrical manager, died suddenly at his home this morning. He managed theaters here for more than 40 years, and for some years toured the country with the Bartholomew Equine Paradox, 24 trained horses.

Making a three months' tour of Europe many years ago, he was delayed in returning by heavy Atlantic storms, and his ship was reported lost. When he returned he found lengthy obituary notices of himself in local newspapers.

NEW OPERATION FOR 'POLLY'

BERLIN, May 13.—(INS.)—A second operation will have to be performed on Mrs. Gene Tunney, multi-millionaire heiress bride of the retired world's heavyweight boxing champion, according to Dr. Fritz Meyer, well known German surgeon.

Dr. Meyer is back in Berlin today after assisting in the first operation, performed on a rough deal table in the kitchen of the Tunneys' villa on Brioni Island, in the Italian Adriatic.

Mrs. Tunney underwent the first operation for the removal of an ulcer dangerously close to the appendix on April 28. News of the occurrence did not become known until exclusively revealed by International News Service last Friday.

OUT OF DANGER

Dr. Fritz Meyer said today that Mrs. Tunney now was out of danger, but that she would have to undergo still another operation before the trouble could be cleared up.

"There is no possibility, however," he told International News Service, "of the second operation being performed for the next six months. Mrs. Tunney is returning to the United States as soon as she has recovered sufficiently to be able to travel."

The surgeon said that it was probable the second operation would

Ex-Rum Dealer Indicted

Frank A. Weinstein, of North Negley avenue, former wholesale liquor dealer, was indicted by the federal grand jury today on a charge of attempting to evade payment of income taxes.

The indictment charges that Weinstein had a net income in 1925 of $189,169.57 and that the tax due the government amounted to $28,156.16 which he failed to pay. Income from real estate profits alone was placed by the government at $62,000 for the year.

On May 15, 1926, Weinstein made a return, the government alleges, setting forth his gross income for 1925 as $35,964.02.

COURT OPENS 'PADLOCKED' COLLEGE

DES MOINES, Ia., May 13.—(AP.)—Des Moines University, fundamentalist Baptist school, continued classes "as usual" today with virtually all traces of the egg and rock bombardment that resulted in its "indefinite" closing Saturday, removed.

A temporary injunction restraining Dr. John S. Wayman, president, from carrying out the mandate of Dr. T. T. Shields, chairman of the board of directors, in keeping the institution closed indefinitely, was issued by Judge Frank S. Shankland in District Court.

CLASSES CALLED

Dr. Wayman was notified of issuance of the injunction by telephone, and without waiting for formal serving of the District Court's order summoned the students to return to their classes.

The injunction was said to be in the nature of a friendly action.

Earlier in the day, Dr. Wayman, who with the remainder of the faculty had been discharged by the trustees, said he would carry out to the letter the order of the trustees suspending all classes and lectures in the university until further notice from the trustee board.

STUDENTS PLAN KIDNAPING

Some 200 students, including coeds, were congregated about the entrance to the campus of the university today, awaiting the arrival of Miss Edith M. Rebman, funda-

MILK STRIKE VIOLENCE CHARGED

Stoning of drivers and wagons of the Liberty Dairy Products Corporation was charged in a statement issued today by the company.

Representatives of the newly-organized local of Milk, Ice Cream and Dairy Employes countered with a statement that a telephone offer of settlement had been accepted by the strikers, only to have the company later withdraw the offer.

This offer, according to Henry G. Burger, organizer, was an increase of $5 a week for all employes, two days off each month and two weeks vacation on pay. The proffer was made to a Mr. Arnold, secretary and treasurer of the union, but when it was accepted, the company repudiated the agreement, Burger said.

WAGONS HELD UP

A dozen or more wagons were held up early today by strikers' threats and compelled to return to the company's plant, Forbes street and Sixth avenue, until daybreak, the company statement set forth. Stones were hurled at several wagons and the coat torn from one driver, it was charged. One employe, Morris Millstone, is in Mercy Hospital from injuries.

Thirty-two deputy sheriffs accompanied drivers today. This number likely will be increased to 50 tomorrow, the company stated. Conflicting statements were issued as to number of men on strike and delivery of milk to hospitals.

FIGURES CONFLICT

P. P. Carney, superintendent of the company, said difficulty had been experienced in delivering milk to the Jewish Home for Babies and other institutions because of interference of strikers. He said 27 of 75 drivers remain on duty.

Organizer Burger declared that "we gave them permission to use union drivers to deliver milk to hospitals and babies. All drivers except one, about 65 in all, are on strike, along with 35 inside employes."

Meanwhile, residents of the city and environs continue to report failure to receive milk from the Liberty company.

'MIRACLE MAN' STALLINGS DIES

Death occurred at his large plantation at Haddock, Ga., after a gallant fight against the ravages of heart disease.

Only members of the family and intimate friends were at the bedside when the end came. Death did not come unexpected, because Stallings staved death off longer than attending physicians predicted that he could. He fought his malady with the same gallant courage that marked his brilliant career on the diamond.

Stallings became "The Miracle Man" when he ran the Boston Braves from last position in the National League in July to win the pennant in October. That was in 1914, when Connie Mack's famous Athletics were in the height of their power. The Braves defeated the dope and the Athletics in four straight games in the world series that year.

He had gone to his plantation to recuperate, following a long fight against attack in a local hospital.

Stallings was afflicted with heart disease shortly after he took over the managerial reins of the Montreal club, in the International League. Even then he would have stuck by his guns had not physicians advised him that to do so would mean certain death.

PIRATES OPEN IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, May 13.—The Pirates are slated to make their season's bow here this afternoon against the tattered and torn Dodgers. Uncle Robbie's club is in the cellar of the National League and from present indications, the Robins are due for a long stay in the second division.

Glenn Wright, former star shortstop of the Pirates, is in uniform each day, but it isn't likely that the spread-eagle star will be able to contest against his old pals on account of the lame arm which has kept him out of action through most of the season.

Larry French, rising young left-hander of the Pirates, will work for Donie Bush. Jim Elliott may be on the job to make it a left-hand duel.

4 Held as Passers Of Counterfeit Bills

CHICAGO, May 13.—(AP.)—Four men, trailed as they left a string of countrfeit bills in several West Side stores, were arrested yesterday by city and Federal operatives, who believed that the men were members of a band that has been flooding the city for two months with bogus five, ten and twenty dollar bills.

Those arrested gave their names as Anthony Falkner, 32; Anthony Sallucco, 29; Vincent Sallucco, 25, and Barthomo De Felice, 38. They were held on technical charges while officers were attempting to round up others.

HELEN KANE

A. F. L. MAY ACT IN KANE CASE

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Arthur Hammerstein, theatrical producer, today announced his intention to appeal to the American Federation of Labor to compel Helen Kane, missing musical comedy star, to fulfill her contract.

Miss Kane disappeared from the cast of "Good Boy," a Hammerstein production, three or four days after it opened a Boston engagement.

The show, Hammerstein said, will close Saturday due to Miss Kane's walk out.

Miss Kane, Hammerstein said, has a contract to make talking pictures which does not become effective until June 1. He said he believed she was on her way to California and if he found that was a fact he would bring suit against the picture company.

He said his appeal to the Federation of Labor was planned because the Actors' Equity Association, which is affiliated with the federation, has no authority over motion pictures.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 13.—Mrs. Grace Keagler, 34, of 807 North Fifth avenue, Steubenville, O., wife of H. J. IN-LAWS GOT WIFE AFTER ONE DAY, CHARGE

A writ of habeas corpus was invoked today by Thomas E. Bevins, giving his address as 945 Liberty avenue, to regain his bride of a day, Stella Cousins Bevins, whom he alleged was being kept from him by her parents.

In his petition to Judge Thomas J. Ford, Bevins recounted his wedding last Friday at the Perrysville Presbyterian Church and his honeymoon of a day.

The next day, Bevins alleged, his wife and he were called to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Monoghan, on the plea that Mrs. Monoghan was ill.

They went and found Mrs. Monoghan in sufficient good health to seize Mrs. Bevins and lock her in a room, Bevins alleged. Meanwhile, according to Bevins, his wife's stepfather asked to see their marriage certificate, saw and confiscated it.

"We'd rather she'd die than let you have her," his in-laws told him, Bevins alleged. He has not seen his wife since, Bevins added.

Judge Ford set a hearing on the writ for Thursday.

KQV 'FORGIVEN' BY RADIO BOARD

KQV is again in the good graces of the Federal Radio Commission, it was learned today upon the return from Washington of W. Denny Shaler, vice president of the Doubleday-Hill Electric Company.

"Of course the Federal Radio Commission was irritated that the station did not file its license application in the stipulated time," Mr. Shaler told the Sun-Telegraph, "but arrangements were made by R. L. Robinson, chairman, to have the station reinstated. Mr. Robinson will make his recommendation to the entire commission and a license will be issued in a few days."

Had the commission chosen to inflict a penalty, KQV would have been liable to a $5,500 fine, representing $500 fine for each of 11 days the station was on the air without a license, Mr. Shaler said.

Nurse, Policeman's Slayer, Gets Life

DENVER, May 13.—(AP.)—Fayice King, nurse, who shot and killed John Bobzine, Denver policeman, as he lay asleep in a hospital bed recovering from wounds suffered in a police raid, has been sentenced to life imprisonment. Miss King heard the sentence without emotion. She requested that she be permitted to visit the grave of her baby and that of her victim before going to the prison.

Bobzine had been a sweetheart of Miss King, but later had married another.

Lindy and Mother Visit at Morrows'

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., May 13.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, to the home of his fiancee, Miss Anne Morrow, yesterday.

Wearing a red carnation in honor of Mother's Day, the colonel and his mother arrived early in the afternoon at the Morrow estate, where they were dinner guests.

LINDY HASN'T DRAWN PAY AS NATION'S AIR ADVISER

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP.)—Charles A. Lindbergh is not getting rich very fast from his position as advisor on aeronautics to the Department of Commerce.

Assistant Secretary MacCracken said today that Lindbergh has not drawn one cent in salary since his appointment about five months ago.

He is allowed $25 a day when his services are sought by the Commerce Department. Otherwise he gets nothing, MacCracken explained that no problem had arisen which required Lindbergh's advice.

Secretary Lamont said Lindbergh visited the department about 10 days ago and talked things over in an informal way. That was the first time the secretary and Lindbergh had met.

GRIEF-CRAZED SUICIDE, WIFE, TO LIE SIDE BY SIDE

Side by side, Fred D. Cumming, 56, and Grace Cumming, 38, will be laid at rest Tuesday in Beaver (Pa.) Cemetery, together even in death.

For 20 years they were Mr. and Mrs. Cumming, devoted and happy. Two children, Fred, Jr., and Jean, completed the Utopia that seemed to be their home at Oakview, Bradford Woods.

Until four years ago the Cummings lived in Wilkinsburg. Mrs. Cumming's health became affected. Her husband, an assistant cashier of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation after 29 years service, quit his position promptly, moved his family to an attractive bungalow in Bradford Woods, and devoted his remaining days to the care of his wife.

A month ago Mrs. Cumming became seriously ill of a heart condition. She died yesterday—Mother's Day.

A deep sadness hushed the home. Bewildered, Cumming asked only to be alone. His children, relatives, friends gave him solitude to mourn.

In a lonely room he scribbled a note to a sister. And then he chose to show the depth of his grief by firing a bullet through his brain. He would face the beyond with his wife.

The note had to do with the rearing of his two children, a sister, Mrs. Mary C. Marshall, of Rochester, said.

Cumming leaves his children and three sisters, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. E. D. Mellon, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Sarah Wilson, of Beaver.

Mrs. Cumming, who bore the same maiden name, leaves a sister, Marion, and three brothers, William, of Turtle Creek, J. M. Cumming, and D. S. Cumming, of Pittsburgh.

5 FLIERS DIE, 2 HURT IN CRASHES

By the Associated Press.

Five persons were killed and two others were injured in Sunday airplane crashes. One of four airplanes involved in the accidents was an Army pursuit ship and two others were borrowed planes.

Staff Sergt. Homer O. Johnson was killed and Lieut. C. K. Roath was injured seriously when the Army plane crashed shortly after taking off at Little Rock, Ark. The ship was one of 26 Army planes that had stopped at Little Rock on the way from Galveston, Tex., to Dayton, O., for air maneuvers.

STALLS TO AVERT CRASH

Lieut. Roath, the pilot, stalled his ship in an attempt to avoid a collision with two other planes of his flight, and it plunged 100 feet to the ground. Sergt. Johnson lived only 15 minutes after the crash.

The crash occurred in full view of several thousand spectators, who had thronged the field to see the landing and take-off of the squadron.

Raymond Kettenofen, 23, radio repair man and amateur pilot, and his brother, Gordon, 36, a bank teller, both of Los Angeles, lost their lives in a crash of a borrowed plane in a wind storm near Compton, a Los Angeles suburb.

STUNT EFFORT FATAL

An apparent attempt to stunt at a low altitude in a borrowed plane resulted in the death of Kenneth Graham, 25, a licensed pilot, and serious injury to Richard Dobbs, 23, a student pilot, at Eureka, Kan. Witnesses said the plane went into a spin at 400 feet and crashed.

500 ZIONISTS IN CONVENTION

More than 500 delegates from every state in the union are attending the fourteenth annual convention of the Mizarchi Zionist Organization, which opened in Hotel Schenley last night. It will continue through tomorrow.

Gedalia Bublick, president, delivered the opening address, declaring that "Palestine without traditional Judaism is like a body without a soul, and every believer in Palestine who does not lend himself to the consummation of that end is untrue to himself and his homeland."

In closing his address he declared that that "now, more than ever, the work of the Mizrachi organization is being reorganized all over the world. Greater strides in the upbuilding of Palestine have been made in the past year than ever before, with a corresponding increase in America."

Max Engelberg, chairman of arrangements, introduced Mayor Charles H. Kline, who welcomed the convention to Pittsburgh, and paid tribute to Rabbi M. A. Ashinsky, of Cleveland, formerly of Pittsburgh.

understand that Mrs. Longworth would accept no invitations were Mrs. Gann was to be seated as the ranking lady, and they also were given to understand, equally, that Mrs. Gann would accept no invitations where she wasn't.

SENATE GOGGLE-EYED

Imagine the senate's surprise today, then, when the two came into the vice president's gallery together! Several senators who are consistent "diners out" and know the details of the great conflict literally rubbed their eyes and looked again before they'd believe it.

Inquiry developed that Mrs. Longworth, a perennial Senate "fan," and Mrs. Gann had met, quite accidentally, in the elevator of the Capitol, both bound for the gallery.

Salutations were exchanged, and they strolled in together.

Accompanying them was Charles H. Magaw, an official of the Union Pacific Railroad. He diplomatically sat between them in the gallery.

Mrs. Longworth wore a long gray-blue coat, and small black hat. Mrs. Gann was in light blue, with a tan straw hat. She wore an orchid.

cALICE LEAVES EARLY

After about a half hour, Mrs. Longworth left, after shaking hands with her seat mates. Whether she became tired of being stared at by everybody was not apparent. Anyway she left, although she usually spends hours in the Senate gallery when there is anything going on.

"You seem to have cuased quite a stir."

"We've had more fun than we ever had in our lives," Mrs. Longworth retorted smiling. "I wanted to see what the press gallery would do as soon as they saw us."

LYNCHING QUIZ 'CLOSED'

MACON, Miss., May 13.—(AP.)—The lynching of Stever Jenkins, 65-year-old Negro for knifing Fred McBrayer, white plantation owner, was regarded today by Sheriff Walker as a closed incident.

The mob formed quickly, riddled the Negro's body with bullets and then as quickly dispersed. Members of the mob were unitentified, he said, and the affair was over before the officers knew about it.

McBrayer was 35 years old and left a wife and two children.

AGED WOMEN ADMIT DOPE ADDICTION AFTER RAID

Two aged women, confessed drug addicts, with a third woman and a man, were arraigned before Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today.

In a quavering voice, Anna Lowrie, 65, of 211 Sandusky street, testified she had been addicted to use of drugs for 40 years.

Maggie Marshall, 60, of Thompson avenue, East Liverpool, O., testified she had used drugs for 20 years.

They, along with Florence Wilson, 41, and Mike Bell, 58, all of whom stayed at the Sandusky street address, were turned over to the United States narcotic officers.

Arrest of the four was made yesterday, police said, after Bell tried to purchase morphine needles at North Side drug stores. Narcotics, hypodermic needles and syringes were found in possession of the Marshall and Lowrie women, police testified.

Bans Sunday Fete On 105th Birthday

WINCHESTER, Mass., May 13.—(AP.)—Miss Anne Dodd, whose respect for observance of Sunday was so strict that she declined even to celebrate her one hundred and fifth birthday yesterday, is enjoying festivities today instead. There were 25 candles on the cake and no more. Since her twenty-fifth birthday the number has been stationary and today was no exception.

That would be a good thing for Great Britain. Lloyd George is the ablest British leader in more than 100 years.

The former kaiser knows it. But for Lloyd George some of the Hohenzollerns might be living at Windsor now.

LOYD GEORGE relies largely on Baldwin's extravagance. He says: "With no expectation of fighting anyone by land, sea or air, the wasteful Conservative government is spending $60 per family on maintenance of British armed forces."

Unemployment will hurt the Tories more than financial extravagance. Income taxpayers bear the expense. Labor will vote against lack of jobs, caring little how the money of the prosperous is wasted.

His protest against paying a dole to idle men, instead of making them useful, at real work, should appeal to Britain's common sense.

IN this country we let the idle look out for themselves, a good enough plan, while prosperity lasts. We may have to change it.

Britain's laboring class has learned to think, a little, and may disappoint Lloyd George by voting the Labor party in.

It depends largely on the young British girls that will vote this year for the first time.

Statesmanship finds itself obliged to ask: "What do women think and want?" An excellent thing for the women and the nation.

RIOTOUS JERSEY VOTE BATTLE NEARS END

JERSEY CITY, May 13.—(AP.)—After a rough and tumble campaign between Mayor Frank Hague and the fusion organization seeking to end his 16-year rule, voters will decide the issue tomorrow.

The battle has been marked by egg throwing and arrests of speakers. The opposition has charged that the Hague organization collected campaign contributions from policemen and sent those who refused to pay to the "woods."

The candidates are Mayor Hague and four other Democratic city commissioners seeking re-election. Opposed to them is a fusion ticket of three Anti-Hague Democrats and two Republicans. The Board of Commissioners elects one of its number mayor.

James Burkitt, self-styled "Jeffersonian Democrat," has led the opposition forces. His activities against the mayor have landed him in jail three times and he wound up his campaign while at liberty under bail on an appeal from a 90-day sentence as a disorderly person. One of his aids faces a six-months' sentence on a similar charge. Burkitt has been pelted with eggs and dodged stones at his campaign meetings.

Mayor Hague is a power in New Jersey state politics. He is vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee in the eastern states.

His administration is under investigation by a special legislative committee on charges including corruption, payroll padding, illegal contracts and waste of public funds.

SURGEON TO BE HERE

The latter physician will be in the United States for the Surgeons' Congress, and will attend the boxer's bride as soon as she is able to undergo the second operation.

Dr. Fritz Meyer, in an exclusive interview with International News Service here, described how the heiress bride of the ex-champion was stricken on the isolated island, and hurriedly operated on against the terrific obstacles of meagre facilities.

"It was a matter of life and death," Dr. Meyer declared. "I diagnosed the case as ulcer trouble, and we decided that an immediate operation was necessary."

DONE IN KITCHEN

Surgical instruments were hurriedly brought from Pola Harbor, on the Italian mainland, and we performed the operation on a table in the kitchen.

"We could not remove the appendix at the time because of the prevailing circumstances."

The doctor said that Mrs. Tunney was extremely brave throughout the ordeal, and that Tunney himself was very nervous. He also revealed that George Bernard Shaw, the famous British playwright and author, who also is vacationing at Brioni, was in the house at the time the operation was performed.

DUPONT TRUSTS OF $16,000,000 UNCOVERED

COATESVILLE, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—Three additional trust funds totaling $16,000,000 created by the late Philip F. Dupont have been uncovered by tax investigators in Chester County and bring his whole estate to an estimated figure of $24,000,000. The University of Virginia, which he attended, may receive the major portion of this estate, it was revealed.

As a result of the revelation of these trust funds, the investigators have filed a demand for $700,000 additional inheritance taxes.

Dupont died May 17, 1928, and his will was probated several days later. Under its terms, his personal estate, valued at $8,000,000, was left in trust to the widow, Elizabeth H. Dupont. Upon her death the fund would go in trust for his two daughters, and should they die without children, the estate would go to the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.

The three trust funds recently uncovered were created several years ago. One fund, totalling $11,000,000, is to provide $6,000,000 for the University of Virginia for the eduvation of needy students. The balance and the other two funds are left for the widow and daughters, with the provision that should there be no other descendants the University of Virginia shall receive all but $4,000,000.

BOY RUN DOWN BY AUTO DIES

Seven-year-old Henry Charles Arnold, Jr., was feeling like all healthy boys feel on Friday night, when school is ended for the week. He had returned home from East Street School, had something to eat and started to plan for a busy week-end.

"Dad," said Henry, "will you give me two pennies? I want to get some candy for Ruth and me," Ruth is Henry's 4-year-old sister.

His plea granted, Henry ran from his home at 1611 East street to the store. He was crossing the street in front of the home when an automobile struck him. Two pennies rattled along East street.

The driver, Arthur Niemeyer, of 1838 Spring Garden avenue, who rushed Henry to the hospital, is being held for the coroner.

WOMAN'S BODY IN RIVER

ROCHESTER, Pa., May 13.—Mystery veiled identity of a woman, nude except for one slipper, found in the Ohio River here today.

Structural iron workers employed on the Rochester-Monaca Bridge, under construction, saw the body floating on the water. It was recovered by men in a skiff and taken to undertaking rooms of Hartzel Brothers, here.

The slipper, lone clue to the woman's identity, is black, with a high heel and was held to her foot by a strap. The body had been in the water so long that an accurate estimate of her age or description of her physical proportions was impossible, the undertakers said.

mentalist secretary of the board of trustees.

Several automobiles were in readiness, the students said, for quick getaway in the plan to "kidnap" Miss Rebman and spirit her to Canada.

A lone policeman patroled the campus.

Dr. Wayman, in a short talk to the students, pleaded with them to disperse.

BOARD AMOURS CHARGED

The disorder of Saturday came to a head after a meeting of the trustees called to investigate charges of some of the students involving Dr. T. T. Shields, 61, Toronto,, chairman, and Miss Rebman, 40, secretary of the board. In the background also were reports of a Fundamentalist-Modernist controversy and contentions that the board had imported Canadian students to spy upon members of the faculty.

Dr. Shields and Miss Rebman were said by their accusers to have registered together in a hotel suite. The trustees found the charges "without foundation." Dissatisfaction among the student body increased and a second meeting of the trustees followed Saturday night.

Students bombarded the Administration Building, in which the trustees met, with eggs and other missiles. Police were called to disperse the rioters and Dr. Shields and Miss Rebman were escorted to the railroad station under police guard to return to their homes.

300 PETITIONERS

Application for the temporary writ of injunction was made by six students of the university and asked that the president of the school and its board of trustees be restrained from closing the university during the remainder of the current semester and from taking any action which might interfere with the regular operation of the university.

The petition further demanded the defendants be restrained in any way from limiting the degree of instruction or limiting the granting of credits.

Plaintiffs listed are Kathryn Schrenenberger, Howard Sauer, Ralph Zundel, Frances Fox, F. A. Johnson and Harvey Smith, who stated they were acting on the part of themselves and 300 other students of the university.

The defendants include all members of the Des Moines University board of trustees and its principal officers.

COURT MAY HEAR SINCLAIR CASE

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(INS.)—Harry F. Sinclair started the second week of his 90-day sentence for contempt of the United States Senate in the district jail here today.

The day was fraught with possibilities for the oil magnate who temporarily has turned pharmacist to some 500 convicts. At the capitol, the United States Supreme Court is sitting for the purpose of handing down decisions, and it was considered probable one of these decisions might be that bearing on Sinclair's appeal from a second jail sentence of six months, imposed upon him for having the jury shadowed in his first criminal conspiracy trial.

Sinclair went about his duties in the jail dispensary this morning contemplating the prospects of remaining right where he is for some time after July 19, the date upon which he would be released for the contempt charge.

Yesterday was his first visitors' day, but neither his wife nor his mother appeared at the penal institution. It was understood Sinclair requested them not to come so as to spare them the ordeal of running the gantlet of photographers and reporters.

Queensland Labor Government Beaten

BRISBANE, Australia, May 13.—(AP.)—The general election for the Queensland legislative Assembly resulted in a crushing defeat for the Labor government, which had held office for 14 years. Before the election the Laborites had 43 seats and the Nationalists 29. The new figures give the Nationalists 44, Labor 26 and Independents 2.

PHILA. MAYOR TAKES LEAD IN EAST

Beginning today the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph campaign urging Congress to reduce the tax on earned incomes becomes state-wide in its scope. In Philadelphia, Harrisburg and other cities thousands of petitions are being placed in circulation in a movement that encompasses Pennsylvania.

Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia is directing the eastern canvass.

The circulation of petitions is being started in Philadelphia City Hall and in the numerous banks and trust companies of that city. Before the end of the week the officials and employes of the large mercantile establishments and office building tenants will be given an opportunity to sign.

INTENSIVE DRIVE HERE

The success that has attended the campaign in Western Pennsylvania is expected to be repeated in Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Scranton and all the populous centers in the central and eastern portions of the state. The canvass will be extended to the great industries of the Delaware, including the shipyards and docks, the locomotive works, the steel plants and textile mills.

The opening of the campaign in the eastern part of the state will be supplementary to the work that has been carried on in the local territory and will not interfere with the intensive efforts that are being put forth here.

In obtaining signatures among officers and employes it is the aim to get 100 per cent representation on all petitions, and the returns made thus far this goal has been reached in many instances. Among the banks which have made exceptionally large returns in signatures today are: First National at Pittsburgh, Peoples Savings and Trust Company, Farmers Deposit National, Colonial Trust Company, Marine National, Pittsburgh Trust Company, All Nations Bank and the Monongahela National. In other institutions the petitions are still in circulation.

STORES ACTIVE

Among the department stores which are making heavy returns opposing the tax on earned incomes are Gimbels, McCreery's, Boggs & Buhl's, Meyer Jonasson's, Rosenbaum's and Frank & Seder's, and in all the others the petitions have been placed for signature. In the various chain stores managers and employes have joined the campaign.

The greatest industrial group to join in the petitions for income tax relief is that composed of the officers and employes of the Westinghouse plants, where the signing of petitions will be taken up through the shop and office organizations.

SEEK FARM AID PASSAGE TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP.)—More than a score of amendments to the farm relief bill remained to be acted upon today by the Senate. None embodied threats of prolonged controversy, however, and Chairman McNary, of the Agriculture Committee, in charge of the measure, was hopeful that it could be passed before adjournment today, or at latest tomorrow.

The immediate future of the bill and the possibility of completing congressional action on it in time to apply the farm relief machinery it contemplates to this year's crops was heavily clouded, meanwhile, by the likelihood of a controversy between the Senate and House over the right of the former, under the Constitution, to initiate export debenture legislation.

Ordinarily, the Senate bill, after passage, would be sent to the House and, with the measure passed by that chamber, be submitted promptly to a joint committee for adjustment of differences. But the principal difference between the two farm bills is the bitterly disputed debenture section adopted by the Senate, which President Hoover opposes and the House omitted from the measure it passed.

Negro Youths Fail Naval Academy Test

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 13.—(AP.)—Results of examinations for entrance to the United States Naval Academy, announced today, showed that neither of the Negro youths nominated by Congressman Oscar DePriest, of Chicago, would be among the entrants in June of the class of 1933. One of them, Lawrence Alexander Whitefield, of Chicago, did not appear for the examination and the papers from the mental examinations indicated that the other Negro candidate, Claude Hansen Burns, failed to make a passing grade.

Robbers Beat Man And Steal Canaries

MAPLEWOOD, N. J., May 13.—(AP.)—Six men with a fondness for canaries entered the home of Joseph Garnane here, bound the owner and his wife and fled with birds valued at $3,000. The men made no attempt to extend their robberies or to search the house.

HOOVER PLANS 8-WEEK TOUR OF SOUTH

WASHINGTON, May 13.—President Hoover plans a wide tour of the United States and a visit to foreign shores immediately after adjournment of Congress.

His trip will keep him constantly on the go from seven to eight weeks, ending with a short vacation at his old home at Palo Alto, Cal.

For the most part his traveling will be through the Southern states. He has invitations from nearly all of them and plans to accept as many as possible. He also expects to board a battleship for a tour of the West Indies, a visit to Panama and Mexico.

Naturally the President will be able to remain in any one place for only a short while, so for the time he is touring the United States he will virtually live on a special train.

He contemplates visiting Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, the gulf states and several resorts in Texas. From there he will probably go to the Pacific Coast, where he will board a battleship to begin his foreign cruise.

The President's itinerary may either take him through the Panama Canal and thence to the West Indies, after which he would visit Mexico, or he may land on the west coast of Mexico and go overland to Mexico City.

The general assumption, however, is that the President will visit Panama first, then go through the canal. From there he plans to go to Porto Rico, Cuba and the Virgin Islands and cross the gulf to Vera Cruz for the much shorter and more comfortable overland route to Mexico City. He would return to Vera Cruz, board the battleship and return to the United States at the most convenient port.

If there remains sufficient time before the convening of the next regular session of Congress and affairs of state permit, he will go to his old home for a rest.

5 DIE WHEN BUS HITS TRUCK

MONROE, Mich., May 13.—(AP.)—Four passengers were killed, another died from injuries and 10 others are in a hospital here as the result of a bus-truck collision five miles south of here yesterday. The bus was bound from Toledo to Detroit.

The dead are Frank Vinderich, 21, Trenton, Mich.; H. Westerman, 40, Chicago; unidentified girl about 16; Mrs. Emma Maurettua, 66, Los Angeles, and an unidentified man about 42, who had a Grand Hotel, of Cleveland, card in his pocket.

The bus, county officials declare, crashed into a truck loaded with automobile tires which was parked along the road while the driver is understood by County Prosecutor McAram, to have been making repairs.

E. D. Waring, 26, of Cleveland, Ohio, driver, of the bus, declared that he was blinded by lights from an approaching automobile and did not see the truck until it was too late to avoid the crash.

Auto Kills Girl, 8; Driver in Custody

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 13.—Paul Phillips, 30, of Salem, O., is detained by police on a charge of voluntary manslaughter, pending an inquest by Coroner Harry C. McCarter into the death of Dorothy Herr, 8, of North Sewickley Township. The girl was run down by an automobile driven by Phillips Saturday night, police report. She died Sunday afternoon in the Providence Hospital here.

Day of Little Red School House Near End

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP.)—Dr. William J. Cooper, recently appointed head of the United States Bureau of Education, believes that the little red school house should be relegated as rapidly as possible to things of the past.

Dr. Cooper has nothing in particular against the little red school house, but he believes that to obtain best results the educational system should be organized in larger units. Instead of having one teacher to a building, as pictured in word and song, he would have school houses in large administrative centers, supplying complete elementary and secondary courses. In sparsely settled sections of the country, he suggests, it might be necessary to have board and lodging furnished for some of the students.

AWAIT SCHACHT DEBT REPORT

PARIS, May 13.—(AP.)—The experts' conference on reparations entered its fourteenth week today with the creditor nation delegates marking time, awaiting return of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, German spokesman, from Essen.

The feeling was that upon the measure of compromise which he exhibited upon his return the conference itself depended, and that whatever the result of his conversations with Ruhr Valley industrialists at Essen, this week would be the last of the financiers' long labors.

Dr. Schacht, not arriving in Paris until late today, was expected to go almost immediately into conference with Sir Josiah Stamp, British head of the subcommittee which is drawing up a report of the experts' work. Between them they are expected to write into that report the last word of the Germans on their reservations to acceptance of figures proposed by Owen D. Young.

Tomorrow this deport of the subcommittee, which was appointed three weeks ago when abruptness of German counter proposals had apparently broken up the conference, will be submitted to a plenary session of the experts.

Man in Auto Crash Died Natural Death

BUTLER, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—An Associated Press story of May 8, concerning suit for damages against Dr. W. H. McCombs, of Pittsburgh, as the result of an automobile accident here, was incorrect in mentioning the death of W. R. Provost, of Overbrook.

The original story said that Provost, a passenger in the McCombs car, died a month later. The intimation that he died as a consequence of the accident, was incorrect. Testimony in the case showed that Mr. Provost, only slightly injured in the accident, died of natural causes in a Pittsburgh hospital almost two months later.

Two Street Cars Held Up in Erie

ERIE, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—Two street car conductors and a store were robbed here yesterday. State police recovered $58 in a strong box taken from one of the conductors. Fifty dollars taken from another conductor and $50 reported to have been rifled from the Erie Carpet Company's cash register were not recovered.

ACCUSED 'DRY' NEAR DEATH

ABINGDON, Va., May 13.—(INS.)—Petitions were being circulated here today calling upon Gov. Harry Byrd to launch an investigation of the fatal shooting of J. M. Kendrick, 17-year-old Emory and Henry College student, who was killed by the bullets of officers while in pursuit of a suspected rum-running automobile.

The officers, Policeman James Reynolds and Deputy Sheriffs James Crowe and William Worley, are under $5,000 bail each on a homicide charge. Since the shooting, Crowe has been stricken with nervous prostration, complicated by heart disease. Physicians say his illness may prove fatal.

Many signatures have been obtained to the petitions, it is reported. The appeal to Gov. Byrd also asks that the executive ascertain why the three officers have not been suspended from duty.

No liquor was found in Kendrick's car, nor was he or either of his two companions, Paul Phelps and Sterling Dutton, intoxicated, physicians said.

Lake Yields Bodies Of Drowned Youths

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—The bodies of Charles Weda, 18, and Daniel Thomas, 20, both of Hanover Township, who drowned Saturday, were recovered yesterday from Sylvan Lake, near Sweet Valley, this county.

Weda and Thomas, with four other young men, were trying out a new motor boat which they had constructed with an automobile engine as the motive power. On the second trip around the lake the craft capsied. Weda and Thomas were caught under the sinking craft. The others were rescued by men in rowboats.

Forest Fires Menace Canadian Park

WINNEPEG, Man., May 13.—(AP.)—The Prince Albert National Park, one of Western Canada's beauty spots, last night was threatened by forest fires which have been raging over a wide area for more than a week. Other less serious fires continued to level valuable timber lands in other parts of Saskatchewan, but reports from The Pas indicated that the menace in Manitoba had been subdued.

Wide swathes had been cut across the path of the fires in The Pas and last reports were that the fires were "surrounded" there.

Handbills Listing Alleged 'Oases' Flood Wheeling

WHEELING, W. Va., May 13.—(AP.)—Thousands of handbills naming a score or more places in Wheeling where, it was said, liquor was being sold or gambling carried on, were distributed over the city yesterday. Police arrested a Negro and a newsboy on charges of distributing handbills without a city license. Both said they were given the bills and paid in advance by a stranger.

Sheriff Ambros. Habig, of Ohio County, blamed "interests antagnized by my refusal to permit slot machines to return." He said all the places named were in the city and subject to supervision of Wheeling police.

B. J. Cardell and Harry Hawker, said by police to be partners in the business of installing vending machines, were arrested and released under $25 bond each for a hearing on charges of distributing handbills without a license.

BREAK-PROOF JAIL BROKEN AGAIN, 4 FUGITIVES SOUGHT

ELDORADO, Ark., May 13.—(AP.)—Search was being continued today for four men, three of them alleged members of the Asa Pendleton gang, who locked the jailer and a trusty guard in cells and staged the second break from Union County's new "break proof" jail yesterday.

The four, Claude Burnett, Joe Streiter, Owen Edwards and Carl Bray, were believed to be in hiding in the bottoms adjacent to the Ouachita River east of Eldorado.

Burnett, Streiter and Edwards were to have gone on trial in Circuit Court here today on charges of bank robbery in connection with the robbery of a Junction City (Ark.) bank several months ago. Burnett and Streiter participated in a jail break from the Union County jail April 3. Bray was held on a minor charge.

The quartet escaped yesterday by placing a broken domino between the door and the frame, preventing the door from locking after Jailer L. J. Harman handed them food. He placed his keys in the lock of another cell and the men pushed open their door, took his keys and locked him in another cell. Sam Eads, a trusty, also was locked in the cell. The men escaped by automobiles.

FLOWER SHOW BEAUTY SPOT

Blooming gardens and woodland patches are among the features attracting visitors to the Pittsburgh Flower and Garden Show in the Urban ballroom and Silver salon of the William Penn Hotel.

With various civic organizations sponsoring each day during the exhibit, which opened yesterday and will close on Saturday, the Fruit and Flower Mission members are in charge today. Leading florists and organizations have co-operated with the Eppley Hotels Company in arranging the show, lending skill and creative genius towards making it one of the most picturesque ever staged in the city.

Among the other organizations sponsoring the show are the Tuesday Musical Club, Junior League, Woman's City Club and the Civic Club of Allegheny County. The latter organization will hold its annual meeting on Friday while sponsoring the exhibit and will be in charge of the luncheon in the ballroom.

FOUR BOY SCOUT TROOPS SPEND NIGHT IN OPEN

A night in the open is part of the training Boy Scouts of the East Boroughs council have received in preparation for their annual jamboree in Frick Woods, May 31 and July 1. Four troops from Edgewood and Wilkinsburg spent Saturday night on Clayton hill.

They established camps and spent the week-end in instruction in fire building, first aid and other training incidental to life in the woods. The troops participating in the week-end encampment were No. 9, 22 and 1 from Wilkinsburg, and the Edgewood troop.

The boys were in charge of O. F. Rowe and H. E. Ransford, both of Wilkinsburg.

FIND STOWAWAY ON ZEPPELIN

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 13.—(INS.)—A young stowaway, who had hoped to be a 'passenger" on the Graf Zeppelin on its forthcoming trip to the United States, was discovered in the crew's quarters today. He was ordered to "make himself scarce," and Dr. Hugo Eckener, head of the Zeppelin works, declared that any further stowaways found on the ship would be prosecuted.

When the ship departs for Lakehurst, N. J., Wednesday morning she will carry 59 persons, including passengers and crew.

There will be no women among the passengers.

A female gorilla named "Missi," consigned to the Chicago Zoo, will be carried.

Dr. Eckener announced that he will probably avoid the short northern route, over England, on account of bad weather. He probably will choose the southern route, either over Bordeaux, the Azores and Bermuda, or above Gibralter, Maderia and Bermuda. It is even possible Dr. Eckener may take a more southerly course, although the distance would be twice that of the northern route.

"We know nothing about any plans to sell the Graf Zeppelin to America," Capt. Lehmann, first officer of the Graf, told International News Service.

Capt. Lehmann denied any intention of landing in England on the return trip of the dirigible.

GAS RATE RAISE STANDS, FEAR

Pittsburgh gas consumers face the necessity of paying the increased rates sustained recently by the Public Service Commission, according to a letter submitted to Council today by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

Waldschmidt declared that judging from the reports of the commission's findings, there could be little hope of winning a verdict refusing the increased rates if the case were carried to the Superior Court.

Waldschmidt asked Council to grant him an executive session to discuss the problem as any further moves, such as appealing to the higher courts would involve large expense.

The city solicitor said he received little encouragement from adjoining municipalties when he sought to enlist their co-operation for further litigation.

Murder Witness Held for Perjury

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 13.—(AP.)—Jack Quinn, surprise witness in the first mistrial of Walter Liggett on charges of slaying Turney Cunningham last fall, faced trial in Criminal Court today on perjury charges growing out of his testimony in Liggett's defense.

Quinn's trial will precede any further action coincident with the defendant's second mistrial, reported last week, as a result of which Liggett, B. P. Osburn, a juror, and Rainey Creswell, grocer and Liggett's friend, were involved in charges of bribery.

HOOVER FROWNS ON TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(INS.)—That the new Hawley tariff bill has gone considerably beyond President Hoover's ideas of a "limited tariff revision" and that the President is not entirely satisfied with the measure as at present drafted was the gist of representations in informed quarters here today.

General debate on the bill was to be resumed in the House today with dissatisfaction among Republican members reported to have been somewhat appeased by the promise that the measure will not be taken up for amendment without hearing the pleas of Western farm groups.

Another conference of Republican representatives was believed imminent. This conference, it was said, would constitute an attempt to arrive at a definite understanding as to the application of the special rule which will control consideration of the new bill at the conclusion of general debate on the floor.

Reds Jailed in Vienna For Parade Attacks

VIENNA, May 13.—(AP.)—Thirty Communists, including the notorious leader, Karl Toman, were arrested yesterday for attempt to throw marching columns of Fascist and Socialist demonstrators into confusion and resisting the efforts of police.

Vienna resembled a huge military camp with large bodies of police held in readiness for possible clashes but the sight of these preparations combined with a heavy downfall of rain dampened the ardor of the demonstrators.

FRENCHMEN PLAN 30-HOUR NEW YORK-TO-PARIS FLIGHT

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Setting themselves a schedule of 30 hours in which to reach Paris, Three French fliers hope to soar away from Roosevelt Field, L. I., within 10 days in a huge single motored monoplane. If successful the air riders, Rene LeFevre, Armeno Lotti, Jr., and Jean Assallant, would better by three hours the record established in 1927 by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Lotti, financial backer of the flight, said the venture would be attempted simply out of sportsmanship.

The monoplane, a Bernard, powered with a 600-horsepower Hispano-Suiza engine, has been at Roosevelt Field undergoing a tuning-up for the past week. All is now ready for flight, Lotti said, the capability tests of the plane having been made in France prior to its being brought to this country on the Leviathan last week by Lefreve.

The flight will be over the great circle route. Le Bourget Field is the objective. The plane has a cruising speed of 130 miles per hour and can be accelerated to 140.

Monongahela Church Plans New Building

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 13.—The congregation of the First Church of Christ in Monongahela has made final plans for the erection of a new building in Chess street, adjacent to the present building. The plans include the remodeling of the old church building into Sunday School classrooms. A gymnasium will be included.

CANTON SAVED AS CASH HALTS KWANGSI INVASION

CANTON, China, May 13.—(A.P.)—The Kwangsi armies which advanced on this rich commercial city from three sides have been bought off. The Cantonese military authorities today announced that an armistice had been arranged and the general looting and confiscation which would have been a consequence of capture seemed to be averted.

The panic of the populace, which already had been under fire, was measurably lessened.

Although details of the settlement were not revealed, it appeared to be another instance where silver coin was substituted for lead bullets in Chinese warfare. The Kwangsi leaders virtually dictated the terms for the positions their armies occupied and made capture of the city a foregone conclusion.

It was understood that the Kwangtung government agreed to pay $570,000 Mexican monthly for an indefinite period, to supply additional military supplies and also a large body of troops for patrol duties, subject to the command of the Kwangsi clique.

It also was reported that the Cantonese had agreed to allow the Kwangsi leaders to resume their alleged opium trade down the West River, which the Cantonese recently interrupted by confiscating opium shipments passing through the city.

Another reported demand which was understood to have been granted was the removal of the civil governor of Kwangtung and the chiefs of the Cantonese army and navy. The advance of the Kwangsi soldiers had halted and political differences between the two provinces appeared to be at an end, although for how long was another question. The Central bank of Canton reopened and its notes rose in value to within 75 per cent of par.

Driver of Gas Truck, Burned in Upset, Dies

Carl Bowen, 26, of Imperial, died yesterday in the West Penn Hospital of burns suffered Saturday when gasoline flowing from a tank in a truck he was driving near Imperial ignited after the truck upset. Deputy coroners today were making an effort to determine how the accident occurred.

SWISS VOTERS CRUSH DRYS

GENEVA, May 13.—(A.P.)—Prohibition in the United States has not inspired the Swiss to follow the example. Yesterday the inhabitants of the Swiss Confederation delivered a crushing defeat to an initiative bill which was not to establish general prohibition but merely to authorize local option as to whether sale of hard liquors should be permitted.

Every one of the 24 Cantons rejected the measure by an overwhelming majority and the total vote was impressively negative. The initiative, if it had been accepted, would have given cities and towns the right to vote on whether liquors containing a heavy percentage of alcohol should be allowed to be sold in their precincts. Beers and wines would not have been affected.

Temperance organizations had waged a strong campaign for acceptance of the law on the ground that the Swiss people were ruining their health by too great consumption of strong liquor.

Mother of Three Held in Dry Raid

Harmar township police said three gallons of alleged moonshine liquor was confiscated when they raided the home of Mrs. Mary Stabick, 31, of Oakmont, mother of three children, and arrested the woman. John Wolfe, arrested by a Harmarville constable, had told of purchasing a quart of liquor found in his automobile from the woman. Chief of Police Charles Helwig said she had been arrested half a dozen times within two years.

DENY KNOWING DEAL IN POWER REPORTS

The Duquesne Light Company has no record of whatever service may have been performed for it by Samuel S. Wyer, consulting engineer, who testified before the Federal Trade Commission Saturday that he had been employed by that corporation to make reports discrediting public ownership of power utilities.

Wyer's connection with the company was a confidential one, and he was responsible only to Arthur W. Thompson, former president of the Philadelphia Company, of which Duquesne Light is a subsidiary, F. R. Phillips, vice president of the Duquesne Light Company declared today.

If the Duquesne Light Company paid $15,000 or any sum to Wyer for disseminating propaganda in the interests of the alleged power trust, only Thompson knew of it, Phillips declared.

Thompson, who retired from active business six months ago, could not be reached today.

Phillips said Wyer had been employed as a consultant on electrolysis. Wyer told the commission he had been employed ot make a survey of the government-owned Ontario Power Company. His report, not sufficiently adverse, he said, was rejected by Duquesne Light, but later was issued through the Smithsonian Institution as a subsidized pamphlet.

BURKE GUILTY, JURY FINDS

John Burke, of Twenty-sixth street, heavyweight pugilist who twice fought Gene Tunney, retired champion, was found guilty, along with two others, of violating the liquor laws in Criminal Court today.

Assad Coury, of Webster avenue, and John Battell, of Bedford avenue, also were convicted. Sentence was deferred until Visiting Judge W. T. Darr, of Union County, who presided at the trial, returns.

Police testified that on August 24 last, Battell was found in Coury's garage placing three 5-gallon cans of moonshine in Burke's auto. Burke was alleged to have been waiting on a corner nearby. All three denied the charge.

Burke was outpointed by Tunney at Motor Square Garden, prior to becoming champion, and again at Madison Square Garden.

Man's Death Not Due To Auto Injuries

BUTLER, Pa., May 13.—(A.P.)—An Associated Press story of May 8, concerning suit for damages against Dr. W. H. McCombs, of Pittsburgh, as the result of an automobile accident here, was incorrect in mentioning the death of W. R. Provost, of Overbrook. The original story said that Provost, a passenger in the McCombs car, died a month later. The intimation that he died as a consequence of the accident was incorrect. Testimony in the case showed that Mr. Provost died of natural causes in a Pittsburgh hospital almost two months later.

6 Leap from Car, Give Man Beating

Paul Lyons, of 6437 Forward avenue, today was nursing severe cuts and bruises administered early yesterday by six men, who leaped from an automobile at Lilac street and Murray avenue. Lyons, according to police, was standing in the street when the assailants pulled alongside of him and beat him. He was treated at the Homestead Hospital.

Police who questioned him could find no motive for the attack after learning that nothing had been stolen from the victim.

Site for Carlisle Airport Selected

CARLISLE, Pa., May 13.—The Real Estate Board here has completed arrangements for the establishment of Carlisle's airport five and a half miles northeast of Carlisle on the Carlisle-Harrisburg highway, route 11. Limited aerial taxi lines will be operated under the direction of Charles Biggins. The port will be on a number of the trans-continental lines.

First Air Traffic Policeman Is on Job

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 13.—(INS.)—The first air traffic cop made his appearance here yesterday. Attired in a white cover-all suit, the "fly cop" stood at the head of the take-off runway and gave stop and go signals to planes taxiing out to begin a flight.

3 Convicts Escape W. Va. Prison Farm

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., May 13.—(A.P.)—"Bud" Wise, 21, and Albert Lichliter, 25, both serving one-year terms from Hampshire County for burglary, and L. O. Gallagher, 33, serving two years from Cabell County for grand larceny, escaped from the prison farm yesterday and were still at liberty today.

SAVED FROM DRIFTING BARGE BY POLICE BOAT

As a navigator, Stanley Molinsky, 45, of South Seventeenth stret, is a good watchman. He is convinced of that today—yesterday, up to the time he started down the Ohio River alone on a barge, he may not have been quite so sure.

Stanley is a watchman for the Rodgers Sand Company at the foot of Chateau street, North Side. Early yesterday morning one of the flatboats, loosened in some undetermined manner, drifted out into the stream with Stanley aboard.

Unable to swim, the watchman set up a cry for help. Passing Brunots Island, he succeeded in attracting the attention of some men who notified police.

River Patrolman Charles Snyder was sent in pursuit with a city motorboat. Patrolman Snyder enlisted the aid of Barney Rogan, a ferryman, and the two boats overtook the barge about two miles above the Emsworth dam. Molinsky was rescued, none the worse for his experience.

Autoist Takes Child To Hospital, Flees

Braddock police today were searching for a man who yesterday fled from the Braddock General Hospital with Paul Dvondick, 2, after hospital attendants had treated the child for injuries suffered when he fell from the man's automobile. He gave his name as Penyal, and said he lived at 172 Hickory street, Etna. The child's skull was fractured, surgeons said.

Penyak took the boy to the hospital, saying he lived at his home and had fallen from the running board of the car while playing.

COUNTY OFFERS THREE ASYLUM

If Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Penna, held at Cambridge, Mass., with a 6-weeks-old baby, as public charges, wish to come home to Allegheny, County as such the county will accept them, but they cannot be forced to return, H. H. Dixon, president of the county board of poor directors, declared today.

The Pennas were held at Cambridge after welfare workers had investigated their case. Inquiry showed they were residents, not of Massachusetts, but of Brackenridge, Pa.

Dixon said Penna, 29, and his wife, 24, would be admitted to the county home at Woodville, since their legal residence is in this county. The couple has refused to return, however, and in Dixon's opinion it would be illegal to compel them.

CALIFORNIA AIR CRASH KILLS GERMAN ACE

TRONA, Cal., May 13.—(A.P.)—Bernard Lauscher, German ace, who was shot out of the skies twice during the World War and escaped alive, fell the victim of a tricky wind here yesterday and fell to his death while attempting to land a barnstorming plane.

The aviator, who was credited with bringing down two French and three British planes, died of a broken neck shortly after gusty weather tipped the three-place plane he was piloting into a steep bank and sent it careening to the earth from 50 feet in the air.

Edouard L. Clatte and James Bell, his companions on a flight from Long Beach, Cal., are in the Randsburg (Cal.) Hospital, 40 miles west of here, seriously injured. Bell was owner of the plane, with which he had carried sightseers from Trona and other desert towns over Death Valley on week-end excursions.

During the war, Lauscher was shot down from 10,000 feet altitude by French anti-aircraft guns which tore away his plane controls. He came to earth on German territory, and although seriously injured, returned to his squadron several months later. A second time, his war plane was disabled in combat, a stray bullet setting it afire. He escaped in a parachute.

At the time of his death, Lauscher was planning to fly a big passenger ship from Long Beach to Guatemala within few days.

After the war, the pilot had barnstormed Germany, and flown a Deutsche Lufthansa transport liner. He came to the United States in 1927 and joined a Milwaukee flying school as an instructor. Later he moved to Long Beach, where for eight months he had been connected with a flying school.

Negro Killed in Odd Motor Accident

SHARON, Pa., May 13.—Riding with his head out of an auto window, the glass of which previously had been shattered, Sol Polite, 34, Negro, of Youngstown, O., lost his life when his jugular vein was severed. The machine went into a ditch when the driver attempted to light a cigaret.

RIVER STEAMER AGROUND, MAY BE LOST

CINCINNATI, O., May 13.—(AP.)—The Island Queen, 1,800-ton pleasure boat of the Coney Island resort here, was stranded at the river gate to the island yesterday and officials said the rapid fall in the waters of the Ohio River might leave the vessel hung up the remainder of the season or might cause its destruction.

Augmented by a fall in the river level of more than four feet in 24 hours, a small wind squall blew the vessel to the flats last night and all efforts to get her off failed. Officials of the company, faced with the possibility of a million dollar loss, sent for John Eichleay, engineer and river expert of Pittsburgh, who will bring divers to watch the boat's condition and ascertain what can be done to save her.

The sister ship, the Island Maid, was destroyed by fire recently. The Island Queen was capable of carrying 4,000 persons.

The river, near the 37 foot stage, is falling at the rate of two inches an hour.

NEGRO SLAYER KILLED BY MOB

MACON, Miss., May 13.—(AP.)—Steve Jenkins, 65, Negro, was shot to death by a mob near here Saturday, immediately after he had stabbed and killed Fred McCrayber, 35, a planter. Officers said McCrayber and Jenkins had disagreed over the terms of a share crop contract.

The story told by McCrayber's neighbors was that Jenkins became dissatisfied with his contract and left McCrayber's plantation. McCrayber went after him, and a fight began when the two met near Macon.

McCrayber was stabbed repeatedly with a long-bladed "switch knife," three blows striking the heart. A mob formed quickly and captured and killed Jenkins before officers arrived.

The planter is survived by a widow and two children.

TEXTILE STRIKERS DENY BLAME FOR PLANT FIRE

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., May 13.—(AP.)—Entirely divergent theories were advanced yesterday as to the responsibility for a fire that destroyed a large barn near the American Bemberg plant.

Dr. Arthur Mothurf, president of the Bemberg and American Glanzstoff Corporation, whose textile plants were closed April 15 by a strike of 5,000 employes, said it was extremely likely that strikers were responsible for the blaze, the second of the day to be traced to incendiary origin.

William F. Kelly, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, declared persons not in sympathy with the strike were responsible.

"Why, that is the last thing we want," Kelly said. "We know such actions would bring public sentiment down on us and we want the sentiment to be with us. Not a single act of violence can be traced to union strikers.

"We want to settle this thing by arbitration and are willing to meet with heads of the plants at any time but they will not see us."

BOATMAN LATE, STABBED

A fight on the towboat A. R. Budd as it moved into Pittsburgh on the Allegheny River sent one man to the hospital, the other to jail today.

When William Hagan, 55, member of the crew, appeared late to relieve Frank Foster, 28, on watch, Foster complained, and in the fight that followed was stabbed in the left side, according to reports given police. Capt. James McGuire, called police.

The Allegheny General Hospital reported that Foster's condition was not critical.

Woman, 2 Men Held As Dope Ring Heads

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 13.—Three persons arrested here Saturday are believed important cogs in a dope ring in this district. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dando, charged with securing prescriptions for dope under various aliases and also with raising the amount called for in the prescriptions, entered pleas of guilty before Alderman H. P. Green and are being held in the county jail. Matthew Mush, of Youngstown, formerly of this city, was held for the June term of court on a charge of selling dope.

New Brighton School Tax Set at 28 Mills

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., May 13.—Fixing the school tax for 1929 at 28 mills, the school board hit a high record for school taxes in Beaver County. This is an increase of three mills over last year. The per capita tax remains at $5. Increased teachers' salaries, a retirement fund and need of money for a new gymnasium were given as reasons for the tax raise.

DRY AIR FORCE MOBILIZED ON BORDER

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH, International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—All enforcement facilities available to the government were being deployed along the Canadian border today in what was characterized at the Treasury as the most determined and thoroughly organized campaign yet waged against liquor smugglers.

Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman declared that airplanes, motor vehicles, fast boats and heavily reinforced battalions of prohibition, customs and coast guard agents will operate along the border throughout the summer and fall.

"An effective prohibition air force is being built up, chiefly for operations along the international borders," Lowman said. "Already the prohibition bureau has a number of planes, several of which were captured from air-liquor smugglers."

PLANES EFFECTIVE

Lowman said that the planes have proven highly effective along the border country in studying the activities of smugglers and spotting their movements. Through the use of radio, the planes keep in touch with the ground patrols. Planes also may be used over difficult terrain in the interior of the country to locate moonshiners.

Besides the commercial rum smugglers, who transferred their operations to the Canadian border when the Coast Guard placed a heavy patrol along the eastern coast, the border agents will be faced with the heaviest auto tourist season in history.

TOURISTS FACE JONES LAW

In past years tourists have been leniently dealt with by customs inspectors, a nominal fine of $5 a bottle having been assessed. Commercial smugglers faced heavy fines and confiscation of their cars.

This year, however, the Jones law, which fixes a maximum $10,000 fine and five years in prison for illegal importation of intoxicants, may be used against tourists who are caught in the attempt to smuggle liquor.

Some districts disagree with the justice department that the Jones law should be used in only a certain class of major cases involving sale, manufacture, transportation and importation. These U. S. attorneys are expected to seek prosecution of tourist liquor smugglers under the drastic "five and ten" law.

MRS. M'CORMICK TO MAKE REAL BATTLE FOR SENATE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 13.—(AP.)—Political leaders predict one of the warmest senatorial contests in the history of Illinois, following announcement by Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick that she will be a candidate for the upper house berth in the 1930 election.

The announcement was contained in a letter last night to Judge William E. Crum, of Springfield, and was interpreted as an answer by Mrs. McCormick to published reports that she would not attempt to wrest the Republican nomination from Senator Charles S. Deneen.

Precinct committeemen in Sangamon County (Springfield) have received communications from Mrs. McCormick enlisting their aid and asking them to submit the names of five Republicans in their precincts to form a McCormick organization.

Mrs. McCormick is an astute campaigner, and in the recent elections spoke throughout the state in the interest of her own and Gov. Louis Emmerson's campaigns. Political observers in the state capital believe the Governor, as well as Senator Deneen's junior colleague, Otis F. Glenn, and State Treasurer Omer N. Custer, will support Mrs. McCormick in the primaries.

Senator Deneen has been a prominent figure in Illinois Republican circles for many years, and it is said his political alignments are set deep enough to make it difficult to dislodge him from the ticket next spring.

PLAN FOR BIBLE CONFERENCE COMPLETED

Prominent churchmen from many sections of the country will attend sessions of the Interdenominational Bible Conference opening in the First Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue, next Sunday afternoon. Final preparations for the meetings are being made by E. B. Buckalew, director of Bible conferences and evangelism of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, who is in Pittsburgh today.

Pittsburgh is one of a chain of cities where great Bible conferences are held periodically. The New York conference is in session this week, and many leaders in religious work will come to Pittsburgh from that city to attend the opening session here.

Dr. James M. Gray, president of the Moody Institute, will preside during the conference, and will be the speaker at the opening session, Mr. Buckalew announced. Introductory remarks will be made by Thomas J. Gillespie, chairman of the Pittsburgh committee.

SPECIAL MUSIC

Special musical programs will be rendered under the leadership of Prof. and Mrs. Talmadge J. Bittikofer, of the music faculty of the institute, described by Mr. Buckalew as being gifted in the art of enlisting to an unusual degree the interest of the audience in congregational singing, while Mr. Bittikofer's baritone solos are an inspiration.

The conference will be interdenominational in character, and all sessions will be open to the public. No session will be held Sunday night, but beginning Monday there will be three sessions daily, at 12:20, 3:30 and 7:45 p. m. All will be held in the First Presbyterian church.

Mr. Buckalew said today that sessions similar to the ones to be held here had been held, or were being planned, in Philadelphia, Buffalo, Detroit, Duluth, Kansas City, Houston and Denver. In addition to these, summer conferences will be held in eight seaside or mountain resorts during the vacation season.

"GOSPEL OF JOHN"

Expositions of fundamental Bible Christianity will be stressed by all speakers, Mr. Buckalew continued. Dr. Gray will give a series of popular expositions on the Gospel of John at the afternoon weekday sessions. Other speakers, many of them prominently identified with the Moody Institute, will cover a wide range of subjects, with emphasis on the development of Bible teaching in the United States during the past few years.

The interdenominational conferences, sponsored by the Moody Institute, are designed to bring together religious workers of the different churches with the object in view of creating a system by which Bible instruction can be developed to a higher degree, regardless of the faiths of persons interested in the movement. That this is meeting with popular response on the part of churches is evidenced in the number of persons attending the conferences, which is seen on the increase each year, Mr. Buckalew declared.

First time in Pittsburgh

The Choral Society of the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association gave its closing concert in the "Y" auditorium last evening. Harvey Gaul directed and arranged another good program, interesting especially on account of the folk music which appeared in good measure.

The chorus has improved in a marked degree during the present season both in volume and quality of tone. For balance, there are still lacking some rich male voices. But there is no diminishing in enthusiasm of the singers, all of which helps over many a difficult phrase.

Pescha Kagan appeared as piano soloist, was very well received, and responded with several encores. Miss Kagan is indeed a brilliant player. We may take exception to her tempo, and feel certain that a discreeter use of pedal would enhance the clarity of her playing, but there is magnificent breadth in all her planning. Her tone is almost masculine, though it often obscures some of the subtler beauties of her Chopin.

CANADA SEIZES U. S. FISHERMEN

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13.—(AP.)—The ministry of fisheries yesterday received advices that five United States salmon trolling vessels operating off the British Columbia coast had been taken into custody by a Canadian government patrol boat on charges of violating international fishing regulations.

W. A. Found, deputy minister of fisheries, said he had been advised that the boats, which were picked up near Bella Coola, B. C., were taken to Prince Rupert, B. C.

Mr. Found said that under the treaty of 1818, United States fishing boats may enter Canadian ports only for wood, water, shelter or repairs. He said the government long had suspected some American boats had set up fishing bases on Canadian soil, contrary to the treaty. He added that the government had acted only after repeated warnings.

GIRL PADDLED, 10 SORORITY MATES OUSTED BY SCHOOL

LONG BEACH, Cal., May 13.—(AP.)—Ten girls stood suspended today from the Polytechnic High School and Long Beach Junior College by the board of education for their part in a sorority initiation in which Margaret Lindsay, 18, was paddled so severely she was forced to remain in bed two days.

W. L. Stephens, school superintendent, said more suspensions would be made if necessary to eradicate secret organizations here. California law prohibits scondary school fraternities and sororities.

Two boys also were suspended from the junior college at the same time for affiliation with a fraternity, Stephens said. The two groups of suspensions were not connected.

The Long Beach case was the first in Southern California involving girls. Recently, however, 35 students of Pasadena, Cal., schools were suspended after an expose of high school fraternities. Four of t boys were fined $25 in municipal court for petty theft in connection with "stealing" fraternity house furnishings. An investigation disclosed 500 students were members of 13 secret societies.

This was the last day of a week's celebration of the five hundredth anniversary of the relief of the City of Orleans by forces led by the young girl.

Polish Flier, Backer, Presented to Pope

VATICAN CITY, May 13.—(AP.)—Pope Pius today gave an audience to Stanley Adamewicz, of Chicago, president of the citizens' committee for a projected Polis trans-Atlantic flight, and Capt. Stefan Adam Kowalczyk, one of the prospective fliers on a Milan-Dublin-Chicago trip.

Both men later said that the Polish plane would be ready as soon as four new motors were put in and that the fliers expected to reach Dublin within 10 days.

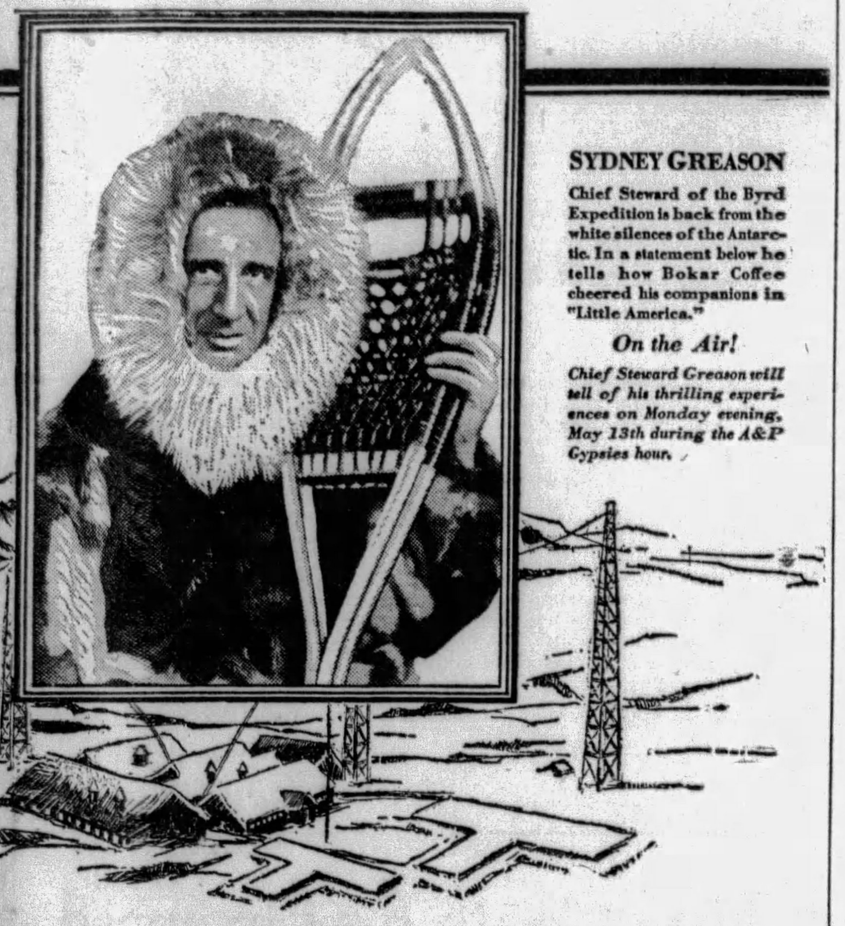
Malay Photographs Of Eclipse O. K.

ALOR STAR, Kedah, Malay States, May 13.—(AP.)—The developed plates of photographs taken of the eclipse on Thursday by the British observation party have proved better than was expected.

The transparency proved to have been equal to that at Giggleswick, Yorkshire, in the 1927 eclipse, and there were several beautiful prominences, one 150,000 miles long and 100,000 miles high with coronal arches.

The apparatus for measuring velocity in the corona was satisfactory.



SYDNEY GREASON

On the Air!

"A FORTUNATE CHOICE"

Says Chief Steward Greason of Byrd Expedition, back from Antarctic

"All day long, I kept Bokar Coffee steaming hot... all day long, men came in my hut asking for it. How they loved its appetizing aroma and mellow flavor. The sub-arctic cold was daily tempered by the satisfying draughts of Bokar. I want to tell you the men of the Byrd Expedition and myself were happy to have Bokar Coffee. It was indeed a fortunate choice."

Sydney Greason

BYRD'S men sailed to the bottom of the world to storm the portals of the South Pole. Cold ... 80 degrees below zero ... knife-like icy gales roaring at 100-mile velocity ... blinding blizzards ... darkness. Small wonder then that food for these intrepid men underwent the most searching tests.

Greason chose Bokar only after many leading brands of coffee had been compared side by side for weeks and weeks.

You too, can enjoy the same coffee that Commander Byrd's men are now drinking in "Little America" on the bleak Antarctic ice barrier. Your first sip of Bokar will reveal its flavor ... richness ... smoothness ... and its wine-like mellowness. Such a rare blend could only have been created by a great coffee planter.

SOUSA ON RADIO TONIGHT; TO PLAY FAMED MARCHES

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

WHILE many stars will appear in the programs, the charm of tonight's entertainment centers more in the selections to be played.

One can hardly say any particular composition is more important than John Philip Sousa and his band, WCAE at 9:30, but even the numbers he has selected are pre-eminent in the musical world.

They include his "Golden Jubilee March," "King Cotton," "Bride Elect" and "The Stars and Stripes Forever," which has just about been recognized as the "national march" of the United States.

Before writing more about music it might be well to mention here that Sidney Greason, steward with Commander Byrd, will tell of experiences with the expedition during the A. & P. Gypsies' program at 8:30 over WCAE. His talk should be very interesting and educational.

REAL FAVORITES

Rimsky-Korsakoff selections will furnish the major portion of the "Russian Vignette" over WJAS at 8 o'clock.

An old Italian favorite, "O Sole Mio," so often rehearsed by barber shop quartets and boiler house tenors, will be sung by Franklyn Baur, WCAE at 8, during the Voice of Firestone concert, which also includes an orchesta rendition of Verdi's "Anvil Chorus" and Schumann's "Traumerei."

Tschaikowsky's birthday anniversary will be observed during the Whitehouse Concert and music lovers tuning to KDKA at 8:30 will be pleased with these selections, we feel sure.

We can expect some Hungarian music when the Recorders, KDKA at 9, play favorites of Vilma Banky, movie actress.

Popular music will abound with Roxy's "Sunshine Quartet;" a new orchestra, the Smith-McDowell outfit from Sanders' Inn, Don Bestor's Music from the William Penn, Dave Harmon, Harry Shannon's Orchestra and David Broudy's cheerful boys, all listed in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph radio schedule.

HISTORY OF TACOMA.

The first Fourth of July celebration in the great northwest, in 1841, when 400 Indians joined the whites in honoring Independence Day, will be depicted.

The dramatic thumbnail sketches from history on that night describe the history of Tacoma, Washington, where the 1841 celebration was held, and where Capt. Wilkes and the sailors joined the mixed gathering of redmen and whites on Independence Day. The same scene amusingly portrays how an ingenious device kept one of the settlers' babies from crying—that of having a fierce Indian chief sing war songs to the accompaniment of a tom-tom.

Other episodes show a second patriotic celebration in 1868 shortly after the Civil War; a Fourth of July celebration in 1906, which portrays an amusing pie-eating contest; and still another episode depicting the homecoming of the Tacoma troops after the World War.

An Appreciation

McCREERY'S MAY SELLING EVENT

Saturday brought to a close, McCreery's May Selling Event (our semi-annual store wide event) . . . and which has proved to be the most successful selling in McCreery's twenty-five years of business history.

Successful because . . .

1. The merchandise was McCREERY QUALITY only.
2. The merchandise was exactingly FASHION-RIGHT.
3. The merchandise represented HONEST VALUE . . . priced remarkably low for the occasion.

McCreery's appreciate . . .

1. The complete confidence that all Pittsburgh has shown in our store.
2. That hundreds of new charge accounts and new business friendships were established and added to the long list of loyal McCreery patrons.
3. The fact that everyone wants honest value and fair prices, which has been this store's policy year in and year out.
4. The largest volume of business in twenty-five years.

McCreery's apologize . . .

1. Because the response was even greater than we anticipated, we ask your indulgence for any lack of the usual high standard of service always accorded at this store.
2. Due to the thousands of additional sales, it was necessary to engage outside delivery service to assist us in maintaining our schedule. We hope that your merchandise was delivered with the same courtesy that characterizes McCreery service.

McCreery's assure you . . .

1. That the May Selling just completed proves conclusively to us that all Pittsburgh appreciates McCreery Quality and and First Fashions, and we shall always continue these high standards of merchandising.

DRY ACT COST NEAR BILLION FOR YEAR

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Prohibition cost the taxpayers of the nation $936,000,000 last year, according to an economic study just completed by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

This amount includes only charges passed on to the taxpayer, and does not deal with the economic phases nor the moral and ethical phases of prohibition, it was emphasized.

The survey, issued under the title, "Prohibition and Your Income Tax," was said to be based on "careful and conservative analysis of all official figures and representing almost a year of exhaustive research."

MUCH REVENUE LOST

Setting the cost at $936,000,000, the survey continues:

"This sum includes an accurate appraisal of Federal expenditures for enforcement and an adequate but conservative allowance for the loss of Federal and state revenue.

"The loss of Federal and local revenues is by far the largest items and comes to $900,000,000 a year. In this estimate we have allowed for the spread of state prohibition and have assumed that the 1928 Federal taxes would have been maintained. We have also assumed that there would be no consumption in the 19 states which permitted importation for personal use.

"Federal appropriations for enforcement and the annual loss of Federal revenue total $886,000,000. This sum is slightly in excess of the $882,727,114 paid last year to the Federal government in personal income taxes.

"After crediting fines collected from prohibition violators, there still remains practically $200,000,000 of direct outlay for Federal enforcement during the first nine years of the prohibition experiment.

DORAN QUOTED

"If Congress and the several states yield to insistent demands for larger appropriations, the total annual cost of prohibition will soon exceed a billion dollars. In the last session of Congress there was a protracted debate over an additional appropriation of $24,000,000. In November, 1928, Commissioner Doran, testifying before a congressional committee, said: 'It is a matter of policy whether Congress wants to embark on the police business. If Congress wants to embark on the police business it will take $300,000,000 a year and a system of United States courts covering the land. * * * I feel that in the distinctly Federal sphere, the Federal government is doing a pretty creditable job, but it is unfortunately expected by some people to do work which Congress has never, by its appropriations policy, at least, indicated that it should do.'

"The implication of this is clear. The prohibition commissioner in effect calls upon the states to contribute at least $250,000,000 new money for local enforcement. This would bring the total prohibition bill to nearly $1,200,000,000 a year."

JACK DEMPSEY DENIES FIGHT

NEW YORK, May 13.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, today emphatically denied that there was any truth in a story current along Broadway that he struck and knocked down Joe Benjamin, a former lightweight boxer and his friend of many years' standing, during an altercation in a Fifth avenue hotel.

Dempsey and Benjamin had been pals for years—in fact, the latter was best man at Jack's wedding.

According to the story told in Broadway sports circles and published in several New York papers, Benjamin is quoted as saying that the fracas occurred during a party in the hotel early Sunday morning. Benjamin was walking down a corridor of the hotel with his arms around two girls. Whatever then transpired caused Dempsey to rush from the room where the party was in progress and, after sharp words with Benjamin, he unloosed a left to the body and a right to the jaw, it is said. Benjamin, who now weighs about 160, went down for the long count, the story continued.

Dempsey is then supposed to have hastened to his room and locked the door, Benjamin—strangely enough—clamoring for more.

Dissatisfied With Firemen's Award

Families of the firemen killed while answering an alarm from Heidelberg have received an award of $13,442.70, the hearing being held before the State Compensation Board, with L. E. Christy as referee. The award is not satisfactory to those interested, and it is said the decision probably will be contested and carried to the higher courts for a confirmation.

River Boat Collision Victim's Body Found

Rivermen yesterday recovered the body of Henry Fuller, 45, Negro of 41 Eleventh street, Braddock, one of three men drowned when a yawl collided with a barge and sank in the Ohio River at Sewickley last Tuesday.

AIRING OF CAB RATE FIGHT DELAYED

With attorneys for the Green and Yellow Cab Companies not disposed to rush their answers to the city's complaint against the higher taxi fares effective next Monday, the probability of early adjudication has become more remote. An airing of the taxicab rate question is promised, however, in another case for which a hearing has been set for Wednesday. The Red Cab Company, applying for incorporation and opposed by the Green and Yellow companies, will tell the Public Service Commission on that occasion that, operating on the same rates that its competitors declare are unprofitable, it made $6,000 net with 17 cabs last year.

While the hearing has been set for Wednesday in room 705, City-County Building, it may not be held until Thursday, for former Mayor William A. Magee, counsel for the Red Cab Company, said he would ask postponement for a day on account of the absence of an important witness.

The Red company will claim, according to Magee, that it was able to make money under rates and conditions that the Green and Yellow contended were ruinous for them, and that, if allowed to incorporate, it will be managed more economically than its competitors because of the personal attention given to the business by President Robert J. Hasley and the secretary, Mrs. Nettie D. Lewis, his sister. Between them they will fill all the executive positions, Magee said, and are on duty about 20 hours out of the 24.

PROSPERING NOW

The Yellow and Green companies have pointed to about $6,000 of unsatisfied court judgments outstanding against the Red. These date back, Magee said, to a period in which because of the opposition of the Yellow and Green companies, the Red was licensed to operate only seven cabs. "Overhead" at that time, Magee said, was too great to permit the company to pay its debts promptly, but since last year, when it was permitted to add 10 cabs to its fleet, it has prospered.

The Public Service Commission will be told that if the Red Cab Company, now owned by Hasley, is allowed to incorporate, Ulysses J. Peoples, an architect, and George W. Wortman, an experienced taxi operator, will take 250 shares, paying $12,500, and that the money will be placed in escrow for the company's creditors. Hasley and Mrs. Lewis will hold 350 shares.

Officer Cut Saving Bottle of 'Evidence'

Two women and a man were arrested and a policeman suffered cuts on his left hand during a raid on a saloon at 1630 East Ohio street late last night. Surprised by the police, Mary Zalski, 28, attempted to destroy a bottle of liquor which was on a table, the police said, and when Patrolman Ernest Whitworth tried to prevent her action he was cut by the broken bottle. Fellow officers took him to the Allegheny General Hospital and arrested the Zalski woman, who was charged with keeping a disorderly house, and a man and woman who were charged with being visitors.

FORBES STREET AT SIXTH AVENUE

To Our Patrons:

We regret exceedingly the inconvenience caused some of our customers during the past few days through the late service rendered in the delivery of milk and cream. This state of affairs was brought about through no fault of ours. Some of our drivers in sympathy for a discharged employee walked out on us and for the time being upset our working arrangements. We have done our utmost, despite the racketeer methods used, to serve every hospital, every home for children, and every home in which there are children—and will continue to do so. We ask your indulgence while we rebuild our organization.

Styles in candy have changed, say the candy-makers. Soft, sweet, pink and yellow bon-bons have gone out of fashion along with soft, sweet, pink-and-yellow ladies. But the MEN still seem to prefer them to the glace variety.

Life must be pretty arid for a woman when she regards a casual kiss, or a little roughhouse love-making in a taxi, as a "temptation."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Letter Writing

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. What is the proper way to start a letter to a boy friend, and how would you close the letter? Would "Your loving friend" be necessary or not?

2. If a young man started to go about with a girl a couple of months before his birthday, is it proper for a girl to send him a birthday gift?

3. How is this letter? Is it correct in its heading? How is the writing? M. L. B.

BEGIN the letter "Dear Bob," if you call him by his first name, or "Dear Mr. Allen," if you don't know him well enough to call him by the first name. End it, "Very sincerely yours," or "Most sincerely yours," or "Faithfully yours," and don't use "Your loving friend."

2. For his birthday, after such a short acquaintance, write him a birthday letter of congratulation and good wishes, or send him a birthday telegram, to arrive the morning of "the" day. Or send him a book that you think he'll enjoy, or a carton of his favorite cigarets.

3. Your letter form and your handwriting need attention, and you should give them care. I recommend that you go to the nearest public library and get a book on letter-writing. Study it attentively. Get some good-looking letter paper, of the double-sheet kind, of white, a good size. Watch every word you write, to see that it is spelled correctly, and that the letters are formed carefully. Letter-writing is easy to learn, if we are willing to put our minds to it. And follow my column about this important feature of etiquette, for I often answer questions about it.

Introductions

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. In a few days I expect to be giving a party and would appreciate it very much if you would answer the following questions. How should I introduce my mother to either a girl or boy friend?

2. What is the form of introduction to be used when introducing a girl and boy friend to one another? MARIE.

MAY I change your question to read, "How should I introduce either a girl or a boy friend to my mother?" You see, dear friend, since your mother is older, and since she is the one to be made the "queen," these young people would be introduced to her like this, "Mother, this is Mary Allen," or "Mother, this is Mary," or "Mother, may I present Mr. Arthur Wells," or "Mother, may I introduce Arthur?" or "Mother this is Arthur."

2. If they are very young you may use only the first names, or the whole names. But when they have reached the dignity of 16 or 17 or 18, they usually like to have "Miss" or "Mr." used. "Mary, this is Arthur Wells," or "Miss Allen, may I introduce Mr. Arthur Wells?" or "Miss Allen, Mr. Wells."

A City Garden -:- By Fanny Darrell

LUCKY the girl who lives outside the city where she can have a real garden with all sorts of flowers and trees and shrubs and loveliness surrounding her! But always she envies her city sister!

And the city girl in turn envies her country relative, for how she yearns to wake up every morning to the song of the birds and the gladsome sight of a garden in full bloom.

But her love of the beautiful must find some expression, so she has her own fire escape garden, and there you'll see her carefully tending her tiny pots of flowers.

And through her garden perhaps Love will find her! For maybe there's someone across the way who will watch and plan that he may meet her. And Cupid chuckles and gets busy to bring together two hearts that are mutually drawn through watching over a City Garden!

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Ronald and Marion Plan to Catch Glimpse of Gorgeous Sunrise

MARY HARRISON, Dicky's winsome young niece, is what her grandmother calls a "born tease," but I guessed that something deeper than teasing lay beneath her suggestion that if it were moonlight, Marion could drive Ronald down to see the ocean bathed in the rays of the moon. Mary believed that Marion, because of the almost cloistered existence which had been hers, was in danger of becoming a "stick," that abhorrence of girlhood, and that the advent of a handsome collegiate like Ronald into her life would be a most beneficial thing for her. Knowing Marion's shyness and inexperience she had determined to play the part of the goddess in the machine and furnish as much propinquity as possible to Lillian's winsome young daughter and the youth who was displaying so much admiration for her.

Marion flushed perceptibly at Mary's suggestion, but I was proud of her composed answer.

"I'm so sorry it isn't moonlight," she said, "for the ocean's a perfectly marvelous sight when it is? Have you ever seen it by moonlight?"

"I'm sure I never did." Ronald returned regretfully. "Indeed, Carol and I can't remember much about the ocean. We left and went west when we were little things. I kept promising myself last year that I'd surely run down to it, but things kept coming up, so all I've seen is just the bay, or something like that."

"That's too bad," Mary struck in briskly. "Now if only this party wasn't so late, you could get up and see it by sunrise. That's almost as glorious."

"That would be fine," Ronald said enthusiastically. "But"—reluctantly—"I wouldn't have the nerve to ask anybody to go with me that early, after getting to bed this late. If you'll tell me the way to go, however, I'll take a run down to the shore in the morning. I'll be very quiet getting out, so that no one will be disturbed."

His words and manner were diffident, but the glance at Marion which accompanied them was distinctly hopeful. The child was painfully embarrassed—her crimson cheeks showed that, but her answer to his unspoken appeal was prompt.

"I don't mind getting up that early," she said stanchly. "I'd love to go down with you and Carolyn just before sunrise. You'll have to wrap up warmly, though. It's pretty chilly in the mornings at this time of the year."

"You'll have to count me out of that party," Carolyn said promptly, giving a realistic little shiver. "Ron knows I'd rather take a good licking than get up in the morning at the regular time. And after getting to bed at midnight or later, to crawl out before daylight—no—no! I'm romantic, but not so looney as all that. However, don't let me spoil the party."

"We're not going to," her brother told her promptly, "that is," he turned to Marion resolutely despite a certain boyish embarrassment which I found most appealing, "if you'll be kind enough to go with me in the morning."

Marion looked at me, and I knew that Carolyn's withdrawal from the proposed little trip had made Marion wonder whether her mother would approve her driving down to the shore alone with Ronald.

"If Auntie Madge doesn't object, I'd love to go," she reiterated.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Cold Too Often Is Caused by Neglect

ONE of the most common of human afflictions is sore throat. Many persons cannot get wet feet or expose themselves to the weather without an attack.

I doubt exceedingly if climatic and weather conditions are tremendously important factors in the development of sore throat. There are other causes which must not be overlooked.

DR. COPELAND

Nine times out of 10 a careful study of the case will show some violation of the rules of hygiene. Loss of sleep, worry and overwork must be counted among the important causes.

I am surprised that more attention is not paid to the digestion and elimination. It will be found in nine cases out of ten that the intestinal tract is not clean. It is difficult to say exactly how a sore throat could be traced to this particular cause. I must say, however, that my observation, covering a good many years, has caused me to conclude that sluggishness of the intestinal tract is usually an accompaniment of every sort of sore throat.

If this is true, it must follow as a matter of course that overeating, abuse of the stomach by the taking of rich foods, and all the other things that we know are capable of producing indigestion, may be the background of a cold. If you go away on a visit and your friends feed you everything under the sun, you are bound to suffer a reaction. A sore throat is merely one of the symptoms.

The veins that carry the blood from the lining membrane of the lower bowel run almost directly to the liver. They are part of what we call the portal circulation. These large blood vessels go to the liver and that organ is supposed to filter out the bacteria and poisons which have developed in the intestinal tract. Under ordinary conditions the liver does its work effectively. But it cannot accomplish the impossible. If these poisonous things are there in too large a quantity, they escape into the general circulation of the blood. Then they are carried everywhere, of course.

Let us assume, then, that this state of affairs is present in the system. The person in question does a lot of talking, perhaps he makes a speech or two, or he smokes a lot—then what happens? There is enough irritation and congestion in the tonsils and other parts of the throat so that the bacteria and the products of bacterial action find a favorable place of attack. The next thing is a sore throat of some sort.

What are we going to do about it? The sensible thing is to clear out the intestinal tract by enemas or suitable medication. Then the diet should be restricted for a day or two. This procedure will guarantee that no further poisoning of the tissues shall take place.

Fresh air, sunlight, plenty of sleep in a well ventilated room, and restricted hours of labor will complete the cure. I am sure this will appeal to you as sensible advice.

The fact is that pain or discomfort is usually an evidence of abuse of the body. When we learn to live hygienic lives and to observe rules of sensible living, we will have fewer aches and pains. We really have no right to growl when we are uncomfortable because in most instances we are merely suffering the effects of our misdeeds. Aches and pains are sent by Mother Nature as a reminder that we need to reform.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, May 14

A DAY of quite unexpected opportunities and developments may be presaged from the dominant sidereal operations. These point to a rather revolutionary change of activities and possibly environment, attending on the launching of new ventures. These may have a degree of financial success, but there is a menace of dispute, contention and possible litigation, unless an inclination to rash and impulsive words and deeds be held in a firm check. Also be careful in signing papers.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of unexpected opportunity and great benefits through new undertakings or ventures, but they may jeopardize these and invite litigation or quarrels by impetuosity or ill-governed words and acts. A far-reaching change is imminent.

A child born on this day may be particularly clever, original, ingenious and enterprising, but may be disposed to be quarrelsome and tempestuous, unless properly trained.

It is the mind that maketh good or ill, that maketh wretched or happy, rich or poor.—Spenser.

GRANT BUILDING YEGGS CRACK FOUR SAFES

Safecrackers who robbed four offices in the new Grant Building aren't much richer today, except in experience.

Their total profit was estimated at less than $100, although the damage they inflicted on the four safes was believed at least twice that figure. They seemed to enjoy tossing office papers on the floor. The visitors apparently worked with crowbars, forcing the office doors and safes.

The offices visited were those of the Fidelity Investment Association, Westinghouse Lamp, E. W. Mudge and the law office of Thorp, Bostwick, Stewart and Reed.

A heavy safe in the office of Keller Brothers Coal and Builders Supply Company, at Hamilton avenue and Lambert street, yielded thieves $500 after it had been broken open. The heavy hinges of the vault were knocked off with a sledgehammer. The robbery was discovered yesterday by an employe.

GIRL IN CREEK, 5 MEN HELD

Five men were under arrest today in connection with the alleged slugging of a girl who is said to have been thrown into a creek in the rear of the St. George Cemetery, Brook street, Bon Air, late yesterday. She is Clara Kehren, 24, of 183 Brook street. At the South Side Hospital where she was taken by Carrick police, it was said her condition was good.

Those under arrest are Fillippi Felicetta, 48, of Tarrangonna street, Matterelli Guiseppi, 29, and Francesco Maiola, both of St. Clair; Henry Reible, 25, of 10 Canfield street, and Raymond Tate, 25, of 109 Abner street. Felicetta is charged with keeping a disorderly house; Guiseppi and Maiola with being visitors; Reible with being a suspicious person, and Tate as a material witness.

The girl was dragged out of the creek by Peter Schell, superintendent of the cemetery, who heard her screams.

Reible told police he and the girl had visited the Felicetta home and later were walking near the creek when they both fell into the water.

The men had been drinking in the house most of the afternoon, according to Schell, and shortly after he saw three of them leave he heard the girl screaming.

FIRST QUARTER GAS TAX NETS $5,222,565

HARRISBURG, May 13.—(AP.)—Collections of the three-cent gasoline tax during the first three months of 1929 totaled $5,222,565, of which $874,718 was returnable to the counties where collected.

Edward Martin, making his first statement as state treasurer, said the counties from their share of the total could build approximately 17½ miles of concrete highways. The allotment to counties since the tax first became effective including the portion for the first quarter of this year has amounted to $18,784,329.

With the one-cent increase in the tax effective July 1 the total quarterly collections are expected to increase by $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The counties, however, will not share in the raise, the returnable rate being continued at one-half cent.

Little Tales From Hollywood Studios Told in Words and Camera Shots

ANN HARDING DESERTS STAGE FOR TRY AT TALK FILMS; BANNISTER IN PLAY

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

HOLLYWOOD, May 13.

HOLLYWOOD has made another legit conquest in Ann Harding. Miss Harding is entranced with the outlouds, and inasmuch as the Pathe exeks enthusiastically acclaim her work in "Paris Bound," a sensation, she'll be silver-sheeted for yahs to come. Miss Harding is tall and rythmically slender. Laura Jean Libbey would have called her features patrician. I don't savvy much about patrician features, but Laura Jean would be right. She—we're back to Ann, now—has silky blond hair parted in the middle, drawn over her ears and looped at the nape of the neck. This, in itself, is a flagrant departure from heralded flicker stipulations which have done so much to ga-ga the blond.

Miss Harding isn't moviesque. Picturesque, perhaps. She has a palpitant gift for drama and any time that fem floods her dark blue eyes with that suffering expression, you reach for a handkerchief—and not nonchanlantly.

Ann Harding

Away from the exigencies of salary requirements, Ann Harding is three other people. She possesses an aeronautic wit. It takes to altitudes and to ground technique. She has poise and depth.

Baby Daughter Boss of Family

In private life, Miss Harding is Mrs. Harry Bannister. He is appearing in the Theater Guild's local production of "Strange Interlude." They have become housed and-settled, and to stage troupers, accustomed to road work and hotels, being settled borders on Elysium. The boss of the family—paragraphing down to what is none of our business—is Jane, aged 10 or so months.

"She's very decided in her ideas," Miss Harding admits, "even though it is difficult to interpret them."

Neilan Tells Elephant Story

"MICKEY" Neilan, the colony's "Peck's Bad Boy," has turned over two new leaves. At least that many, for Mickey knows a parlor story. List:

"An American goes hunting big game in darkest Africa," recounts Mickey. "He ventures into the jungle one morn and waits for an animal to do a little prowling. Suddenly, he hears a terriffc crash of bushes and trees and out galumps a huge elephant.

"The man takes aim. The elephant emits deafening shrieks of pain and commences to hop around on three feet, the fourth lifted. The hunter can't take accurate aim. The elephant, however, spots him and comes screaming over, holding up his injured foot. The hunter investigates and yanks a cocklebur from his foot, whereupon the elephant squeezes him affectionately, cracking four ribs, and galumps happily into the jungle.

"Years later, this man takes his small son to the circus. They sit on hard, backless seats in the sawdust section. Out trails the elephant act, the biggest elephant tears loose from the procession and with loud noises comes over to the man and boy. He picks them up in his trunk and, without more ado, lifts them into box seats!"

Gossips Chatter As Gilbert Weds

OF COURSE the whole town still buzzes over the surprise marriage of the year: Jack Gilbert and Ina Claire. The news of their nuptial departure for Las Vegas, Nev., leaked at the premier of "The Black Watch," Victor McLaglen's new celluloider. The Carthay Circle Theater vibrated with the news as "hearer" after "hearer" passed it on to his neighbor.

John Gilbert

"But I didn't know—"

"But they've only known each other for two weeks."

But. But. But. So "but" it happened.

Miss and Mr. Gilbert met at a dinner party in Marion Davies' beach home. It must have been a spontaneous combustion case.

Local opinion still consensus-ed that Jack and Greta Garbo might wed. Jack telephoned her a number of times while she was visiting the home folks in Sweden. Only a month ago, when she returned to New York en route to Hollywood, Jack sent her American beauties daily. He met her at the train.

What transpired then belongs to them. Suffice it to say, their friendship seemed to have chilled. And then Jack met Ina Claire. She has been in Hollywood some three weeks, here to make two talkies for Pathe, the first being "The Awful Truth." Jack is busy with "Redemption."

Greta Garbo

Immediately following the wedding breakfast at his Bev Hills home, he departed for the studio to resume camera activities. Miss Claire's lot is five blocks from M. G. M. in Culver City, so probably the two will drive to work mornings.

La Garbo Back From Cruise

Yes sir, their marriage dashed Hollywood for the verbal gasps. The evening they departed for Las Vegas, Miss Garbo was aboard a yacht anchored outside Catalina. She returns from this location jaunt for her new celluloider, "The Single Standard," today.

It is to be expected she will refuse to comment on Mr. Gilbert's marriage. The Swedish fire-eater has never been given to comments, not even when the papers reported her socializing with a prince of the royal Swedish family. The Garbo may not be exclusive, but she certainly violates the belief that the female of the species must talk to live.

Stenographer Has Two-Minute Film Role

After playing a one-day ingenue role which will never be seen on the screen, Helen Parker, 19-year-old stenographer, is today back at her desk as a secretary at the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

The part of Jean, sweetheart of Neil Hamilton, in Rowland V. Lee's "A Dangerous Woman" required only a girl's voice talking on a phonograph record and a picture, remembrances which Hamilton takes into the tropics.

Lee searched the files of the casting office and then the entire studio for a suitable voice for the unseen part. Finally the assistant director suggested that Lee give his secretary, Helen Parker, a voice test. It resulted in her playing the ingenue lead in the picture. The two-minute phonograph record was made, she was sent to the portrait studio and the part was completed.

Although she has been employed in the motion picture studios of Hollywood for three years, this dialogue sequence is the nearest Helen has come to a screen role.

HEROINE AND MENACE :-: AMONG SCREEN :-: JUVENILE STARS

Now meet Wheezer, he's the razzberry-tooting artist of the gang.

Dies So Well, Actor Gets Big Role

HOLLYWOOD, May 13.—Regis Toomey, whose enactment of the death scene in "Alibi" was permitted to run for several hundred feet just because critics and studio executives hailed it as a fine piece of acting, has been signed for an important role in Richard Dix's new picture.

Toomey will have the part of a young Irish officer in Dix's regiment on duty in India in "The Wheel of Life," which Victor Schertzinger is directing for Paramount.

Toomey was signed because of his portrayal in "Alibi" and because of a singing voice which further fits him for the Dix picture role.

Arlen as Pugilist In New Talk Screening

A stadium equaling in size and appointments the best boxing clubs of America was built at the Paramount studios in Hollywood for a motion picture that will be the first all-talking romance of the prize ring.

The film, "The Man I Love," features Richard Arlen and Mary Brian, and is being made under the direction of William Wellman, the man who directed "Wings."

Arlen will box two well-known professionals during the course of the picture and to be prepared for this strenuous task has been in daily training for a period of two months. During this time, he has been under the care of Nate Slott, former sparring partner and trainer of Benny Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight champion of the world.

The fighters whom Arlen will engage are "Sailor" Vincent, one-time champion lightweight of the Pacific fleet and more recently a well-known professional, and Charley Sullivan who has appeared in all of the important rings of the country.

Stanley to Welcome New Stage Director

Owing to illness, Vic Irwin, leader in the Stanley, was unable to go on the latter part of last week and was replaced by Frank Masters. Charley Melson will officiate as master of ceremonies. He comes from the Stanley Theater, Philadelphia, having previously appeared in Newark, Los Angeles and other cities.

SHOCKED BY POISON RUM, CHEMISTS ATTACK DRY ACT

By LEN MORGAN.

Former Editor of the National Financial News and a manuscript reader in the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest.

Examination of the last of the 71,000 plans submitted in the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest continues at the New York headquarters of the temperance committee.

To the names of public officials who entered the contest has been added that of Maurice J. Sullivan, Reno attorney, who from 1915 to 1926 held the offices of lieutenant governor and adjutant general of Nevada. Another entrant whose plan has been reached is Wendell Johnson, law partner of J. T. Johnson, former Oklahoma supreme court justice.

POISON RUM PROTESTED

Harold W. Tinker, chief chemist of the city of Aurora, Ill., appends to his plan the statement:

"Ninety-five percent of all liquor I have examined contained poison. I cast my vote for the return of wine, beer and if necessary of legitimate liquor which will not cause blindness, insanity, degeneracy, or death to those who will consume it."

Another of many chemists who have submitted plans is H. J. Cole, chemist for the General Electric Company. Mr. Cole points with alarm to the variety of injurious basic materials contained in "pure" alcohol. He says:

"The man who makes alcohol for his own use is dealing in a branch of chemistry that is still mysterious even to those who have made it their life work. A short time ago a man told me that instead of throwing the leavings from the table into the garbage can, he now puts it in his mash and thus he is able to get an extra pint of alcohol.

"Another man tells me that he finds that banana peel will increase the alcoholic content of his mash. A third informs me that he puts egg-shells into the mash so that it needs only three days instead of ten days.

"Who knows what is being formed in some of these mashes? It is probable that unstable organic acids are manufactured, thus dissolving the metallic content, for I have made analyses of some of these alcohols and have found appreciable amounts of copper, lead, tin and zinc."

COMMERCIAL ALCOHOL

Mr. Cole goes on to discuss alcohol as commercially manufactured today. He says:

"I know a place that makes and sells iodine by the barrel, with instructions to customers to throw a shovel of zinc in each barrel. After standing four or five days, the zinc settles to the bottom in the form of zinc iodate. The liquid on top is distilled for alcohol, and the zinc iodate is returned to the manufacturer where it is converted into potassium iodate, and sold to drug stores.

"I know of a company selling disinfectants to farmers, with instructions to add a pound of caustic soda to a gallon of disinfectant, and then distill. The distillate is a gallon of 'pure' alcohol.

"My point in bringing out the above, is that unless something is done and done quickly we will be a race of mental weaklings caused by metal poisoning."

NEARLY A SLAYER

Another participant speaks from first-hand knowledge of the effects of poisonous alcohol. Writing from Easton, Pa., he says:

"I am an old ex-army sergeant and know whereof I speak. I consumed plenty of liquor before prohibition and always conducted myself in gentlemanly fashion. I've drunk the poison stuff which has followed prohibition and only recently I almost murdered my nearest and dearest friend. I did not know it until the next morning. I will never forget the sickening sensation I had when I was told about it."

WHAT AN AGENT SAYS

An assistant prohibition administrator in his plan avers:

"The United States standing army would not be adequate to keep under surveillance all the people engaged in illegal liquor traffic. Thirsty humans and the milder alcoholic beverages are bound to find one another. The question is where shall they meet? Clandestinely, in the night time in the roadhouse orgies, companioned by official hypocrisy, immorality, lawlessness, and indifferent citizenship? Or in the broad daylight, at the constitutional castle called home, with decency and reason as companions, conventionally and happily chaperoned by temperance?"

Only cursory examination of the plans as a whole is necessary to indicate that the saloon will never return. Perhaps a majority of the contestants feel that drinking should not be permitted outside of the home but there are those who agree with M. W. Nicholson, 99 John street, New York, who asserts:

"No plan which disregards the gregarious instinct of the American and forces him to do his drinking within his own walls will be practicable."

WINE HARMLESS

Illustrating the comparative harmlessness of wine, Gustave Collins makes the following allusion in his contribution:

"I was born in Peleta, Greece. When I was a boy wine was used as freely as water; in our home we also kept some of the best whiskies and brandies but we had no desire to use them except for medical purposes, for colds, grippe, etc.; for generations wine has always appeared on our table. My grandfather lived to be 108 years old, my grandmother lived to be 118, my father reached the age of 90 and my mother is still living at the age of 80."

Typifying the attitude of nearly every one of the contestants is the following acrostic which I. B. Kaplan of Brooklyn, N. Y., appends to his plan:

"P-oison, R-acketeer, O-ppression, H-omicide, I-ntolerance, B-igotry, I-niquity, T-yranny, I-ndecency, O-pposition, N-oncompliance; T-olerance, E-ducation, M-oderation, P-atriotism, E-mancipation, R-egulation, A-cquiescence, N-ormalcy, C-ooperation, E-nlightenment."

It is probable that final examination of the plans will be made by the board of judges within the next fortnight.

"SURELY GREAT IS KONJOLA," SAYS PITTSBURGH MAN

Results of Influenza Swept Away By Master Medicine—Two Bottles Did the Work.

"No wonder Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends!" How often that expression is heard from those who have found in this super-compound the very medicine they always needed; the medicine they should have had in the first place.

MR. ELMER A. ROTHERMEL

Day by day Konjola adds to its fame and friends as the news of its triumphs spreads wherever this master medicine is known. Day after day scores meet the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is explaining just how this amazing medicine works when put to the test, no matter how severe. He is telling how Konjola's 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs, go to the very source of the ailment. Organs are cleansed and stimulated; poisons are swept from the system; the way is paved for the return of new, glorious and abundant health. Konjola is the most talked-of medicine in America simply because it succeeds when all else fails. Konjola is renowned for its results, not promises. Take, as an example of Konjola at work, the case of Mr. Elmer A. Rothermel, 11 Oberlein Avenue, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"This new Konjola is surely great; I had no idea there could be such a medicine. Why, I have taken it only two weeks and the results are greater than those I found in all other medicines and treatments combined. Some time ago I had influenza from which I never fully recovered. I was left in a rundown condition. I was tired and worn-out all the time. Rapidly I lost strength and energy. My nerves were in such a bad shape that I could not sleep soundly at night. When I awoke in the morning I was as tired as when I went to bed. My appetite was poor and what I did eat failed to give me the proper nourishment.

"Friends recommended Konjola, but I had encountered so many disappointments in my search for health that I was reluctant to try anything else. But as I heard and read so much about Konjola I determined to give it a trial. Well, what I thought was a trial treatment turned out to be all that I needed to rid me of my woes. In just two weeks Konjola restored my strength and energy. It quieted my nerves and gave me sound sleep. My appetite increased and food nourishes me properly. I have more pep than for a long, long time. I indorse Konjola as the master medicine, it was a boon to me."

Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, though it works quickly. Konjola's goal is permanent, glorious health. After all, results are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results. There is no substitute for Konjola simply because there is no other medicine like it. That is why Konjola triumphs when all else has failed.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

LUTHERANS END SESSIONS WITH MEMORIAL

The New York conference of the Augustana Synod of the Lutheran church in America, held at the Gustavus Adolphus Lutheran church, Friendship avenue and South Evaline street, was brought to a close yesterday with three services.

At the morning service, sermons were delivered by the Rev. Edwin S. Carlon, of Titusville, and the Rev. A. A. Wilfrid, of Elmira, N. Y. A rally for young people, at which discussions were led by the Rev. Charles E. Anderson, of Long Island City, and Carl D. Bostron, of Akron, O., was held in the afternoon.

Memorial services were held last night for four pastors who died last year. The speakers were the Rev. Dr. Morris Stolpe, of New York, and the Rev. Dr. J. Alfred Anderson, of Brooklyn. A program was presented by the New York Pastoral Chorus, composed of 20 clergymen.

Three delegates at the conference, the Rev. Dr. F. V. Hanson, newly-elected president; the Rev. J. L. Benson, of Maville, N. Y., and Dr. Emil Westland, preached at Braddock churches yesterday. Dr. Hanson gave the sermon at the English service in the Braddock Lutheran church, of which his brother, the Rev. Sigurd L. Hanson, is pastor.

Dr. Westland preached in Swedish after the English service. Mr. Benson was the guest preacher at the Bethany Lutheran church of Braddock. He is in America on furlough from the mission field of Honan, China, and told of missionary activities.

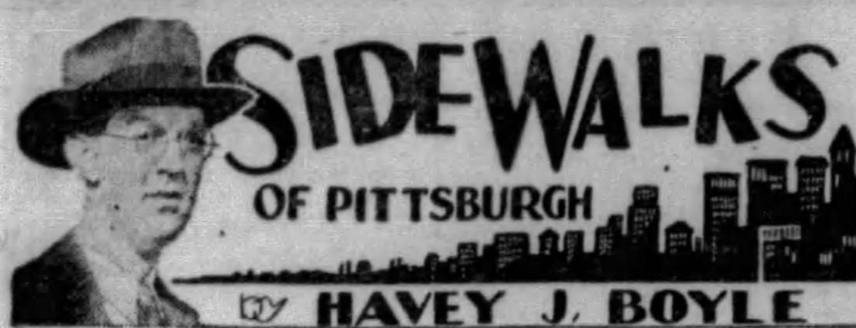
METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

RESIDENTS ROW OVER OAKLAND TOWN HALL



WITH the Koppers, the Grant and the Oliver buildings towering in the downtown district, the Pittsburgh skyline is assuming proportions. Completion of the new William Penn Annex adds another monument to the growing town. It is, by the way, a tribute to the men who planned the Henry W. Oliver Building that in spite of building progress made in the last 20 years, this first of Pittsburgh skyscrapers, retains its modernity.

Some years ago in the town there was agitation against skyscrapers. William A. Magee, a two-time mayor and a four-time candidate (batting average .500), who is rated a keen mind on municipal affairs, fostered a bill in the Legislature at Harrisburg which would have limited the height of buildings to 250 feet, considerably less than the height of some of our newest buildings. The bill was passed by the Legislature, but was vetoed by the then governor, John K. Tener. It was vetoed at the time that the William Penn Hotel was being contemplated. The bill would have deprived the town at that time of a hotel badly needed.

STUDENTS of city affairs may be interested in the background of that argument about limiting the height of buildings, advocated by Mr. Magee, opposed by other municipal experts. Mr. Magee's arguments were that excessively high buildings were detrimental, first, because they tended to centralize all activities in the relatively small downtown section, thus militating against expansion; secondly, because high buildings shut off light and air from humbler neighbors. The new style of architecture has removed the second objection, as the upper portions are now staggered, as it were. The first objection is still a matter for debate. Is it better to centralize activities downtown or is it better to force expansion into the North Side, the South Side, the East End, Oakland and the West End, by eliminating height for width, so to speak? How does Mr. Magee feel about it now? His views always are interesting, shrewd.

The racketeer looked wonderingly at the sign in the bank window: "Why not open a joint account?"

* * *

IN OLIVER avenue, any morning, you will see a group of 15 to 20 colored men who, in their way, help to break down sales resistance. They are a part of a small army who lug the grips and trunks of the traveling salesmen who must show customers a complete line of goods before getting the signature on the . . . . line.

They gather every morning at the side entrance to the William Penn, ready for the charge against the customers. Some of them are free lances, staying in Pittsburgh, and working here only. Others are carried along from town to town to look after the large array of samples.

This convenience gives the traveling men more time for that little game in the evening.

A Pittsburgher who does not object to a drink walked into a place where they sell the laughing water. He ordered two shots of contraband, which he topped off with three glasses of high test beer. He noticed, for he is a meticulous man, an ink spot on his fingers and he repaired to a nearby basin where he bathed his ink-spotted fingers. By the basin was a roller towel. He dried his hands and then went straight to the proprietor of the place, saying:

"My friend, don't you know there is an act of Assembly, passed in 1897, against the use of the roller towel in public places?"

The proprietor, helping himself to a shot, replied: "I didn't know about that law," and then to the bartender, who was taking a pony of high test beer, the proprietor directed: "Order some paper towels tomorrow, Ollie, that roller towel's against the law."

THREE SLASHED IN SOUTH SIDE QUARREL

Three men were cut, one seriously, by a Negro who resented remarks made by a crowd of men loitering at Brownsville avenue and Williams street, yesterday.

Archie Parker, 21, of 328 Manor street, according to the police, will lose his right arm as a result of a deep cut which required 12 stitches to close. Twelve stitches were also required for a wound on the right side of the neck, three stitches right side of face, and two stitches in a puncture wound under the right arm. Paul Grasky, address unknown, received a cut on the right side of the neck. At the South Side Hospital seven stitches were required to close the wound. Another man was slightly cut.

Colombus McClathery, Negro, of 422 Brownsville avenue, as captured by Patrolman Carl Steiglitz two hours later in the act of crawling into a box car in the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad freight yards in Carson street. The officer confiscated a knife with a 2½-inch blade.

Before Magistrate George England in South Side Police Court yesterday McClathery was held over for further investigation.

WOMAN KILLED AS 1-MAN CAR HITS AUTO

A woman was killed, her husband critically injured and a 2-year-old daughter suffered bruises when their automobile was struck by a Hamilton avenue street car at Fifth avenue extension and McPherson boulevard yesterday.

The woman, Mrs. Marie Meszaros, 42, of 4260 Second avenue, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Pittsburgh Hospital. Her husband, Joseph Meszaros, 45, suffering from a skull fracture and their daughter, Marie, 2, with severe bruises, are in the same hospital.

Meszaros, police reported, drove on the car tracks in order to permit two other motorists to pass in the street where track repairs are being made when the trolley, operated by A. J. Gander, struck his machine.

ONE-MAN CAR

The automobile was overturned and the victims pinned beneath. They were extricated by pedestrians. A dozen persons in the trolley, a one-man car, were shaken up.

Gander was ordered to appear at the coroner's office.

John Eryeser, 52, of Duquesne avenue, Duquesne, is in the McKeesport Hospital a victim of a hit-and-run motorist. He was struck near his home.

Struck by a truck near his home yesterday, Amere Andonelli, 60, of Twenty-fourth street, McKeesport, suffered probable internal injuries. He was taken to the McKeesport Hospital. The truck was driven by John Welsh, of McKeesport, police said.

Slightly injured when struck by an automobile driven by Charles Walenz, of 1209 Gerst way, at Arcola street and Spring Garden avenue, Carl Buchman, 9, of 1 Arcola street, was removed to his home and treated by a physician.

WOMAN RUN DOWN

Leading her two children across Bigelow boulevard near Byron street, Mrs. Jeannette McKallen, 36, of 641 Melwood street, was struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Kazerconis, 21, of 212 East Fourth street, Homestead, last night. Kazerconis took Mrs. McKallen to the West Penn Hospital. The children escaped uninjured.

Mrs. Martha Hartung, 22, of 815 Industry street, suffered bruises about the legs when struck by an automobile driven by Russell Young, 29, of East Liverpool, O., at Brownsville road and Agnew avenue yesterday. Mrs. Hartung went to her home after receiving medical treatment at the South Side Hospital. Young was arrested by Carrick police on a charge of reckless driving, and later released on a $50 cash bond.

ROCKET SHIP WILL TRY 5-MINUTE CHANNEL TRIP

LONDON, May 13.—(INS.)—An attempt to propel a "rocket ship" across the English Channel from Dover to Calais will be made this summer by Max Valier, German inventor, who hopes to make the "flight" in less than five minutes. The distance is something over 20 miles.

The possibilities of such an attempt being successful have been proved by experiments made by Valier in Germany, where with a rocket-propelled machine fitted with ski-runners he attained a speed of 235 miles an hour.

The rockets were fired in a series of one and one-half second intervals. Between the first and second discharges the machine covered a distance of 25 yards, and the device steadily gained speed until, with the detonation of a fifth series of rockets, the speed averaged well over 200 miles an hour.

For the Diver to Calais attempt Valier proposes to build a craft on hydroplane lines. Although the exact details of the ship remain secret, it has been revealed that the craft will in appearance resemble an arrow or harpoon, its length being three times its wing-span.

Work was formally started today on the new Saw Mill Run boulevard with city and county officials participating in ceremonies at the junction of the proposed boulevard and the McKinley Park branch. Henry Tranter, of the West End Board of Trade, and Henry Mueschae, one of the oldest residents of the Saw Mill Run district, turned the first dirt.

A steam shovel has been at work on the improvement for more than a week and considerable excavating has been completed. Some work was necessary before any sort of gathering could be held at the junction of the McKinley Park branch and the main boulevard. The John F. Casey Company is doing the work from the south end of the Liberty Tubes to Overbrook, and also the branch to McKinley Park.

Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, presided at the ceremonies. The speakers were Commissioners Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, State Senator Frank J. RESIDENTS ROW OVER OAKLAND TOWN HALL

Paul C. Dunlevy, president, and Frank Wilbur Main, secretary, of the Schenley Farms Civic Association, are diametrically opposed, in public statements issued today, on the possible selection of the Schenley Farms site for the proposed $6,000,000 Town Hill. A stormy session was predicted for the special meeting of the organization called for tonight at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

"Mr. Main, as secretary of the Association, seems unwilling to test presentation of his case at the meeting which takes place tonight, and, therefore, presents his case in advance," Mr. Dunlevy declared in a statement issued today. "In the last analysis, I am sure that neither he nor any other resident of Schenley Farms would have any reason to complain of the Town Hall being placed in our nationally known civic center, if the County Commissioners decide to place it there."

Mr. Dunlevy issued his statement after publication of one from Mr. Main opposing selection of the Oakland site because, as he claimed, circuses, boxing shows and kindred affairs, with attendant congestion of thousands of parked automobiles, would deprive residents of the district of parking space and create a nuisance through increased street noises, and exhaust odors. Mr. Main also pointed out that additional police protection would be necessary and that the residents never have been able to obtain it.

Mr. Main said today that petitions being circulated by the civic association contain space to sign either for or against the site.

"My interest is simply to keep the Town Hall out of any residential district," he said, "and I think that is what the majority of the Schenley Farms district home owners want."

18th Ward Board Will Meet on Tuesday

The Eighteenth Ward Board of Trade will met tomoorw evening at which time a site for the proposed ctiy hall will be discussed. Helen Grimes, who represents this district in the state legislature will attend and tell of the work done in obtaining a site for the structure. The directors of the organization met last week and transacted considerable routine business, preparatory to the regular meeting. A motion picture exhibition also will be given by Lorina L. Snyder, of the Co-Operative Fiduciary Association.

PASTOR ROUSED BY ROAD WORK

A protest against the operation of a steam shovel along the Wind Gap road, Ingram, on Sunday was made to Chief George M. Murren, of the county detectives, today by the Rev. Dr. Robert M. Blackwood, general secretary of the Sabbath Association. He said residents of the vicinity objected to the noise and dirt from the shovel, and asked that workmen be restrained from operating it on Sunday.

Work on widening the road was started yesterday, and probably will require several weeks to complete. When he received complaints from residents yesterday, Dr. Blackwood attempted to get in communication with the detective chief, but was unable to do so, as the office was closed when he called, he said.

Dr. Blackwood, as executive officer of the Sabbath Association, had led many of the battles against relaxation of Pennsylvania's Sunday law.

POLICE MURDER TRIAL BEGINS

The second city policeman to be tried on a murder charge within a week, Frank P. Caslin, attached to Frankstown Avenue Station, was arrigned in Criminal Court today.

Caslin is charged with the slaying of James T. Sutton, Negro, of 421 Rosedale street, last July 11, in dispersing a crap game in a store at 7302½ Tioga street.

At the coroner's inquest Caslin testified that in a tussle with Sutton his revolver fell to the floor and was discharged, the bullet inflicting a fatal wound in Sutton's chest.

HOMESTEAD IN RACE FOR FREE RADIO SET

Miss Mary Hirth, principal, and her children are anxious to avail themselves of this opportunity to conclude their campaign for a free radio.

The people in this part of Homestead are generally in poor circumstances. More than in many sections, however, they appreciate the value of radio in the schoolroom.

Many in Homestead are making real sacrifices in order to help the campaign. Eighteen cents a week often is a considerable sum for such homes as these, but eagerness to help is everywhere apparent.

The children, too, have been sacrificing a lot of fun. Many have been working after school hours, and working hard, in order to make radio education possible in Miss Hirth's group.

Miss Hirth told a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph reporter they are all looking forward to the time when regular programs for the schools will be broadcast in Pittsburgh.

They are all sure a great deal can be learned this way. Homestead children could obtain many radios with the spirit they are now showing.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Stanley-Warner Brothers' theaters have made this possible for the schools of the entire Pittsburgh district.

FREE RADIO OFFER

By obtaining 125 new 13-week subscriptions to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, these schools are able to have an eight-tube Atwater Kent radio installed in their building without charge.

The outfit sells for $138.50 ordinarily, but the sponsors of this campaign have eliminated this obstruction. The taxpayer will not have to pay for these sets.

Subscription blanks may be obtained at any Stanley theater, in the delivery packages of United Laundries, Donahoe's and Haller Baking Company, and from a great many school children. They may also be had at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph offices.

They are piano students at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Will Rogers Says

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.

As I paid for this Joke, I want to see it in the papers right.

At Baltimore Friday, in the big race, I bet on four horses, all to win, place and show.

Bluecoat was tipped me by Gov. Ritchie, who, I think, was working on a commission.

One called The Nut—well, birds of a feather must back each other.

I bet Earl Sande's Hermitage, because Sande's my friend.

Then there was a horse called Soul of Honor, from Oklahoma. There's real humor for you.

I had all these tickets in my outside coat pocket, and some Republican senator or congressman pinched 'em.

I discovered it just as they went to the post, so my only hope was to pray for 'em to lose, and they did. They all four run last, so imagine that Republican scoundrel's embarrasment.

The Lord was with us Democrats, but not often.

Yours, WILL.

TAXES MENACE GOLD MINING

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(INS.)—Believe it or not, but Representative Engelbright (Rep.), of California, declares it doesn't pay to mine gold.

And because of this, he has introduced a bill exempting gold mining companies from the income tax.

The lurid tales of the Klondike and stories of fortunes made in the great California gold rush have blinded Congress and the nation to a really serious situation, he says.

"Many people think gold mining is like picking up dollars in the street," he said, "but that isn't true.

"The gold mining industry is passing out of existence in this country. Production has slumped from $101,000,000 to $48,000,000 a year since 1913. It is still going down.

"Unless the government does something, in another 25 years we will have to get all our gold outside the country. And that isn't a very healthy condition.

"The government has very skillfully juggled the gold reserve to meet our needs. The 20 billions of Liberty Bonds were backed by four and a half billion dollars of gold bullion.

"A war which would cut off our gold supply from abroad might place us in a very serious situation. We ought to encourage the gold mining industry and help it to live."

MOBBED UMPIRE HAS BAD INJURY

CLEVELAND, May 13.—(AP.)—Suffering with a concussion of the brain inflicted by a baseball fan's pop bottle, Umpire Emmett T. Ormsby was in the constant care of a physician today. Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland American League team, was under five-day suspension for protesting a decision which preceded a demonstration during the game Saturday.

The decision curbed an Indian rally and gave the game to the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 2. It was not Ormsby's ruling that caused the trouble. Umpire William (Brick) Campbell had called Lew Fonseca, Cleveland first baseman, out for interfering with a throw to first.

Peckinpaugh protested. As howls and jeers in the stands grew louder the fans rained bottles on the field, striking Ormsby in the back of the head, as well as two members of the Philadelphia team, Joe Boley, shortstop, and Kid Gleason, coach, neither of whom was hurt badly.

Campbell's report to E. S. Barnard, president of the league, brought an order forbidding Peckinpaugh to enter the field until Friday. It was the first time in Peck's baseball career of nearly 20 years that he has been under suspension.

Ormsby was not thought seriously hurt at the time but last night he became worse. His wife was summoned from Chicago.

Mothers Join Fight Of Children, 1 Dead

MINNEAPOLIS, May 13.—(AP.)—A coaster wagon over which their children quarreled, got two neighbor women into a hair-pulling fight in Northeast Minneapolis and resulted in the death of one from a blow on the head.

The dead woman was Mrs. Irene M. Whyte, 24, wife of Malcolm Whyte. Police and Dr. G. W. Callerstrom, deputy coroner, questioned her neighbor, Mrs. Mary Mika, 25, wife of Raymond Mika. Malcolm Whyte, husband of the dead woman, said he would demand a police investigation.

Vets Ask Congress Aid on Insurance

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP.)—The American Legion last night declared that unless Congress acts within the next two weeks, a large number of permanently disabled World War veterans and thousands of widows and mothers will be deprived of the benefits under government insurance policies.

Under existing law proceedings to recover on the $10,000 policies issued during the war must be begun before May 29, the Legion pointed out, or right of action will be lost. Efforts are being directed by the Legion to obtain prompt consideration for a bill introduced by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, which would extend for one year the time for filing suits.

PASTOR URGES FARMERS' DAUGHTERS AS WIVES

Marry a farmer's daughter—she does not expect as much as a city girl, was the Rev. Edward Bleakney's message to the marriageable men of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, in his Mother's Day sermon yesterday.

Mr. Bleakney turned his sermon into a "Parent's Day" message, speaking in defense of children and what they have a right to expect from parents. He contended they have a right to sufficient food, clothing, proper education and treatment in a manner to earn their respect for their parents.

A reception will be tendered to the new members of the church at a gathering to be held Wednesday night.

U. S. Scientists Study Lake Fishing on Tour

SANDUSKY, O., May 13.—(AP.)—Government scientists put out from here aboard the U. S. S. Shearwater, official boat of the federal fish hatchery at Put-In-Bay, for a 15-day cruise to study Lake Erie fish and fishing conditions.

The cruise will take them to Cleveland, Fairport, and Ashtabula, O., Erie, Pa., Dunkirk and Buffalo, N. Y., and Rondeau Harbor, Port Stanley and Port Dover, Ont.

Girl Record Holder To Fly Alone on Atlantic Hop

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Elinor Smith plans to fly alone on her projected airplane trip to Rome this summer.

One of these summer mornings—the date has not been set even approximately yet—She intends to climb into a single-motored monoplane and set out on the first trans-Atlantic solo flight ever attempted by a woman.

Elinor, who is 17, holds the women's solo endurance record of more than 26 hours, which she established in a ship somewhat like that in which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew to Paris, although of a different make.

SORROW STILLS SANDLOTS AS BOY IS KILLED BY BAT

Sorrow has spread a pall of silence over North Side baseball lots.

John died at St. John's Hospital from injuries suffered Saturday, when he was accidentally struck by a bat by William Kress, 26, 3041 Wadlow street.

Kress was on the verge of collapse as he called at the Graczyk home to view the body of the lad.

"It all happened so suddenly that I can't tell just how it was that I struck him," he said. "I was at bat with John's brother, Andrew pitching.

"The ball was pitched. I swung the bat, hit something that seemed different than the soft ball we were using, and when I looked down, I saw the body of John at my feet. He must have run under my arm directly at the bat's end."

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Sewickleyans to Attend Cleveland Four-Day Horse Show

WITH the spring comes a renewed interest in that most beloved sport of English and Irish gentle folk, and of all those of Anglo-Saxon origin—horse races and horse shows. Here in Pittsburgh society folks have been exercising their mounts in preparation for that annual event, the Allegheny Country Club horse show, to be held this year on June 6, 7 and 8 at the club grounds on Sewickley Heights.

Yesterday morning a goodly number of Sewickley horse lovers were out riding around the ring. Among them was John O. Burgwin, master of hounds of the Sewickley Hunt.

A number of Sewickley folks are planning to go over to Cleveland, by the way, for the Cleveland four-day horse show, which opens Wednesday. And among the entries for the Cleveland event will be the Sewickley Hunt team. Harvey Norton Van Voorhis is planning to enter a number of horses, too.

The junior H. C. Bughmans will leave on Friday for the show, as will the J. O. Burgwins, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Jones III, Frank E. Richardson and the T. M. Girdlers.

NO matter how many events are commanding our interest, weddings never fail to attract our attention. Here in Pittsburgh we're not having many May weddings, but in the East there have been a large number, many of which Pittsburgh folks have attended.

Many members of the younger set, and some of their elders, will be interested in the wedding of Dorothy Weld, daughter of the A. Winsor Welds, of Chestnut Hill, Mass., and Arthur Edward Grannis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Grannis, Brookline, Mass., which will take place Wednesday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock in the Church of the Redeemer, Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Barbara Ewing, daughter of the Thomas Ewings, of St. James place, will be one of the bridesmaids. Mary Louise Butterfield, of Boston, will be maid of honor, and Eleanore Grannis, Nell Baldwin, of Boston, and Mrs. William Byrd, of East Orange, N. J., will be bridesmaids, too.

Following the wedding will be a reception in the home of the bride-elect's mother and father. After a six-week wedding trip in Europe, Mr. and Mrs. Grannis will live in Cambridge, Mass.

The bride-to-be attended the Windsor School and the Walker School, and made her debut a few years ago. Mr. Grannis was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1926.

SOCIAL leaders of Pittsburgh will be hosts at a dinner in the Hotel Schenley on Wednesday, May 22, in honor of Dr. Rudolf Bolling Tousler, director of St. Luke's International Hospital, Tokio; Dr. Mabel E. Elliott, head of the children's department of the same institution, and Mrs. Henry P. Davison, of New York, whose husband was chairman of the war council of the American Red Cross during the World War. Mrs. Davison is national chairman of the women's committee co-operating in the movement to build a new medical center for St. Luke's in Tokio.

Many folks will be interested, I'm sure, in learning that Dr. Elliott is the first woman ever licensed to practice medicine in Japan.

Among those who'll be hosts are Mrs. George W. J. Bissell, the James E. Browns, Hill Burgwin, Mrs. Harvey Childs, the Josiah Cohens, the Carroll Fitzhughs, the junior Thomas Flemings, the T. M. Girdlers, Mrs. Thomas R. Hartley, Dr. and Mrs. William J. Holland, the A. L. Humphreys, the Roy A. Hunts, Miss Mary L. Jackson, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, the Alexander Laughlins, the Edmund W. Mudges, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, the H. R. Rusts, the Charles S. Shoemakers and Mrs. William Thaw, Jr.

A GROUP of young girls, most of them debutantes of this season and last, will help Mrs. William J. Powell, who is in charge of the sale of candy at the benefit performance of "The Great Necker," to be held tomorrow night in the Pitt Theater under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Among these girls are Harriet Wainwright, Harriet Fickes, Mary Marshall, Betty Guiler, Emilie Stuart, Frances Johnston, Kitty Schley, Helen West, Betty Stevenson and Neil Stewart Zang.

MRS. WILLIAM E. HAMNETT is resident hostess for the week at the Garden and Flower Show which opened yesterday in the William Penn Hotel. Assisting her this afternoon are Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Mrs. John Phillips, Miss Mary Watson Green, Mrs. John W. MacGregor, Mrs. David I. McCahill, Miss Helen Beatty, Mrs. L. Gerald Firth, Mrs. George Hutchinson, Mrs. Tom Mercer Girdler and Miss Thrysa Amos. Tonight, the hostesses will be Mrs. Elder W. Marshall, Mrs. Frederick Marshall, Mrs. Lewis C. Richards, Mrs. W. E. Hart and Mrs. Edward O. Tabor.

Japan Plague Scare Halts British Duke

LONDON, May 13.—(AP.)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Tokio says the discovery of plague-infected rats at both Osaka and Kobe led to the abandonment of plans of the Duke of Gloucester to visit these cities. The duke came to Japan 10 days ago to present Emperor Hirohito with the order of the Garter, England's highest order of knighthood.

MEXICO BISHOP AT VATICAN IN PEACE MOVE

MEXICO CITY, May 13.—(AP.)—Announcement was made yesterday of the arrival in Rome of Bishop Antonio Guizar Valencia, of the state of Chihuahua, to confer with Vatican authorities regarding a reapprochement between the Mexican government and the church.

Bishop Guizar was in Washington recently when Archbishop Ruiz announced willingness on the part of church authorities to co-operate with President Emilio Portes Gil in improving the welfare of the Mexican people. The bishop has been actively engaged for some time in efforts to settle the religious dispute in Mexico.

POPE HOPES FOR PEACE

VATICAN CITY, May 13.—(AP.)—Pope Pius XI is intensely interested in seeing a happy settlement of the Catholic Church differences with the government of Mexico. He said this yesterday to Bishop Emmanuel B. Ledvina, of Corpus Christi, Tex., whose diocese lies largely along the Mexican border.

During a 20-minute private audience the Pontiff questioned the bishop regarding the state of opinion among Mexicans with regard to the church. He told the prelate that he was praying and hoping there would be friendly relations between the church and official Mexico as soon as possible.

The Pope gave Bishop Ledvina a special blessing for his entire diocese after hearing his report on the general spiritual progress of his district. The audience was conducted almost entirely in German, which Bishop Ledvina speaks fluently. The pontiff told him that he learned the language while a young priest and was then made assistant pastor to the German colony in Milan.

The pontiff also spoke in English for the benefit of the Rev. William J. Kinsella, of Chicago, who accompanied the American bishop. Both Americans will leave on Wednesday on a comprehensive tour of France, Germany, Switzerland, England and Ireland.

SOLEMN MOMENTS

Special dispatches said that Monsignor Francisco Banegas, archbishop of Queretaro, had circulated a printed messag to Catholics in his jurisdiction urging them to "pray fervently to God to cool the passions and stimulate the intelligence" of those having the destiny of the people and the nation in their hands "so as to bring about the harmony we so desire."

"I consider the present moments are solemn ones for our country," the bishop said with reference to the recent announcement of the President that he was willing to confer with church authorities for the betterment of the Mexican people.

HILL TOP ASKS MORE LIGHTS

A petition is being circulated in Allentown and Beltzhoover asking that city council take action to provide a more adequate system of lighting for that district. More than 150 taxpayers already have signed to petition which calls council's attention to the poor lighting in their district as compared with that at East Liberty, Brookline and other outlying districts.

The streets declared in need of immediate attention are: Arlington avenue to Knox avenue; Warrington avenue from Mt. Oliver to Haberman street, Beltzhoover avenue, Climax street and Gearing avenue.

Merchants of the district have joined in the movement and assert that the business sections have little more light than the back streets for the reason that the lights are set too high on the poles and are insufficient in size and number.

Herriot, 21 Years Lyons Mayor, Loses

LYONS, France, May 13.—(AP.)—Edouard Herriot, former premier of France, announced he would relinquish his office as Mayor of Lyons, his Radical Unionists having failed to secure a majority in the City Council at yesterday's municipal election. BORIS TO WED, IS RUMOR AS BULGARIAN FETE OPENS

PRESLAV, Bulgaria, May 13.—(AP.)—Bulgaria began six days of celebrations yesterday in this historic town on the occasion of the thousandth anniversary of the reign of King Simeon the Great.

Headed by King Boris, the entire cabinet, church dignitaries, members of Parliament and hundreds of thousands of patriotic Bulgarians pilgrimaged from Sofia to Preslav, which 10 centuries ago formed the capitol of the vast Bulgarian empire. The celebrations began with civilian processions and military parades and a great national thanksgiving service in which the King was a conspicuous figure.

TROOPS SALUTE BORIS

After high mass the King laid the cornerstone of the new Cathedral of Saints Cyril and Method, Bulgaria's patron saints, to whom the country owes her culture and present Cyrilic alphabet.

Following the church services and cornerstone laying the King rode in state through the streets of the ancient capital, which was lavishly decorated with flags and flowers.

A unique feature of the ceremonies was a huge open-air feast given by the state to 5,000 Bulgarian patriots, at which King Boris presided.

Premier Andrei Liaptcheff, speaking last night at a great state banquet, said the whole Bulgarian nation looked forward to the betrothal of its beloved monarch and to his establishing a national dynasty.

King Boris has become known as the Bachelor King. He is 35 and has reigned alone since 1918. The constitutional requirement that the King must be reared in the National Church has apparently operated against the marriage of Boris with princesses with whom his name had been linked.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 13.—(AP.)—Reports from Sofia today were that despite official denials rumors persist that the engagement of King Boris of Bulgara and Princess Giovanni of Italy will be announced on Wednesday on the occasion of the anniversary of Bulgaria's independence from the Turks.

LONDON, May 13.—(AP.)—A Geneva dispatch saying it had been learned that the engagement of King Boris with a member of the Saxe-Coburg and Gotha family will be announced shortly, is printed in the Mail today. The newspaper points out that Princess Sibylle, eldest daughter of the reigning duke, is the most eligible. She was born in 1908. Her sister, Princess Caroline Mathilde, will be 17 in June.

Speakers will be J. C. Nevin, manager of the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Reserve Bank, and Maxwell S. Mattuck, of New York, counsel for the credit protection department, Eastern division, National Association of Credit Men. F. C. Demmler, of Demmler Bros. Company, will preside.

ZAHNISER WORK PRAISED

Accomplishments of the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Zahniser, retiring executive secretary of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches of Christ, during the last 20 years, were praised by the Rev. Dr. Roy B. Guild, associate secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, speaking in the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church last night.

"Twenty-eight denominations with 22,000,000 communicants are trying to think through, not to an organized unit, a single great denomination, but a unity of spirit, of thought, of service, that will reveal the love of God," said Mr. Guild. "To reach the foundations of this work the Federal Council has called Dr. Zahniser to go to the theological seminaries to interest and instruct the prospective ministers in what needs to be done and how to do it."

KDKA 'COVERS' 22,000 MILES

Establishing a new record for distance broadcasting, KDKA early Sunday morning picked up a special program from 2ME at Sydney, Australia, and rebroadcast it to the Byrd Expedition. The total distance covered by the broadcast was 22,000 miles.

Several messages were exchanged between 2ME and the personnel of KDKA. H. W. Irving, Louis Kaufman, P. A. Boyd and John Frazer sent Pittsburgh greetings to those in Australia.

The Byrd broadcast Saturday night was a big success. Two-way communication was established between KDKA and WFE at Little America and the radio fans were given the benefit of the code and voice conversation between Byrd and KDKA.

Don Writes Eve He Can Never Forgive Her Then Sails for Hawaii

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Don Carlos Whiting, young literary aspirant, sees George Phillips, a neighbor, embracing Eve Carson, his marriage to whom has been kept secret. When he faces the couple Eve tells him he is intruding. Phillips refuses to leave and he battles with Don Carlos. In the struggle Phillips is knocked unconscious, after which Don Carlos leaves, believing his rival dead. He wanders all night and on the San Francisco docks meets Dick Randolph, an old friend, who is purser on an Orient-bound ship. He asks Don Carlos to take a berth as far as Hawaii. They learn that Phillips is not dead.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III.

"NO, of course I'm not fooling," said Dick Randolph. "I want you to come as my assistant. Benson, who assists me, has been ill and the break came at the end of the voyage. They took him to the hospital as soon as we landed. We sail again in a couple of days, and unless I can get someone to take his place, it will mean that there won't be any time for wine, women and song for Dicky-boy on the outgoing trip. I'll have to work night and day to keep up with the manifests. I'd like to have you, Don—if you want to leave town."

"Want to? Dick, you're a godsend! You're opening the door of adventure to me, right when I need it most."

"I can't take you on to the Orient with me, Don. I'll have to pick up Benson's understudy down at Honolulu. But it will give you the trip down there and a change from present scenes."

"That's all I ask." Would he be glad to leave the Bay with its bitter memories—of Eve—of her unfaithfulness—of her sneering look that last night—was it only last night?

"Let's get some food under our belts, and then I'll take you up to the office and give you a little coaching in your future work. But say—what about Eve? Now that Phillips is getting better, won't she want to come back to you?"

"Never! Not Eve! I haven't money enough to suit her. If you could only hear the sneer in her voice when she calls me a struggling scribbler. That's all I'll ever be to Eve."

"You never were one to sell your birthright for a mess of pottage, Don. Old Fournier predicted great things for you over in Paris. But it's up to you."

By such simple steps did the entire life of Don Carlos change from dull monotones to dancing pictures of romance and adventure—of soft nights spent beneath tropical moons—of a black-eye Circe beneath tropical skies—from her he would learn that love had not died within his heart at the touch of treachery—but that it lay dormant to be brought into the full flower of its being by the beauty of the woman who even then was dreaming of love—down where the white night and the scent of wild ginger in the air made a fit setting for love . . .

"I am leaving in an hour," he wrote Eve when the ship was getting under sail. "I have learned that Phillips is alive—so there is nothing to hold me. If life wills, I shall never come back. That is in the lap of the gods. For what I have done . . . I can never forgive myself. For what you drove me to do . . . I can never forgive you . . ."

As the ship sailed past the lighthouse and out beyond the Seal Rocks of the Golden Gate, Don Carlos stood on the deck for a brief moment and gave one parting glance to the shore of Marin, where lay buried so many of his dreams. But the tropic isles lay just beyond, and the lure of it called to him.

Life moving on—pitilessly—relentlessly . . .

At Honolulu, Don Carlos left the boat and its employ. Dick had been forced to take on the other petty officer, so they parted. But he still worried over Don Carlos.

"If a loan will help you, Don—old boy—just say the word."

"Forget it Dick. And thanks. I'd just have another obligation to pay. I have the money for my work on the way down. As it is now, I've got a clean slate, and that's a pretty good beginning when one is going to start life anew." For Don Carlos had decided to remain in the islands the moment he saw the purple-black range of the Koolaus peeking forth the morning they had arrived. "Something will turn up."

And it did.

The ship sailed late that afternoon on its trip to the Orient. Don Carlos saw it off, and then roamed about the docks. The sea still held its fascination for him. The five-day trip down to the islands had but whetted his appetite for adventure. Well, it would come to him if he were patient. He envied Dick, out on the high seas once more.

Right around the corner oftimes lies the kingdom of our dreams of romance.

Don Carlos walked around the foot of Fort street, turned towards that section where the boats for the East head out to sea and watched Dick's vessel nose its way out. It was carrying part of his heart with him . . . those niches of the heart of him which yearned for all the glories of travel.

Turning away, he catapulted himself into a mass of intrigue and romance and adventure which he never had dreamed could come to mere mortal.

The object of his gaze spoke to him in a deep, husky tone, for the Polynesian has no high key in his tonal register.

"Would you like to make a couple of thousand dollars easily?"

Don Carlos did not believe his ears. He looked about him. No one else was in sight. The question apparently had been directed to him alone.

"I say, would you mind repeating that statement?"

"Would you like to make some real money easily—say $2,000? And keep your mouth shut about it?"

"My dear fellow, do ducks swim? Does money grow on trees down here, that you are willing to toss it away so carelessly?"

"Not on trees, but in little black bags. Such as this one," indicating a small black grip he held in his hands.

"I need money, yes. But what is your game? I am a perfect stranger here. I only arrived this morning."

"You are the sort we are seeking. Perfect strangers—in our land. All you have to do is deliver this little satchel safely to this address on River street, about 10 blocks from here, and $2,000 will be paid to you immediately. No questions asked. Does it not sound easy, my friend?"

"But I don't understand. I suppose I seem stupid. I haven't the slightest idea of what is in this satchel, but how do you know that you can trust me? I repeat, I have just arrived."

"And already we know all about you. You are one of those artistic persons who come to our shores seeking beauty and freedom—shall I say—from personal cares?" Don Carlos started, glanced keenly at the Polynesian. Had Phillips died—after all? But the other was speaking again.

"Before that can be accomplished, one must have freedom from financial worries. I open the door for you; will you enter?"

"But is this some game? I must admit I am dumfounded. What is in the satchel? I need money, but then, too, this does sound sort of suspicious to me."

The Polynesian was regarding him with great immobility of expression. Was the bait to escape him?

"The satchel contains—important papers. You shall see for yourself."

He opened the black grip and disclosed to Don Carlos' vision a harmless group of papers, wrapped in heavy manila envelopes.

"You might call it a tong war—between the interlopers, the Orientals—and my own people. Interest centers in these papers. I dare not deliver them personally, for I am known. But you are a stranger—it is such an easy way to earn money. And no danger to you."

He spread out his hands in a careless gesture.

The mind of Don Carlos wavered. It appealed to the dramatic sense within him, this being catapulted into the midst of intrigue. The plot of a novel might be born of this little adventure.

Why not? Life has been cheating him of its lilt for so long.

"I'll do it."

The Polynesian grasped his hand.

"You walk down this street until you come to what appears to be a canal dividing the Oriental section from the Occidental. Number 10 River street is your destination. Tell the Chinaman, Ah Fong, who will answer your knock, that David Nahull sends him greetings."

David Nahull! A name with which to reckon. So Don Carlos found out in the days which were to come.

INSPIRATION — By JACK WOODFORD — Daily Short Story

DICK was truly, just as the girls about the office said: "The best looking thing!" And, what was more, he was "all there" as the older one's expressed it, more cautiously. That is, beside being young, handsome and pleasant, he was sensible, ambitious and well thought of by his employers. But he had one defect that most of the girls in the office considered quite egregious! He was terribly bashful.

In his family there had been no brothers or sisters. His mother had died when he was very young. Girls, to him, were a breathtaking mystery, and he never got over the illusion.

Grace Hanson, the switchboard girl, was rather glad he was that way. Perhaps the fact of her being a switchboard girl was one of those "psychic compensations," psychoanalysts talk about. She was so shy that she never would have been able to speak to men at all, except when she couldn't see them. Sometimes, customers of the office, hearing her delightful voice over the 'phone, tried to make dates with her. When they came to the office for this purpose, they found that the switchboard was in a little room off of the office proper, where Grace worked hidden from view all day—and when they saw her they thought it was an outrage that she should be kept hidden from view. A natural mop of lovely golden hair, lilaceous eyes, a slim figure, adorable lips and a skin like living satin. But when they tried to talk to her she had a way of escaping at the first opportunity and retreating to the protection of her little enclosed room.

It was inevitable that Dick and she should be attracted toward each other. For days, he pondered upon ways and means of presenting to her the astounding fact that he had the presumption to love her and even a latent desire to possess her, as though a mere human man might be ambitious to possess sheer materialized and solidified sunshine.

Grace, too, sensed his feelings. She longed somehow to aid and abet him in making a date with her—but she could not overcome her shyness, even for Dick.

It was at a matinee, one Saturday afternoon, that Dick got the big idea.

In between the acts, during the setting of a particularly complicated scene, the management showed a short moving picture. The plot put hope into Dick's timid heart. He thought how wonderful it would be if he could sit, in the semi-darkness, at the theater, with Grace next him. Then, perhaps, he could talk to her as he longed to.

The next day he was still thinking over his tentative notion when he heard Billings, the office manager, say that he had been to "Playball!" the new musical comedy. Billings was so enthusiastic about it that he went all over the office selling the show, as often a particularly enthusiastic customer will.

At noon, Dick slipped over to a speculator's and bought two tickets for "Playball!" One of these he deposited upon Grace's locker, in the cloakroom, where she would be sure to see it when she got back from lunch. Then he went back out again for his luncheon and returned half an hour later, frightened to death at his boldness. Of course, she wouldn't use the ticket. But maybe! maybe! maybe! His heart pounded out the refrain in swift staccato. If she used it, she'd be right next him in the dark. Maybe, even, before the show was over, they'd be holding hands!

On the way in he stopped for a moment before the little panel in the switchboard room, to see if Grace looked angry. Instead of looking angry, she looked terribly nervous. He dared to hint:

"Go to shows much, Grace?" he asked, trying to make his voice sound casual. She said:

"Seldom. The last one I saw was 'Druid!' and before that I hadn't been to a show for a year."

In terror he fled the panel and hurried out to the locker room to put up his hat. His face was a scarlet. His mind was like a barrel of broken glass being shaken up, for "Druid" was the show where they had shown the motion picture between the acts which had given him the big idea of buying two theater tickets and giving one to the girl. He decided to quit his job. She would think him a perfect fool—he could never face her again.

And then putting his hat into the locker, he saw before him another ticket to "Playball" and it was not one of the tickets he had bought.

BUCS OPEN ROBIN SERIES

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Bucs to Miss Bartell. Another Golf Struggle. Master-Mind System. | Yanks Not Weakening. Break Betting Record. Big Derby Draws Near.

FATES ADD TO PIRATE MIDWAY SHIFTS

EVEN the baseball fates appear to be taking a hand in forcing a continuance of the shortstop-second base shifting that is clouding the Pittsburgh club's outlook for the season.

Dick Bartell.

Another change was rendered necessary by the injury suffered by Dick Bartell in Philadelphia on Saturday, when he was struck in the face by a batted ball, and with Bartell on the shelf Manager Bush will be delayed that much longer in establishing at the midway the permanent combination that is essential to the success of the team.

The loss of Bartell's individual services, even though only for a few days, is a hard blow, too. Aside from the pepper he spills and the life he puts in the infield, Dick has been playing splendid ball on both the attack and the defense. On the offense, in particular, he has been surprisingly good, exceeding the most consistent hitters on the club. In fact he has surpassed all teammates in that respect with the solitary exception of Lloyd Waner.

UP TO Saturday's game, in which he did not get a time at bat, Bartell hit safely in 16 out of 18 games. The only pitchers to keep him from connecting were Sheriff Blake, of the Cubs, and Carl Hubbell, of the Giants. He has an average of .329 for the season and is the only regular apart from Lloyd Waner hitting .300. The younger Waner batted safely in 17 out of 19 games up to today, the only hurlers to stop him being Harry Seibold, of the Braves, and Hubbell.

The inability of the veteran pitchers, with the exception of Grimes, to show anything more approaching their normal effectiveness, continues to be a tough problem for Manager Bush. Carmen Hill added one more flop to the list Saturday. It was his third start and his third time to be knocked out. That makes nine games that have been started by Hill, Kremer and Petty, and in eight of them they were driven off the hill, Petty pitching the only complete contest.

FOLLOWING the American team's defeat in the Ryder Cup matches and Walter Hagen's triumph in the British open during the last two weeks Uncle Sam is making another attempt to capture foreign golf honors in the women's British championship tournament that opened today at St. Andrew's.

Miss Glenna Collett, the United States champion, is America's main hope, the Misses Marion Hollins and Marion Turpie being the only other entrants from this side of the Atlantic, but there isn't much in that small field to cause Americans to become overly optimistic.

Glenna Collett.

ONE obstacle is the fact that Miss Joyce Wethered decided to return to competition this year and is trying again for the title that she won three times. Her tournament play in England recently indicated that her long absence from the links did not impair her ability, and the evidence she frequently gave in the past that she was entitled to be ranked as the best woman golfer in the world makes the task of defeating her well nigh impossible. And the dope of past performances isn't favorable to America, either, as this is the only big British golf title that the United States has never been able to win. But, you can't tell, for all that. There was a time in the British open last week when nobody conceded Walter Hagen a chance in the world.

THIS is the fourth trip that Miss Collett has made in quest of the women's British title, though she was actually in competition only twice prior to the present tournament. She tried first in 1925, at Troon, only to have the ill luck of being drawn against Miss Wethered in the early rounds.

Miss Wethered was invincible at that time, and the match went only 15 holes, at which point the English girl had a score of even 4s. In 1926 the championship was decided at Newcastle, and though Miss Collett went to England to compete a railroad strike prevented her from reaching the scene. Last year she eliminated the defending champion, Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume in the opening round, but lost to Miss Mabel Wragg in the fourth round when unfavorable weather upset her game.

THE hitless game that Carl Hubbell pitched against the Pirates in New York last Wednesday has opened the way for further discussion of Manager John McGraw's reported system of dictating every pitch delivered by any of his young hurlers to an opposing batter.

John McGraw.

It happened that on the day when Hubbell handed the Bucs a row of horse collars in the hit and run columns, as on several other days last week, McGraw was not in the Giant dugout. He was at home on account of a slight illness.

So Hubbell had to go ahead and pitch his own game without any master-minding from the dugout, and in view of the fact that he succeeded in flinging a no-hit classic the question naturally arises, "What would he have done with McGraw's aid?" Perhaps he would have pitched a perfect game, with 27 strike-outs to his credit. But the chances are that after the third inning, when the Giants had a 6-to-0 lead he would have been ordered to let down a bit and save himself for possible emergencies later, with the result that he would not have pitched a no-hit game at all. McGraw's system appears wrongly applied at times. The results that he got out of Burleigh Grimes with it seemingly were not satisfactory to him, as he proceeded to trade the spitballer. Donie Bush has let Burleigh pitch his own games to a great extent, and the result is that up to today Grimes won 29 games for Pittsburgh in one complete season and less than four weeks of another.

THEY finally succeeded in flagging the Yankees Saturday and yesterday after the world champions had won eight games in succession, seven of which were played away from home, but though what looked like another spring runaway was halted for the time being the drive lasted long enough to show that the Hugmen's old offensive power is still there.

The Yanks may be slipping, but there is still a lack of convincing evidence on that point, despite their defeat of Saturday and yesterday. Teams that can step out and win eight straight games in the spring with only one pitcher in really good form are a considerable distance from being on the decline.

ALL Preakness betting records were broken when the famous spring racing fixture was run for the thirty-ninth time at the Pimlico track last Friday, with Dr. Freeland winning.

It is announced officially by M. L. Palger, manager of the course, that a sum of more than $1,300,000 was wagered on the chances of the 11 starting horses. The highest previous total for pari-mutuel betting on the Preakness was $1,175,000, reached last year.

DERBY week. Next Saturday will witness the fifty-fifth running of the Kentucky derby at Churchill Downs, and, with the Preakness out of the way, the country's turf followers are giving all their speculative time in trying to figure the outcome of the approaching classic. It is to be another "B" year? Blue Larkspur, entered by Col. E. R. Bradley, who always gives his horses names beginning with the letter "B," continues strongly in favor, but the Bradley entry will have to upset derby history in order to win, as no owner has ever won the big event three times. The Colonel has already taken the honors twice, with Behave Yourself in 1921 and Bubbling Over in 1926. Singularly enough, he also won second place on both occasions, with Black Servant in 1921 and Bagenbagage in 1925. Only one other turfman, Gorge Long, has ever owned two derby winners.

MARION TURPIE DEFEATED AT ST. ANDREWS

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 13. —(AP.)—Glenna Collett, American titleholder, began her quest for the British women's golf championship with a 5-and-3 victory over Marjorie White, of Roehampton, in a first-round match today.

Marion Turpie, born at St. Andrews, but an American resident since she was less than a year old, was beaten in the first round by Miss S. F. Dampney, of England, 3 and 2.

Miss Marion Hollins, former women's golf champion of the United States, won her first-round match, defeating Mrs. R. V. Finlay, 5 up and 3 to play.

GLENNA IN FINE FORM

Most feared among the four American entrants, Miss Collett played a sterling brand of golf to down her first British opponent in decisive fashion. She took the lead at the first hole and never relinquished it. At the turn she was leading two up.

It was Glenna's magnificent driving that helped her to this splendid victory. Her tee-shots were the sort that any man might well be proud of, one in particular, at the fifth, being the longest drive seen made by any woman on British links this year.

She outdrove Miss White by 50 yards at this hole, and followed it up with a 40-yard advantage at the sixth.

Out—
Collett	4	6	4	5	4	5	4	4	4	—40
White	6	6	5	4	6	3	5	4	4	—43
In—
Collett	3	4	5	4	6	3				—25—65
White	4	3	5	7	7	5				—31—74

Enid Wilson, 20-year-old English champion, won her first round match from Joy Winn, 3 and 2.

The defeat of Marion Turpie, southern women's champion, was due to inability to putt. The New Orleans girl took three putts on five greens and on each Miss Dampney's steadiness won for her. The card:

Out—
Turpie	6	5	5	5	6	6	5	4	4	—46
Dampney	5	6	5	4	7	5	5	4	4	—45
In—
Turpie	4	4	5	6	7	5	6
Dampney	4	3	4	5	7	7	6

Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, Toronto, won from Mrs. Lewis Smith, one up.

IRISH CHAMP LOSES

Mrs. Temple Dobell, former champion, won from Mrs. George Coats, Ayrshire champion, at the 19th hole.

Miss Leslie Brown, young English girl from the Wimbledon Club, defeated Miss Janet Jackson, many times Irish champion, 7 up and 6 to play. This result, with Miss Turpie's defeat, were the surprises of the play.

Miss Joyce Wethered defeated Miss Phyllis Lobbett, 6 up and 5 to play.

Miss Wethered, three times champion and odds on favorite to make it four, had a thousand people watching her shots as she went out to play.

Miss wethered turned in a sensation 37 in the first nine holes, which included five pars and one birdie. She was four up at that point and then took two of the next four holes for the match.

Although Miss Hollins won easily, it was agreed that she would have to make a much better showing to beat Miss Wethered in their anticipated meeting later in the tourney. On the basis of their cards today, Miss Hollins would have been six down to Miss Wethered after nine holes.

Miss Marion Hollins' card for the 15 holes she played to win her match from Mrs. Finlay:

Out	5	5	4	5	7	4	6	4	5	—45
In	5	4	4	5	5

Miss Joyce Wethered's card:

Out	5	4	4	5	5	3	5	3	3	—37
In	4	3	4	5

MARION WELL BACKED

Great things had been expected of Miss Turpie. Her putting and misjudgment of iron shots, however, made it not at all difficult for Miss S. F. Dampney to eliminate her. She was born within sight of this historic course. Many of the older inhabitants hereabouts recalled her grandfather who used to

Gehrig Holds Lead Among Big Six

Pitchers had their innings against the Big Six yesterday and as a result averages generally were scaled down. The relative positions of the various men remained unchanged, with Lou Gehrig still in the van, but with an average of .371 instead of .388. The only two men to escape a decline were Paul Waner, who was not scheduled to play, and Babe Ruth, whose average remained stationary at .365 as a result of his getting the only Big Six safety, a two-bagger at Detroit.

Rogers Hornsby went hitless at the Polo Grounds in six attempts and fell to .292, an amazing figure for the National League batting champion to own at any stage of the season. The standing:

BARTELL, HILL AILING; BOOTS AT SECOND

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, May 13. — With Dick Bartell back in Pittsburgh nursing his damaged face and Carmen Hill also missing o account of an ailing back, the Pirates were under a slight handicap as they prepared to clash with the Robins this afternoon.

Hill gave a very poor exhibition in Philadelphia Saturday, and when he complained of a sore back, Manager Bush ordered him home. However, it isn't likely that the veteran would have worked in the Brooklyn series, anyhow. He and some of the others who were supposed to help the club have failed dismally since the bell rang.

BOOTS AT SECOND

Bush declared this morning that George Grantham would be back at second base this afternoon. Boots played his old position yesterday in Reading while the Pirates lost to that club, and he probably will remain at the keystone sack for the remainder of the trip.

The new move means that Sparky Adams will switch over the short field. Bush has comorosky and Brickell for the left pasture. If a righthander operates against the Buccos, Brick will get the assignment, and vice versa.

Pilot Donie also declared that Larry French, colorful young lefthander, would operate on the mound against the Robins in the first meeting of the two clubs this year. The slick southpaw is all keen for more fields to conquer, and it is likely that the Robins are in for an interesting afternoon.

The Pirates must take two out of three games from the Robins to return home with a mark over .500. They are right at that point today, after winning five of their eight contests on the eastern trip.

BUCS INCONSISTENT

In some of the games on the present jaunt the Buccos showed real class. In others they were as loose as ashes, especially in the first contest in Philadelphia, which they eventually won on the power of their drive.

The Saturday contest in the Quaker City left a bad flavor. The Pittsburghers jumped off to a lead early, but the pitchers withered as the lowly ones slammed the ball all over the park and out into Broad street.

The Robins are floundering like drunken sailors, but it would not be wise for the Pirates to be too confident in the impeding games. Your Uncle Robbie has a weak club, but he has a couple of pretty fair country pitchers in Dazzy Vance and Jim Elliott, not to mention Buzz McWeeny.

When the Bushwhackers finish up with the Robins, Wednesday, they will hit the homeward trail. Games with the Cardinals are scheduled at Forbes Field for the last three days of the week. Then to Chicago for a series.

CARDS SHOW REAL CLASS

By Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 13.—The class of the Cardinals is beginning to tell. The Redbirds, as you will note, are in undisputed possession of the honor position today, they having dislodged the clever Cubs, who battled to a long deadlock with the Giants. Billy Southworth's club has moved along like real champions on their first eastern invasion. They have been beaten only twice, and the worst business they can find before heading westward is a series with the Phillies. Perhaps the Quakers will be able to flag down the Redbirds. But dont bet on it.

The hammer-and-tongs attack displayed by the Cardinals is covering up some mediocre pitching. The Robins yesterday found Bill Sherdel for plenty of hits, but in the matter of tallies they were not even close when the fight ended.

Frankie Frisch seems to be on his way to a big season. He had four safeties in the finale with the Robins and in a general way has been making the fans pay attention.

Singles Handball Tournament Opens

The singles handball championship of the A. M. A., A. A. U. gets under way this afternoon at the Keystone Athletic Club when, at 4:30 o'clock, Frank Smith, of the Downtown Y, meets Harvey LePevre, McLean battles Lager, Winkelman opposes J. P. Smith and Bob Burns takes on Santelli.

At 5:30 o'clock, M. McCutcheon meets Wolfe, Karkalas and Bialis play, Williams hooks up with Clark, and McInnes and Manos have a round of it.

Four matches are slated for tomorrow, two for Wednesday and two for Thursday. Consolation contests also will be played Thursday.

Scranton Releases Five, Signs Two

SCRANTON, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—Manager Mike O'Neill of the Scranton Miners, handed out releases to five ballplayers yesterday and signed three new men in an effort to lift the local club out of the cellar. The players let out are: Jimmy Lyons, first baseman; Walter McGregor, second baseman; Len Hartline, and Mike Bohinsky, catchers, and Felix Nevinsky, pitcher.

Rangnow, a catcher, who was formerly with Harrisburg and Wilkes-Barre, joined the Miners at Binghamton, as did Jimmy O'Neill, veteran infielder, and Lyons, a first baseman sent here on option by the Philadelphia Nationals.

Heidelberg's Champions

(Inside story of the remarkable record compiled by the Heidelberg (Pa.) Soccer Club, which has won the National amateur championship twice in the last three years.)

By E. J. Balsarini

Manager of Heidelberg Soccer Club

CHAPTER VI—ONCE MORE WE REBUILD.

WHEN the call came for soccer in the 1926-27 season, I had the old thought, "The third time pays for all." And this would be my third attempt to win the "Amateur." I entered the Heidelberg Club in the Keystone League and felt that with Dunlevy, Cuddy, which was destined to become West Penn champion, and Curry in the loop, I would have the boys whipped into shape by the time the amateur title rounds got under way.

E. J. Balsarini

We had copped the West Penn Cup, so I decided again to concentrate on the national amateur and the Keystone League competition. Of the team that tried to win in the two previous attempts, only Courtley, Jones, McCosky, Harbin and Stenzel remained, so it again was necessary to rebuild.

This time, instead of going to Dunlevy, up the Monongahela River, I remained closer to home in another American soccer nursery, Morgan, a little town up Millers Run, in my quest for talent. This wonderful little town, the home of the Fagans, Donnellis and O'Donnells, had played a great part in Western Pennsylvania soccer, and, while it had done nothing in national circles, it had cleaned up well in Western Pennsylvania.

CLUB ROUNDED OUT

I SIGNED Joe Fagan as fullback, to take the place of Lance Smith who had gone to Akron. Bill O'Donnell put his name on the dotted line to add power to the attack as center forward and Billy Mitchell came in as a halfback, so that the new Heidelberg team was half Morgan and half Heidelberg in makeup.

Then, for the first time, I signed a foreign-born player. Andy Strachan was brought to Heidelberg to partner with Joe Fagan to give me a perfect defense.

O'Donnell was perhaps the headlest player around the Panhandle circuit. His knowledge of how to wreck an opposing defense was marvelous. Chappell and Kusis, the former a Chartiers Valley boy and a likely-looking outside man, came into the forward line, and, with Chappell, Kusis, O'Donnell, McCosky and Jones forming our attack I felt we were good enough to win.

BEATEN BY CUDDY

WE WERE shocked in the West Penn cup play when the Cuddy team, another American-born club from Millers Run, beat us by a 2-goals-to-0 score. However, we sewed up the Keystone League title and then were set for the national amateur play.

The boys had the fever and this time I figured if every man on the team would do his stuff we would cop. Once again we had to make a trip to Ohio. How we won those games and the elusive national title will be recorded in the next chapter tomorrow.

FIGHT OFF

READING BEATS BUCS, 10-6

READING, May 13.—Joe Kelly, former member of the Chicago Cubs who now plays right field for the local Interantional League club, wielded a wicked bludgeon yesterday and beat the Pirates almost single-handed. The score was 10 to 6 and Kelly delivered three homers and drove in seven runs. All of his four-baggers sailed over the right field wall and one came when two bases were occupied.

A heavy thunderstorm halted the exhibition game in the third inning and many of the 6,000 fans were drenched to the skin. Warm sunshine followed the downpour and the pastime was resumed after a 15-minute pause.

Joe Zubris, a young coal miner who has been ill, made his first start of the season, but after the rain he was replaced by Nick Harrison. Lee Meadows worked the full game and was rapped for 16 blows. Kelly made four and Wight and Hawks, the latter a former Phil, got three apiece. Quellich also hit a circuit slam.

New Discus Throw Mark Is Set Up

SEATTLE, Wash., May 13.—(AP.)—A possible new world record of 160 feet 7-10 inches for the discus throw provided the sensation for the track meet Saturday between the universities of Oregon and Washington which was won by the latter, 82 to 49. Edward Moeller of the Oregon contingent heaved the platter to what may be decided is a new mark.

Pirates Dickering For Coast Shortstop

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 13.—The Pittsburgh National League club is trying to buy Shortstop Gordon Slade for immediate delivery from the Missions.

Joe Devine, scout for that club, tried to determine what the San Francisco team wanted for Slade and said Wade Killefer refused to talk price with him.

It seems that the Pirates are in need of a shortstop and the great playing of Slade has attracted a bid for his services from the National League organization.

According to Devine, it does not look as though the Pirates have a chance to get Slade. The scout did not mention how high a bid he was prepared to make for the infielder.

JUST A LETTER FROM A BOXER'S MANAGER

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

There is sentiment, believe it or not, in the boxing game.

If you doubt it, I wish you could read, as I have just read, a long letter Francis Flynn, local boxing promoter, has just received from Eddie Weygant, of Youngstown, manager of Mickey Solmen, the New Castle welterweight boxer, who recently was knocked out in the tenth round of a game stand against Buck McTiernan, the new local sensation, at the Moose Temple, and, three nights later, still suffering from the bruises of that battle, lost to Johnny Carey, of Erie, at New Castle. Carey subsequently went down to a sorry defeat before the same McTiernan here.

Weygant writes the letter to tell Flynn that he has ordered Solmen to rest for at least a month and to refrain from even going into the gymnasium.

The letter is too long to reproduce entirely here, but I quote some passages from it.

FOUGHT TOO OFTEN

"This is not an excuse for Mickey's defeat by McTiernan," Weygant, himself a former boxer, writes. "McTiernan is a great fighter and might have beaten anybody in the world at the weight the night he defeated my boy. I simply want to set both Mickey and myself straight with you. I am laying him off entirely for a month. He has been going to the post too often and has paid the penalty for being a good crowd-pleaser. He needs a rest. It seems he is not built to fight so often. He has been in such great demand that the McTiernan fight was his thirteenth in two months and the Carey fight his fourteenth.

"By remaining idle now he will have to pass up a number of matches that would bring in a considerable sum of money, and he needs it, for, like McTiernan, Mickey, although only 18 years old, is the main support of his family. He cares for his widowed mother and a brother. I might write you of some other interesting details of his private affairs, but who cares about such things when a fighter is, for the moment, beaten? Anyone with any sentiment in his heart would pull for a kid like that to come back, though, and he's coming back, and, one of these days, when he's earned the right, he wants to fight McTiernan again. Not right away, you understand, but when he feels he is ready again. Don't think me presumptuous when I say I am confident he can do better even against a McTiernan when he is at his best."

HISTORY OF DEVELOPMENT

Then Weygant launches into a history of his relations with the popular Mickey, who has boxed McTiernan three times, to meet crushing defeat only in the last of this series of engagements.

"I was running a small garage in New Castle two years ago and had a gymnasium upstairs," writes Weygant. "One day there appeared a skinny-looking kid who asked me if I would teach him to box. He didn't appear to be strong enough, but I told him to go upstairs and try his hand. When I saw him in gym togs he was a ludicrous sight. His arms and legs were just two long bones with great big knots or bumps for joints. His ribs stuck out as if someone had lashed him with a rawhide whip and his neck reminded me of the cartoons of Happy Hooligan. All he needed to complete the picture was a tin can resting on top of his head. This was my introduction to Mickey.

"I told him to put up his hands and take a punch at the big bag. When he did he fell back from the rebound and hit the floor and got up grinning and sailed in to try again. A little later he tried to box with the veteran Babe Picato and seemed to be trying to eat the Babe's left hand, glove and all, as he kept walking into it. When we called time, he was grinning from ear to ear although the blood was streaming like water from his nose and he was puffing like a crippled engine.

"He looked hopeless—except for his indomitable persistency. But I liked the doggedness of the little Dutchman, as we called him, and worked with him for three months. He was slow to strike his stride and couldn't punch a lick because he wasn't rugged enough. His right wouldn't knock your hat off, and I thought it time to call quits. I didn't want to hurt his feelings, so I told him to take a few months off and go fishing and running around during the warm weather because it would do him good. What I really wanted to do was to have him quit bothering me and at the same time save him from himself.

HE'LL BE BACK!

"Imagine my surprise when he came back with 20 more pounds on his frame, filled out all over, and packing the kick of a mule. He knocked me right off my pins with the transformation. Right then and there he began to get started, and you know what he has done since. After 18 fights, he was stricken by appendicitis and had to take an enforced rest. He returned the first of last March and since then has been one of the busiest and most successful young fighters in the country. But it seems he just isn't built to fight every week or oftener and now he's in drydock again for repairs.

"But he'll be back—and how! You can't keep a kid with the heart of a Mickey Solmen down, and that's why I'm writing you this letter about him and asking you to set aside a date in your book for another bout with McTiernan, whom, let me add, both Mickey and I regard as one of the finest young specimens in the ring today and to whom we extend our wishes for a career that will carry him on to a championship."

No sentiment in the boxing game? Bah!

PECKINPAUGH SUSPENDED

CLEVELAND, May 13.—(AP.)—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, of the Cleveland Indians, was given a five-day suspension by President E. S. Barnard, of the American League, for his strenuous protests against a decision by Umpire Brick Campbell in Saturday's contest with Philadelphia.

Peckinpaugh disagreed with Campbell's ruling that Lew Fonseca was out for interference during a rally in the eighth inning of the game, which Cleveland lost. A few minutes later the crowd showered the field with pop bottles and Umpire Emmett Ormsby was momentarily knocked unconscious.

It was the first suspension for Peckinpaugh in his nearly 20 years' career as manager and player. Only once had he ever been ejected from a ball game.

Umek Leads Pyle Pack in Texas

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, May 13.—(AP.)—Through sunshine and rain, Giusto Umek trotted ahead of C. C. Pyle's transcontinental runners to win yesterday's 53-mile lap in the bunion derby from Fort Worth. He gained time on Pete Gavuzzi, England, and also on John Salo, Passaic, N. J., who were in first and second place respectively in total elapsed time.

Umek, from Trieste, Italy, stepped over the shetch of Texas pavement in 7:01:20. Third in elapsed time, he took an hour from the lead of Salo. Salo retained a 13-hour advantage, however.

Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., tied with Sam Richman, New York, for fourth place in 8:06:05.

Grays, Cubans Play At Forbes Field

Rain prevented the doubleheader between the Homestead Grays and the Cuban Stars in Cleveland yesterday afternoon and the teams will go into this evening's game at Forbes Field on even terms. The Cubans were victors Friday and the Gray's captured the decision Saturday, outhitting the Cubans two to one.

Levis, the Cuban's mound ace, will face the Grays this evening. Manager Posey has three pitchers in condition to ascend the hill, Smoky Joe Williams, Lefty Streeter and Lefty Williams, so from this view the Grays seem to hold the edge this evening.

Pyle Has Broken Arm in Auto Crash

ABILENE, Tex., May 13.—(AP.)—C. C. Pyle, sports promoter, suffered a broken arm in an automobile accident near here Saturday while traveling in the advance unit of his transcontinental runners, who will come into this section soon.

The taxicab in which Pyle was riding crashed through an obstruction barring a closed road and overturned. None of the other occupants was injured.

RACE POSTPONED

CLEVELAND, May 13.—(AP.)—The scheduled 100-mile automobile race over the North Randall dirt track yesterday was postponed until next Sunday because of rain. The race, sponsored by the American Automobile Association, had attracted entries from among the nation's leading drivers.

By TOM BIRKS.

Despite the fact that the weather man kicked in with numerous showers, the three carded sandlot games yesterday were played to good crowds. Troy Hill Millers rather upset the dope by nosing out the St. John's City Leaguers by a 6-to-5 score. The North Side Civics put a crimp into Beltzhoover by stopping the South Hills club 7 to 4, at Stewart avenue. The other game found the Class A champion, Woodmen of the World, defeating the Pleasant Valley nine, 9 to 2.

Rambeau pitched a nice game for St. John's until errors put men on the bases, then he forgot where the plate was and Troy Hill copped the bacon. Concrete pulled off the fielding masterpiece of the day with a triple somersault and coming up with the ball.

ROSENTHAL GOOD

Manager Jedinak, of the W. O. W. club, started Rosenthal, the boy who once pitched for Summit. Many teams feel that after four innings of his curve ball Rosenthal is through, yet in nine full innings the Pleasant Valley boys tried to hit that curve and got three hits. Pleasant Valley had five miscues in the field and Joe Cholko hit the first pitched ball for a home run.

In other games played yesterday, the J. J. Bolyes walloped the Cosletts, 11 to 5; Harvey A. A. wipped the East Liberty Red Sox, 4 to 1, and the Koskinos Cards upset the Lineys, 8 to 5.

The second week of the sandlot campaign will commence this evening, provided the weather man does not put on another act of showers. Maplewood defeated the Wagner Club by a 15-8 score.

In the City League, Bloomfield and Lawrenceville fans will have a chance to see a local fight at Dean Field when the J. L. Thomas and St. John's nines fight out last week's battle. The first meeting found the McGrady outfit on the long end of a 7-to-6 score which has served to spur on Thomas' fighting aggregation.

McGrady states that Kornick, stellar left-hander, will be sent in against the Zappa sluggers again. Zappa did not say last night who would work for the Bloomfielders, but there is going to be a great crowd in the stands when the umpire calls "Play Ball!"

In the Central League, the Harvey Club tangles with the Soho Board of Trade at Moultrie Park. Soho played and copped both of its games last week, which is making the Forbes street boys feel pretty cocky. However, the Harvey club comes from Manchester, where fighting ball players originated. The fur is sure to fly at Moultrie this evening.

LEAGUE OPENS

The Tri-Boro League, one of the oldest and best circuits in Western Pennsylvania, will start into action again this evening at Edgar Thomson Field. Rankin and the Braddock Owls will meet in the opening clash. This field is a great sandlot diamond. It makes the clubs play good baseball.

In the Allegheny Valley League, Parnassus, which is burning up the circuit, meets Arnold at the latter's grounds. Jerry Clark and his mates will have keen competition this evening. Freeport travels to Stewart Trucks, and seeing that the Lancelot outfit has a number of independent games under its belt, it should be in good shape.

The Crawford Colored Stars are looking for a couple of games away from home Memorial Day. The Hill club defeated Stowe Civics by an 8-to-4 score on Saturday, proving its win over the W. O. W. club was not a fluke.

Manager Harry Beale wishes to book all leading clubs in the tri-state district, especially the Five Points club. For games write H. Beale, 2224 Bedford avenue, or call Grant 4353.

U. S. Women Net Stars Lead Dutch

SCHEVENINGEN, Holland, May 13.—(AP.)—Led by Helen Wills, holder of the American, English and French championships, the United States won two of its three matches with a picked Dutch women's tennis team yesterday, second day of the international series. With three matches still to be played, the United States holds a lead of 4 to 2.

Miss Wills and Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., accounted for the American victories while Edith Cross, of San Francisco, was losing her second singles match of the series.

Miss Wills decisively defeated K. Bouman, first ranking Dutch woman player, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1; Miss Morrill conquered Miss Canters, 9-7, 7-5, and Miss Cross was beaten by Rolla Coquerque, 6-3, 6-1.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

Is it true that golf is about "two-thirds mental," as many people claim? What hints would you give for maintaining the proper mental balance and control throughout a game?

Answered by
CYRIL WALKER
Former National Open Champion.

I believe that mental control is the most valuable asset in one's game. Concentration while playing is absolutely necessary. My advice to players regarding mental control is to try and let the mind and hands work together. If you are out to play golf you cannot be thinking of something else and at the same time expect your hands and arms to do what you want them to do.

Belgium, Spain Out of Cup Play

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, May 13.—(AP.)—The Czechoslovakian Davis Cup team eliminated Belgium, 4 matches to 1, in a second round tie completed yesterday.

BARCELONA, Spain, May 13.—(AP.)—Winning the first two singles matches and the doubles as well, Germany's Davis Cup team eliminated Spain in the second round yesterday.

NEWTON MEETS HERRERA AGAIN TONIGHT

Two feature battles are scheduled in Western Pennsylvania tonight, one at New Castle and the other at Little Washington. Willie Davies, Charleroi flyweight star, meets Harry Goldstein, of Boston, in the windup of the former affair, to be held in the Jolly Bowl, where Davies is a big card, while the Washington Gardens will house a plum in the form of a return bout between Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., and Tony Herrera, of Chicago, who knocked him out in five rounds at New Castle last Monday night for a big upset of the dope. Both are tough punchers and a knockout is likely either way.

Jim Buchanan wants to know what is the matter with matching his Young Saylor against Buck McTiernan, since the latter has cleaned up about all of the other opposition around here. Saylor meets Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, in the main bout of the professional boxing revival at Uniontown Wednesday night.

Dan Billick, Duquesne featherweight has been matched to box Heine Hart in a 10-round bout at Allentown, Pa., Tuesday evening of next week.

GENARO TELLS OF PLADNER

Frankie Genaro, just back from France, where he twice fought Spider Pladner, the French star, has an interesting version of these battles. He says Pladner entered the ring so weak each time that he hardly could stand up and took the easy way out, striking Frankie low at the first opportunity. He was credited with a knockout in less than a minute in their first meeting when a left to the body dropped Genaro writhing to the canvas and was disqualified in the fifth round of the second battle after repeatedly fouling Genaro. He will not box again as a flyweight, and it is Genaro's opinion that he won't get far among the leading bantams. Frankie says the Spider isn't much of a boxer and fights only in close.

Willie Davies has been matched to box Filipinos in his next two starts. He meets Frisco Grande in a return bout in the windup at the Moose Temple next Friday night and on May 29 opposes Luis Carpentero in the windup of an open air show at Akron. He has met both men before and they have given him hard fights.

WESTERN PUBLIC HITS NEW HIGH RECORD HERE

A further rise in Western Public Service to a new high record featured the opening of the week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

Buying of Western Public made its appearance at the start of business with the opening sale at 29½ as compared with Saturday's close at 29. The latter figure had been the high point of the shares since they were listed several weeks ago following the organization of the company by the Crawford-Ohio Oil-Prairie Oil interests. Current activities in the shares are lined up in Street gossip with the developments in Columbia Gas and Electric, also under Crawford management. The new United Corporation, utility holding company sponsored by the J. P. Morgan interests, are said to have increased their holdings of Columbia recently, and an extension of United's gas-electric company holdings involving a western network may mean ultimate benefit to Western Public.

The other fuel shares were steady to firm with Lone Star displaying a little more volume than last week's average. The Arkansas Gas issues were quet, but held close to the levels prevailing when trading closed Saturday.

Miscellaneous industrials were rather dull in the early dealings and there were no noticeable changes in quotations. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt held around 28, the figure at which it has been pegged for some time. Harbison Walker came into the market unchanged at 60, the first trade in the issue for about a week. Pennsylvania Industries units were unchanged at 110. D. L. Clark was a fraction higher at 16¾, but there was no conspicuous activity in the issue. Standard Steel Propeller started the week unchanged at 27½.

Money Fears Hit Market.

The market sagged down in an ugly break today as traders threw stocks overboard through fear created by another "money market survey" in which a college professor and a Federal Reserve agent hold out possibilities of America's forfeiture of world money leadership because of the stock market's demand for credit. The survey was made for the Committee on Recent Economic Changes, of which President Hoover is chairman. It was made by W. Randolph Burgess, Federal Seserve agent of New York, and O. M. W. Sprague, of Harvard University. The complete report of the committee, a continuation of the President's Unemployment Conference of 1921-22, will be made public on Wednesday, a series of surveys such as that prepared by Mr. Burgess and Prof. Sprague forming the basis of the general conclusions reached. The Burgess-Sprague survey is under the title of "Money and Credit and Their Effect on Business." The survey hints that up to the present time only limited pressure has been brought to bear in restraining stock market speculation and states further that "the conclusion should not bed rawn from the lack of success that has so far attended the Reserve Board's efforts, that restraint could not be made effective through the Reserve System." The principal interest in the report is due to the fact that President Hoover heads the committee and is said to have kept in close touch with developments connected with preparation of its report in final form.

Getting Them Back.

A particularly interesting paragraph in the Burgess-Sprague survey is the following: "A rising stock market has a psychological influence favorable to business activity. It also serves to facilitate the marketing of securities among investors and lessens the cost of additional capital secured by the issue of new stock by many enterprises. In such markets large and sudden gains are realized and sort part of these gains doubtless serves to increase the demand for many commodities, particularly articles of luxury and, finally, a risinng security market tends to transfer ownership of some part of the accumulated wealth of the country from the cautious to the far-sighted and venturesome."

One pessimist in a brokers' board room yesterday read the last phrase of the paragraph and remarked, "Yes, and it looks as if some of the 'cautious' ones want them back pretty badly the way they have been playing bogey man the past few weeks."

Firm Says Report Biased.

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. say: "There has been a story going the rounds that the Federal Reserve was going to take drastic steps to limit the amount of Federal Reserve credit extended to the stock market. We imagine that this comes from a report made to Hoover's committee by Burgess, of the Federal Reserve, and Prof. Sprague, of Harvard. The report itself says that the Federal Reserve has not yet tested its powers to restrain speculation. It rather ounds as if the report must have been written some months ago. Had the controversy centered about medicine we imagine that it would be the part of wisdom to get the opinion of experienced doctors. The report on the financial situation is probably of academic interest, but as it centers about the stock market, it is somewhat mystifying to find that no representative of the stock exchange or stock exchange interest was included. It would therefore seem that the report must be somewhat biased."

Bearish Feeling Spreads.

Bearish feeling appeared to spread as the decline in stock prices was extended through the day. The largest wire house in the Street put out a flash soon after the opening advising its clients to lighten up accounts. This particular firm expressed the opinion that "easy money apparently is bringing in outside buying and inside selling." "Don't like the looks of it," the wire continued, "and would not be surprised of a sharp reaction is in the making."

Chicago & Northwestern.

Chicago and Northwestern Railway directors tomorrow are expected to declare only regular semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on the common. It is intimated that as the big earnings of the company are made in the second half of year, the logical time to take up the matter of an extra dividend would be at the close of that period. April Gross earnings were fully $700,000 larger than a year ago. It is probable net operating income will be about the same as last year. So far in May loadings have been larger than the same period last year, movement of ore being the feature. The general outlook for traffic in the Northwest is favorable.

It was reported in local financial circles today that a private sale of Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh stock had been made at $14,100 a share. Union Trust stock is reputed to be the highest priced in the world, at least it is the highest priced issue of which there are readily available records. The company is capitalized at $1,500,000, consisting of 15,000 shares of $100 par value.

MARKET WEAK DESPITE RATE REDUCTION

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Disregarding the reduction in the renewal rate on call money from 10 to 7 per cent, the stock market developed weakness today as persistent rumors of an increase in Federal Reserve discount rates spread through the financial district. Wall street appears convinced that the heavy stock and bond financing of the last few weeks is bound to be reflected in a substantial increase in brokers' loans, which may force an increase in the bank rate.

Although call money renewed at 7, funds were available in the "outside market" as low as 6. This gave rise to unconfirmed rumors that fresh funds temporarily were being supplied to the market to facilitate distribution of stocks. Some of the large commission houses advised their customers that "selling was of an excellent character" and probably represented real liquidation. Time money and bankers' acceptance rates held firm.

RAILS SELL UP

Rails enjoyed a temporary period of strength under the leadership of Boston and Maine, which rallied 4 points on the prospect of a resumption of dividends this year. Southern Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern, Missouri Pacific preferred, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and "Katy" all sold 2 or more points higher, but the gains were not fully maintained.

Motor, aviation and radio issues were among the hardest hit. Chrysler tumbled nearly 6 points to 81¼, the lowest price since last summer; Packard dropped 3 points and several others a point or two. United Aircraft dropped 7 points and Wright Aeronautical 6 in the early afternoon reaction. Radio sold down more than 4 points to 94, or 20 points below the recent high. Commercial Solvents, United Corporation, Ludlum Steel, American and Foreign Power, Montgomery Ward, Bethlehem Steel, Johns Manville and Sears-Roebuck all sold down 3 to 6 points.

AT YEAR'S LOW

New low prices for the year were recorded by Anaconda (new), American Agricultural Chemical preferred, Pennock & Ford and Gotham Silk Hosiery.

Westinghouse Electric, Sparks Withington and Missouri Pacific common all moved into new high ground for the year in the morning rally.

Heavy liquidation appeared toward the close as anxiety over the money outlook increased, and many representative industrials were driven down from 5 to 20 points.

Case Threshing slumped 30, Commercial Solvents 15, United Aircraft 11, Allis Chalmers 9½, Allied Chemical 9 and U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Johns Manville, Montgomery, Waro, General Electric, Western Union, Air Reduction and Electric Autolite were off from 7 to 8½ points. United States Steel and American Telephone lost three points each.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, May 13.—With the United States visible supply showing a big decrease, 4,231,000 bushels in the last week, wheat values here developed strength today. Liverpool wheat quotations, higher than expected, tended also to lift the Chicago market, as did predictions current that the June official forecast from Washington would show a decided curtailment of wheat yields. Notice also was taken that the Interstate Commerce Commission had approved reductions in export rates on wheat and grain by eastern and western rail lines.

Soaking rains in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, attracted a good deal of notice among wheat traders today after previous complaints of excessive moisture. Numerous Oklahoma points reported downpours of four to five inches since Saturday. According to some advices from Kansas, however, the rains although not needed had done no harm. Nevertheless, the market effect here was in favor of the buying side.

Helping to lift wheat values today in addition to bullish weather conditions in domestic winter wheat territory were reports of European purchases overnight that included No. 2 hard wheat from the United States. These purchases were announced as having been made on a basis of 2½c premium for June shipment in anticipation of freight rate reductions. Meanwhile, wheat afloat for Europe totaled but 53,776,000 bushels compared with 55,160,000 bushels a week ago and 60,264,000 bushels at this time last year.

Basic Industries Active.

The past month has brought a continued high rate of activity in the basic steel and automobile industries and in a host of other important lines, with the exception of building construction, which is slowing down somewhat, says the current business review of the American Bankers' Association Journal. "Distribution of commodities is running along with a volume and smoothness seldom surpassed," it continues. "There is an absence of such troubles as car shortage, strikes, commodity price gyrations, or excessive inventories. Whatever easing took place in rates on bankers' acceptances and on time loans apparently raised false hopes that the money market was returning to normal, for another stringency developed in connection with May 1 transactions which are usually of relatively moderate size. With the temper of the security markets still so confident, there seems little likelihood of any material easing in interest rates. Meanwhile the bond market is depressed and the decline in new offerings is not only affecting building construction and public improvements in this country, but has cut off the source of foreign credits that other countries need for settling their huge balance in our favor on account of interest, dividends and exports. Earnings statements published during the month make an excellent showing, even allowing for the fact that the best reports are usually published most promptly. To date, 150 corporation reports have been issued which show combined net profits of $265,000,000, representing an increase of 24 per cent over the corresponding period of 1928."

Alleghany Corporation Financing.

Financing to raise about $65,000,000 additional capital for the Alleghany Corporation, the Railroad Investment Company formed early this year by the Van Sweringen interests, was announced today. The new capital will be used for further investments, the nature of which was not disclosed, and to enable Alleghany Corporation to exercise its prospective rights to subscribe to additional stock of Chesapeake Corporation, the Van Sweringen company holding control of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway. The latter plans a stock dividend of 33 1-3 per cent contingent upon exercise of the subscription rights. The raising of capital supplementary to the original $125,000,000 financing for Alleghany Corporation involves an offering of rights to common stockholders to subscribe to about 525,000 additional shares of $30 a share in ratio of one new share for each 6 2-3 held. In addition, a banking syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. plans to offer in course of the week $25,000,000 5 per cent convertible bonds. Another banking syndicate will offer publicly $25,000,000 5½ per cent preferred stock carrying warrants to purchase common. Both will be offered at par. Securities of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, the Erie, the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Chesapeake Corporation, in all of which Alleghany Corporation has holdings, will be placed in trust as collateral for the bonds.

United Corporation.

The latest figures on the holdings of United Corporation, Morgan-Bonbright Utilities Holding Company, as disclosed in a letter sent by American Superpower Corporation to its stockholders, show a total market value of more than $300,000,000 on the basis of closing prices May 3. Stocks owned carried at cost on the corporation's balance sheet at the close of business May 4 exceeds $245,000,000, an increase of $24,000,000 over the total as of April 23, shown in the recent application for listing the stock on the New York Stock Exchange. Miscellaneous assets, option warrants and cash on hand brought total assets as of that date to $259,181,469. United Corporation was organized in January. Its common stock, having sold as low as $53 a share on the New York Curb Market, reached a record price of $75.75 on the stock exchange Saturday. The letter to American Superpower stockholders was a formal notice of the previously announced offer of rights to buy United stock now held in Superpower Corporation treasury at $30 a share in the ratio of one for every four shares of Superpower "A" or "B" stock owned.

Chemical Expansion in U. S.

Current annual production of chemicals and allied products in the United States is estimated by A. H. Swift, of the Commerce Department, at a total value of $2,278,000,000, while foreign trade in such commodities, export and import, amounts to $4,000,000,000 annually. Though the figures have increased 500 per cent in the last 25 years the study which produced the calculation advanced the conclusion that the industry would reach into the bigger figures in the next few years, because of the trend toward utilization of highly processed chemicals in pigments, textiles, medicinal and toilet preparations.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 13.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 1 point with near months relatively firm on covering by trade or speculative shorts who were probably influenced by relatively steady Liverpool cables.

Prices stiffened up a few points right after the opening, but eased again with July selling around 18.63c at the end of the first half hour or a point above Saturday's closing quotation while later months were unchanged to 3 points net lower with December selling at 18.82c.

Private cables said that Bombay selling in Liverpool had been absorbed by local buying and covering on reports of rains in the central cotton belt.

On the whole the West Texas rains and reports that recent higher temperatures had helped cotton to some extent appeared to be outweighting unfavorable features in weather news. The market sagged off to 18:61c for July and 18.80c for December during the middle of the morning, or about 1 to 4 points net lower. Offerings were not heavy, however, and trading later was quiet. Prices were a little steadier around midday on covering, accompanied by reports of an improved spot demand and a firm basis in the South.

Grant Intervention In W. & L. E. Case

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(INS.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today permitted the Cleveland Union Terminal Company to intervene in the application of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad to abandon its present facilities north of Eagle avenue, in Cleveland, and to make temporary use of the Superior avenue depot of the Erie Railroad.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Raw sugar was unchanged early today. Sales included 8,500 Bags of Porto Rican and 85,000 bags of Cuban Saturday and 10,000 bags of Porto Rican today, all in nearby positions at 3.58c delivered.

A little better tone developed in raw futures. After opening 2 points lower to 2 points higher, the whole list firmed up on covering and some buying by houses with Cuban and European connections. The interest buyers showed in spots seemed to discourage aggressive selling. While there was some outside liquidation on the upturn, there was enough covering to absorb offerings. The list at midday was about 1 to 3 points net higher.

Business Is Forging Ahead; Stocks Overshadow Wheat.

By B. C. FORBES

THE fall of wheat to the lowest price in five years is a much more important development than the drop in call money from 10 to 6 per cent at the tail end of the Wall Street week. The money rate is likely to rebound forthwith, but not wheat, notwithstanding that it looks too cheap in the neighborhood of a dollar a bushel at Chicago.

Happily, industrial, railway, public utility and general business news continues cheerful, insuring record-breaking financial results for most companies and most industries in the first half of this year.

IT IS significant of the hold stock speculation has on the mind of the American public that far more attention was devoted last week to a speech by the president of the New York Stock Exchange than to the serious decline in grains.

That speech admittedly was amazing in several respects. It conveyed very clearly that the chief official of the stock exchange decries all warnings against the ongoings which have been witnessed in Wall Street; and he conveys the distinct impression that he is bullish on stocks—a most unusual stand for the head of the nation's chief stock exchange to take publicly.

Again, Mr. Simmons chose this time of widespread agitation concerning rampant speculation and concerning the operations of the Federal Reserve Board to advocate a fundamental change in the nation's banking system to favor stock speculation. He advocates making stock market collateral the basis for borrowing from Federal Reserve banks, a proposal which was emphatically rejected by the framers of the law and which does not stand a ghost of a chance of being indorsed now by Congress.

THE New York Stock Exchange should be the last institution in America to urge tampering with the Federal Reserve law in the present temper of the politicians. If any changes should be made, it is a foregone conclusion that they would be designed, not to make carte blanche borrowing by stock brokers from Reserve banks possible, but to curb borrowing by stock market interests.

If brokers are willing to borrow almost $7,000,000,000 at the very high interest rates which have ruled for both demand and time loans, how many more billions would they absorb if rates were halved?

What is needed in the interest of industry and business and employment is not further expansion of borrowing by Wall Street, but less borrowing and more paying outright for stocks purchased. Until this is brought about, our whole economic situation will be fraught with danger. The last thing desirable is further fanning of bull speculation on borrowed money.

INCREASING complaint comes from other countries that the abnormal conditions in Wall Street are inconveniencing, not to say embarrassing them. Foreign enterprise is being checked by the world-wide flow of funds to New York. This foreshadows curtailed buying of American products.

At home, too, the continuance of existing monetary conditions would inevitably have a restraining effect on enterprise. Why should corporations make heavy avoidable expenditures when they can reap returns of 8½ to 15 per cent by lending the money in the stock market?

SO FAR, American industry and business reflect no such restrictive influence. As a matter of fact, activity is extraordinarily well maintained. Even new construction holds up. Unfilled steel orders are the best in three years. Motor manufacturers are still going at top speed. Our railroads are carrying more freight than last year or the year before, notwithstanding increased short-haul competition from motor trucks. Employment is reported as ahead of a year ago, even though the rapid introduction of labor-saving machinery has produced some idleness in various industrial centers. Also, commercial failures are fewer.

EVENTS both in Washington and in Paris are followed calmly. The proposed tariff changes inevitably have aroused both commendation and condemnation, the latter coming mostly from those who are apprehensive over the effect upward revision may have in foreign countries directly affected. The financial world does not believe that all the suggested increases will be passed. Nor is it believed that the Senate's indorsement of a bounty on agricultural exports will reach the statute books. President Hoover's uncompromising opposition to it is thoroughly sound, in the judgment of financial authorities.

Although Europe manifestly is deeply concerned over the obstacles which have arisen in the German reparation negotiations, a minimum of uneasiness is expressed here. Faith in Owen D. Young's ability as a conciliator still persists—and, anyway, if a breakdown does eventually occur, the reasoning here is that it is more Europe's affair than ours, reasoning which cannot be characterized as profound.

A RECOVERY in grain prices and a decline in money rates would be invaluable prosperity tonics. But whether a return to normal money rates can be achieved without liquidation in the stock market is a question.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—The Curb market developed decided weakness today, with most of the important issues losing from 1 to nearly 10 points during the morning, but a renewal rate of 7 per cent for call money, against 10 Friday, checked the selling and the market rallied a little during the early afternoon. Trading, however, turned very dull.

Renewed uneasiness over the credit situation, with President Hoover's committee on recent economic changes reporting that intense speculative demand for credit is threatening the supremacy of the New York money market, appeared to have precipitated widespread profit-taking. The utilities in particular, which moved up in the face of 14 per cent money last week, were depressed.

Electric Investors dropped about 9 points, but recovered nearly half its gain. American Superpower B, American Gas and Electric and Southeast Power sold off nearly 5 points. Superpower A and Northeastern Power converted early gains of a point into losses. United Gas Improvement, Buffalo Niagara and Eastern and Electric Bond and Share sagged a couple of points or so. St. Regis Paper, however, was firm, moving up about 2 points.

Aviation stocks were generally depressed. Fokker sold up more than 4 points at the opening, but soon lost much of its gain. Keystone and Fairchild sagged a point or two. Travel Air was a strong point, mounting nearly 4 points. Auburn Auto was particularly weak, losing about 9 points, while Ford of Canada A, Ford, Ltd., and Checker eased slightly. Rubberoid was an oustanding strong spot among the industrials, moving up over 3 points. Aluminum Company jumped nearly 18 points in a small turnover.

The oils generally turned heavy, with the exception of Gulf, which climbed about 3 points. Newmont dropped 5 points.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

BOY SCOUTS TO AID OVERBROOK

Overbrook will be stormed by Boy Scouts May 25, the occasion of the dedication of the new municipal building. At the request of the committee in charge of the festivities, 300 Boy Scouts have been assigned to look after the borough on that date. They will maintain police lines during the parade, man the telephones, so that all calls for police or fire may be checked and direct the visitors to their place in the parade or along the line of march.

The Scouts will be recruited from the Silver Tip and South Hills and West End districts.

Other plans for the dedication are progressing nicely, the committee states, and the churches of the borough have undertaken the task of feeding the many guests expected on this occasion.

BUILDING BOOM AT BRENTWOOD

The question of granting a permit in Brentwood for an apartment building will be threshed out at a parley to be held in the municipal building Wednesday evening May 22. An ordinance has been prepared and will be submitted to Council at a meeting the following evening.

The street committee of Council will meet tonight with owners of bus lines operating through the borough to fix loading and unloading stations along Brownsville avenue

The report of the burgess indicates that building operations in that community have more than doubled since last year. During the interval from January 1 to May 9, 1929, 52 permits were issued totaling $320,020 as against 28 permits aggregating $162,210 for the same period last year.

BANQUET HELD AT ST. HENRY'S

St. Henry's Lyceum held its annual banquet in the new school building, Arlington avenue, last night. Louis Muehlbauer acted as toastmaster and master of ceremonies. Addresses were made by J. Leibach, president of the lyceum; "Doc" Bick, basketball coach; Father Angel, spiritual advisor, and Father Meyer.

The basketball team was presented sweaters, emblematic of their winning the second-half championship of the South Side Catholic Lyceum League.

St. Henry's No. 1 bowling team members were presented the prize money won by them as champions of the South Pittsburgh Catholic Lyceum League.

POST ARRANGES ANNIVERSARY

The committee in charge of the affair is composed of all post commanders. All members of the post are requested to attend the next meeting so that the final arrangements may be completed.

NEW DONAHOE 'A' STOCK LISTED FOR TRADING HERE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

ANOTHER stock will be added to trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange with the listing of the Class "A" participating, cumulative preference stock of Donahoe's, Incorporated. Approval of the company's application was given on Friday.

Earnings of each of the last four years have exceeded the previous year, according to information given to the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange. Net profit was $185,797 in 1925, $205,772 in 1926, $219,434 in 1927, and $220,796 in 1928.

After the completion of the refinancing plan placed in effect last month, 18,000 shares of common stock, $2,500,000 of 6 per cent first preferred, and 50,000 shares of Class "A" participating preference stock were outstanding.

IN BRINGING about the refinancing plan, which was completed without any public offering or underwriting by banking interests, the old 8 per cent preferred stock of $25 par value was converted into new 6 per cent preferred stock of $100 par value. The holders of each share of the new preferred were then given one-half share of Class "A" stock and rights to buy one and a half additional shares of "A" stock at $20 a share. The rights expired on April 6, 1929.

The satisfaction of the stockholders with their investment in the past and their confidence in the management and future success of the company was indicated by the fact that more than 95 per cent of the stockholders purchased their individual allotment of the new Class "A" stock. Requests from the stockholders for additional allotments of the "A" sock were also received which the company was unable to accept at this time because almost the entire quota had been subscribed.

DURING the last six years, since the opening of the Fifth avenue store, the corporation has paid $1,078,670 in cash dividends to the holders of its preferred stock. The company never missed a dividend, having paid 45 consecutive preferred cash dividends since it was incorporated in 1917. These dividends, in addition to two extra cash dividends of 1 per cent each, mean that the original preferred stockholders have received back in the form of cash dividends 92 per cent of their original investment and still have their investment intact.

The company's business, which totals more than $7,000,000 annually, is done almost entirely on a cash-and-carry basis. It operates 25 retail food stores in Pittsburgh and the suburban communities of Wilkinsburg, Sewickley, Bellevue, Aspinwall and Braddock. Cafeterias and lunch counters are located in several of the stores.

THE Fifth avenue store is believed to do the largest cash-and-carry retail business of any food store in the United States. Food store executives from all parts of the United States and foreign countries regularly visit the store, which is reputed to be the finest of its kind, to study the Donahoe method of operation.

Peter J. Donahoe and his son, John A. Donahoe, who founded the business in 1903 in the old Pittsburgh Market House, are still actively engaged in the management and control of the business.

Although the organization has built up a tremendous amount of good will, this item is carried on the balance sheet at only $1. The physical properties, after allowing for depreciation of $603,493, are carried at $4,595,956, against which mortgages of $1,637,625 are outstanding.

THE principal plants and properties are modern buildings in exceptionally good locations. The Fifth avenue store was erected in 1923, the Beaver avenue warehouse in 1927, the West Liberty avenue store in 1927 and the McKeesport store in 1923.

On December 31, 1928, current assets amounted to $892,277, against current liabilities of $222,865. This did not give effect to the issuance of the Class "A" stock, for which the company received about $500,000, part of which went into current assets.

COBB IN FINAL

SMOKER BOUTS TONIGHT

Four boxing bouts will mark the membership rally and smoker of the St. Philomena's Catholic Men's Club in the school auditorium tonight. Other entertainment also is on the program.

DEMPSEY SEES MAX'S FINISH BY PAULINO

By DAVIS J. WALSH.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Max Schmeling still may have more managers than a chain-store system when he has fulfilled certain obligations here in connection with Paulino on the night of June 27, but, by that time, he won't need managers. He will need sympathy.

This, in a slightly more repressed measure, was Jack Dempsey's general opinion today of the fight that is to lead to the heavyweight championship, via a September engagement with Sharkey. The old champion wasn't quite as emphatic as the above paragraph might make him appear to have been, but, nevertheless, he left no doubt of his belief that his German double would be well veneered on the evening in question.

SIGNS FOR BOUT

Schmeling signed for the Paulino shot on Saturday in Montreal and Thereby prepared the way for the elimination of two men from further consideration. One of these will be the loser of the fight he signed for. The other is Dempsey himself.

The signing of that contract definitely closed the door against Dempsey's return to the ring. He will not fight again and the reason he won't is that Schmeling is the man whom he had chosen as his own. Now that Paulino has got him, Dempsey will not be interested further. They have taken his lollypop away from him.

He doesn't admit that this is true. He doesn't have to. For the fact of the matter is that it is true. For publication, John's story is the same old tale—maybe he will and maybe he won't. There isn't any maybe about it this time. He won't and you can go and bet your grandfather's spending money on it.

Anyhow, he says Schmeling isn't the man to lick Paulino and he tells you why in a plausible way. As John sees it, Schmeling can't hope to pop the other gent with a right and that, of course, is the only kind of popping he can do with any degree of authority.

"Schmeling is a one-punch fighter," said he. "His right hand can't score against Paulino's crossed-arm defense and his left means nothing. Therefore, I can't see where he is going to do himself much good. It might be different if he was a body puncher. But he isn't. He just shoots that right from a distance and the only place you can hit Paulino that way is on top of the head. I think the Basque is a push-in for that fight."

OUTCOME IN DOUBT

That being the case, what then did he think of Paulino's chance with Sharkey? Was the heavyweight title going abroad for the first time since Fitzsimmons' day? It seemed that John didn't know. Sharkey, it appeared, might be too fast for Paulino. The latter, on the other hand, might be too tough for Sharkey.

At this point, it was apparent that John was determined to conduct himself along the lines laid down by the old political writer on nonpartisan paper whose lengthy dissertations never failed to prove that there was much to be said on both sides. Only on the question of Schmeling's qualifications did he get down to a direct, three-point landing. The lad, he admitted, was a bright young man and undoubtedly a big help to the folks at home. But, as for beating Paulino, he couldn't do it with a horsewhip.

SEEKS PRELIMS

NEW YORK, May 13.—(INS.)—Tom McCardle, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, is seeking opponents for Johnny Risko, Cleveland welterweight, and Otto Von Porat, Chicago slugger, in the preliminaries on the Schmeling-Paulino card at Yankee Stadium on June 27.

$15,000 Automobile Wrecked in $150 Race

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—(INS.)—With the exception of a few stitches used to close an ugly gash over his left eye, Al Stewart, New Market, N. J., auto race driver, showed no other marks of his crash through the wooden fence during the 25-mile race at Langhorne yesterday. The huge Duesenberg Stewart was driving, however, was ruined.

The car belonged to Pete De Paolo and was valued at $15,000. The prize for the race in which the young racer was driving only amounted to $150. Stewart was whirling around the dirt track at a high rate of speed when he became blinded by a cloud of dust and crashed into the rear of the car piloted by Morris Burman. Stewart's car went through the fence while Burman's merely crashed against the board barrier. Stewart was knocked unconscious, but recovered and a physician sewed up the wound caused when a bit of steel struck him above the left eye.

CHICAGO—Scarface Al Capone is said to be stone broke. He is having difficulty meeting notes, and is in danger of losing his beautiful Florida home, on which he owes $30,000.

This is one of the most pathetic cases that has come to the attention of this department in months.

Something should—and will—be done about it.

Why not a national Tag Day?

This department will be glad to receive donations for Mr. Capone—canned fruit, old spats, walking sticks, etc.

* * *

Or perhaps you have an old machine gun, or an unexploded bomb around the house, Send it to the Capone Relief Fund.

NEWS PICTURE

This is Mr. and Mrs. Cresus Doakes, who always wait until the curtain rises before taking their seats at the theater. In this way they force half a dozen people to rise and pay their respects.

Revise—

The paths of glory lead but to a cigaret test.

THIS HAS GOT TO STOP!

Above is picture, especially posed by our Aunt Bella, to show the disgraceful actions which take place every day in the courts. Witnesses take the stand, and expose their knees to jurors, who are forced to pay strict attention. The judge will not permit them to turn the other away. As a result many of us think up excuses to keep from doing jury duty.

John Snip Certainly Made a Monkey of His Brother

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat.

John Snip may go to Hollywood one of these days to star in the movies.

Thursday afternoon he got a cane, borrowed a derby, humped himself over, twisted his face and holding out a battered tin cup for alms, in a trembling hand, he bobbed into the Lamar Trust Company. At the front window stood President Casey Snip, who knows John fairly well, as they're both brothers. Casey was fixing up a deposit for Frank Longnecker. Casey dropped a dime in the extended cup.

Mrs. Casey Snip, who must have seen John quite frequently, being his sister-in-law, said the sight of such an unfortunate simply made her sick.

When John had crept back to the door, he straightened up, unscrewed his face, removed his derby with a flourish and with his best bow he said: "I thank you, gentlemen!" Right then, the crowd in the bank would have swapped themselves for a mashed dime.

Need of an Independent Political Movement Here Shown by Mayor Contest

It begins to appear that the coming mayoralty contest is to be the usual thing. Candidates of singularly political viewpoint as to operation of city affairs will be up for nomination. By political we mean not the adjective pertaining to the science of government, but that relating to "practical politics." The kind that has given us our "organization" and our rackets and our vice and our slot machines and our rum murders, election cheating and all the rest of the outgrowths of "practical politics."

Whom the candidates backed by one or another faction of such elemental sources of governmental power shall be is not exactly known, but they will be persons of high respectability. That is one thing practical politics does right. It does not pick a racketeer—one of its primary supporting bases—to be mayor, but selects a man who is looked up to. A business man or a judge or some officeholder who has made a record is hand-picked.

The practical politicians meet in some hotel room and discuss the situation and decide whom the organization will be for. There may be a split—one side holding for one man and the other standing only for another. But in that case usually the organization decides eventually to yank one man out of the race and unite on the other. Whereupon one candidate "withdraws." In other words, he is defeated in his aspirations, not by the people, but by the bosses.

For years the only kind of a mayor we have had has been of the "political" stripe and it does not appear that there is to be any change unless the people, themselves, show a little independence. Just now the candidates being mentioned are Mayor Charles H. Kline, former state senator and former judge, and James Malone, president of Council. Both are good men. Both have many friends. Political wiseacres say that the mayor has been building up his own political machine so that he will have the payroll vote even if the followers of Max Leslie should throw their support to Mr. Malone.

The Sun-Telegraph believes the people of the city would welcome a change from the "political" type of mayor and that the city would be greatly benefited by such a change. It does not advocate any such impractical movements as usually are associated with so-called "reform" candidates, generally the weak outgrowth of groups of good people having more virtue than sound sense, but it would like to see all of the fair-minded people, all of the upright people, all of the civically honest people of the city united to give us an administration in which our gang politicians would have no influence whatever.

It would like to see an administration that would at least show some signs of being perturbed at the revelations brought out in recent county and federal grand jury investigations. Neither the mayor nor Councilman Malone seemed to be excited over them. It would like to see an administration that would have had sufficient idea of its relation to the people to have fought (from mayor's office or Council chamber) against such impositions, for instance, as permitting 25-cent bus fares to be established here, when similar or greater service is extended in other cities for 10 cents. It would like to see an administration which would be fighting all the time to see that its citizens got a square deal, protection from vice, crime, gambling, etc., and giving reasonable attention to the health and convenience of citizens through clean streets and the furthering of needed public improvements on a rational plan.

It hopes that there will be such an independent movement.

Reward Offer for Forney Mailed After Long Delay

Circulars offering a reward of $5,000 by Allegheny County for the capture of Alfred W. Forney, slot machine monarch, who is alleged to have gained millions in the racket game in Pittsburgh, are in the mails. Weeks after Forney failed to appear for trial on the date set, making it evident that he was a bail-jumper and fugitive from justice, the law-enforcing agencies of the county tardily get into operation again.

'... however, is not the fault of Presiding Judge James ... who, at the time of Forney's disappearance, de... that the reward be offered. Finally, the County Commissioners decided to do so two weeks ago. When the circulars were ready to be mailed they were held because District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner was of the opinion that the offer was not legally worded. It is not public knowledge that new circulars, worded according to Mr. Gardner's ideas, were ordered, or even considered.

Tiring of the delay, Judge Drew at length took the matter into his own hands and ordered the circulars be put into the mails. Thus the law-enforcing agencies of the county tardily get into operation on the Forney case again. Poor Forney! We'd hate to be him—with Allegheny's alert and vigilant hounds of justice on his trail!

Why Europe Laughs

They Lend Us Our Money.

Gigantic sums are lent in Wall street at 10, 15 and 20 per cent by FOREIGN lenders.

Thus, some of the billions that this country lent to Europe at low interest rates, much of which it never will get back, are now lent here in Wall street at usurious rates.

That causes foreigners THAT are able to borrow money in their own markets at 4½ per cent, and less, to smile at the queer things Americans do. We're an "easy mark" people.

The Hearst Papers Advocate

1. An agreement on an equal basis of English speaking peoples to preserve peace between themselves and to promote the peace of the world, but no minority representation in foreign leagues.
2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate—no state to have less than two Senators.
3. Separate departments of Army and Navy and air forces, united under Secretary of National Defense.
4. Vigorous Federal action, under a Secretary of Education, to abolish illiteracy in the United States.
5. Installation of President and of Congress on first of January following election in November.
6. A Federal sales tax, the income from which to be used in reducing other Federal taxation.
8. Construction of Nicaragua Canal for commerce and defense; advocated by Hearst papers since 1895.
9. The acquisition of the French West Indies as part payment for the French debt to the United States and of the English West Indies also, if agreeable to France and England.

Tales That Are Told

Divine Interference

A LITTLE girl was put in an upper berth for the first time. She kept crying till her mother told her not to be afraid because God would watch over her.

"Mother, are you there?" she cried.

"Yes."

"Father, are you there?"

"Yeah—"

A fellow passenger, losing all patience at this point, bellowed forth: "Your father and mother and brothers and sisters and aunts and uncles and cousins. All here, now go to sleep."

There was a pause, then, very softly: "Mamma."

"Well?"

"Was that God?"

Obeying Orders

IN reporting a washout on a railroad, the section foreman wired a complete report to the superintendent, gave all details as to mile posts, bridges, track distance, etc., to which the superintendent wired back instructions to make the wire report shorter in the future, and follow the message up with the details in a letter.

Several weeks later another washout occurred, the section foreman writing:

Good Disposition

A FARMER was trying hard to fill out a railway company claim sheet for a cow that had been killed on the track. He came down to the last item: "Disposition of the carcass."

After puzzling over the question for some time, he wrote: "Kind and gentle."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

IT ought to be pretty easy to put things over on husbands, according to all the jokes. You hardly ever read a joke about a man that makes his wife believe something, but the husband is always supposed to be believing whatever he's told.

A man and his wife had a bank account together, and they got along pretty well with it. One time, though, she got awful extravagant and drew out a lot of dough to pay some money she lost at bridge. She said to the bank cashier, "See here, what I've gone and done, Mr. Cashin. Now, can you fix this up somehow so that my husband won't ever know that this here big wad of dough has been spent?"

The banker looker over the books, and then he says, "No, I can't see how I can do that. But I can fix it so's that you can ask him the first of next month what ever did he draw out so much dough at once for."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

IF you know the hills of California you have neighbored with the chaparral.

From Shasta to Tia Juana it covers the ranges with a mantle of low, thorny shrubs.

Millions of shrubs, all so alike that it is impossible to tell one from the other in the interlacing tangle.

Little birds nest in it.

Rabbits and squirrels have their burrows among its roots.

Springs have their homes there, too, for it is the guardian of the waterways. Without its thick, fierce protection the storms would have their way with the hills and the valleys would go dry.

The soil beneath the chaparral is deep and black with years of giving. Generations of these humble growths have lived and died there, sprung from the ground and gone back to it again, taking with them the treasure of earth and air.

With the spring the perfume rises from it like smoke.

It is an amazing perfume, pungent, earthly, with a warm force in it. It is like the odor of a healthy, living body moving along the trails, under the brilliant sky.

I can never feel casual about the chaparral—I can never treat it as mere vegetation.

It is to me a mass of life in which I, too, have my being, like the squirrel and the rabbit.

It is like that mass of life which we call the common people.

That tough, humble herd who live and die close to the soil—each one so like the other that they're hard to tell apart.

"Common," we call them, as we call the chaparral common.

Yet there is no part of the chaparral that is common.

It is all filled with power and beauty and the mystery of living. And it is of tremendous importance in the economy of the wilderness. The great trees tower proudly above it and the orchards spread their wealth below it, but without the chaparral they would all perish.

So it is with the obscure millions we call "common."

They, too, are filled with mystery and power and beauty. They, too, are of tremendous importance, for without their strong, constant service the sources of our existence would go dry and the tall, lordly ones would perish.

And there is joy and gentleness within them—

And sweetness, rich as honey, hides within their seeming roughness—

And always, be it spring or winter, summer, fall, fragrance comes from them—

Like smoke their fragrance rises from the soil to God—

EDUCATION

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE business of making doctors of philosophy (Ph. D's) Prof. J. Paul Goode asserts, is one of the major industries of our country, and a flourishing one. In proof he notes that our 576 colleges and universities possess a "plant of a value exceeding $2,000,000,000," and the annual budget for maintaining "graduate education" is well above $350,000,000.

Then he goes on to say that "not only is this business of making Ph. D's one of the major industries; it begins to look as though we were taking on the airs of mass production."

And he adds that the college program can be stated as simply as the engineer states the business of making automobiles. But, the engineer's problem is simple; his raw materials being uniform in quality there is no serious difficulty in obtaining uniformity of product. But in the university and college the material, consisting of men and women is far from uniform. "The Lord did not make them equal in any way."

There is the hitch in the great educational problem, as far as it is concerned with what are called the "higher branches," which, in fact really means only the more specialized branches. There the candidate for the degree must be "milled" in order to be shaped into a finished Ph. D. For that purpose he must have individual attention and instruction, such as cannot be bestowed upon a whole class as a complex unit. Continual personal contact with an able, inspiring, indefatigable teacher is the indispensable thing for the candidate. But to have that in its fullness it would almost be necessary to have as many instructors as candidates.

Nothing worse could ever happen to the cause of education than to receive the stamp of fashionable society. It is to be feared that even the laboriously won Ph. D. degree is often sought for the sake of its eclat. It is perfectly certain that that is the motive that leads thousands of young men and women to college to seek a general degree. It would be far better for many of these to end their public education with the high school. The really good colleges and universities now have to put up higher and higher barriers to keep from being overflowed with the flood of incompetent and imperfectly prepared candidates for admission.

When these dikes consist in a large part of financial barriers a tragic element is introduced, owing to the danger of excluding gifted youths who really possess the requisite qualities for becoming educated leaders and workers. Yet it may be that the difficulties imposed in this way often insure the excellence of the product. It is certain that only good material can survive, when a young person has to study hard and at the same time work for the money to pay for the instruction.

According to Prof. Goode the handicaps to be overcome by those lacking money "do not compare as handicaps with easy money and wealth assured."

And there is great encouragement for gifted candidates whose purses are lank, in this statement: "Studies have been made which show that up to the present time the men and women in this country who have made the bulk of worthy contributions in productive scholarship, in science, art, literature, have come from the farms and villages, and from homes of moderate wealth or no wealth. So far as my observation goes, easy money in the hands of the student, with its evil concomitants of idleness, dissipation and impatience, goes farther to prevent achievement in scholarship than all the poverty of pioneer conditions."

But America is getting richer, and its riches are becoming more distributed. How will it be with scholarship, when all students come with plenty of spending money? Probably it will be as it always has been: the intellectually and morally gifted will continue to be the only diamonds that their alma mater will be proud of.

Bible Passages

The Acceptable Fast

(Isaiah 58: 1-23)

CRY aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins:

Yet they seek me daily, and delight to know my ways, as a nation they did righteousness, and forsook not the ordinance of their God: they ask of me the ordinances of justice; they take delight in approaching to God.

Wherefore have we fasted, say they, and thou seest not? Wherefore have we afflicted our soul, and thou takest no knowledge? Behold in the day of your fast ye find pleasure, and exact all your labours.

Behold, ye fast for strife and debate, and to smite with the fist of wickedness: ye shall not fast as ye do this day, to make your voice to be heard on high.

Is it such a fast that I have chosen? a day for a man to afflict his soul? is it to bow down his head as a bulrush, and to spread sackcloth and ashes under him? wilt thou call this a fast, and an acceptable day to the Lord?

Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?

Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? when thou seest the naked that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh?

Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thy health shall spring forth speedily: and thy righteousness shall go before thee; the glory of the Lord shall be thy reward.

Then shalt thou call, and the Lord shall answer, thou shalt cry, and he shall say, Here I am. If thou take away from the midst of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the finger, and speaking vanity;

And if thou draw out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted soul; then shall thy light rise in obscurity, and thy darkness be as the noon day:

And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones: and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not.

And they that shall be of thee shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in.

Spring Reverie

WISE men for ages
Called life a cheat,
Yet even sages
Found living sweet.

April's fresh gardens
Showed them each year
How Nature pardons
A sage's sneer.

Showed them how lightly
Nature forgets
When Spring, the sprightly,
Brings violets.

Little of learning
Can I call mine,
And Spring, returning,
Finds at her shrine

None more devoutly
Kneeling than I,
None who more stoutly
Life's praises cry.

Wise men keep counting
All life denies;
Spring's tide is mounting . . .
Who would be wise?

The Kingdom of Action

By Herbert Kaufman

THE graduation season is upon us. Hither and yon, ponderous minds are pontifically sorting grandiose phrases—culling flowers of speech to decorate the self-esteem of some hundred thousand young men and women—which the frosts of reality and the nips of experience will promptly shrivel.

To counteract the pernicious effect of average baccalaureates, the writer, still vividly recalling his own aches from adjustment to practical affairs, humbly and in the spirit of service, preaddresses the senior classes of America:

"You are about to observe that men who can't construe a sentence are constructing skyscrapers, controlling industries and directing governments.

Many a one of 'em, who can't tell Dagon and dragon apart, is a Professor Emeritus when it comes to reading a cryptic prospectus or figuring the obsolescence rate of equipment.

Of such is the Kingdom of Action.

The time-clock and the profit and loss account will shortly hold weekly examinations to determine whether you're a parrot or a reasoner.

If your mind continues to wear only the hand-me-downs of information—if it doesn't regularly reclothe itself as styles of thought change with invention and progress, we'll value your assistance at the cost of an encyclopaedia, which is worth no more in ass-pelt than Morocco binding.

The pay envelope won't believe you're a Doctor of anything unless you diagnose some wasting condition in the office system and prescribe a remedy to check it.

But we'll accept any of your theories the moment they prove handles for loose-screw drivers.

If the classics and mathematics have tempered your wits, the purchasing department, the sales-manager's meetings, the factory floor and the budget offer constant opportunity to demonstrate it.

But your frat key isn't a pick-lock to a single executive desk. And high jumps and goal punts aren't on the cashier's score.

Hereabouts, Demosthenes's Philippics don't begin to rank with a good snappy selling talk. And the lads who can scan Pindar can't qualify with youngsters who con trade-cycles, crop reports and the list of buyer arrivals.

Don't remind us how you delivered the valedictory. We'd rather hear how you landed Old Man Hardscrapple's account.

The office boy, the chief stenographer and the assistant accountant are full of facts that never went to Oxford. Take off your high hat and take down their lectures.

Never forget they are upper classmen in a school for which you're still prepping.

You've just come from a hot-house to be transplanted in raw soil, so quite a bit of your conceit must be pruned to insure sound rooting.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 13.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Off early to greet my mother-in-law, away many weeks in Florida, and to call on a recent literary success, who told me he was not only bored with popularity but with people, all of which gave me a distinct neckache.

Drove with my wife to Brooklyn for lunch, and again impressed with the easy-mannered calm and dignity of that borough, which seems a thousand miles from Manhattan madness. Back across the bridge and idled among the money changers in Wall street.

In the evening to the Ship Grill, dining, on the ham Mr. Lebus brought from Kentucky, off a pine table scrubbed white, while ship bells chimed the hours. Then walked across town and loitered along the Broadway shop windows. Home to bed and reading a sickly love tayle until the ash cans began to rattle.

The Manhattan janitor as a distinct type is passing. There are still a number left, but they lessen as building conditions improve. In his beehive community the janitor is comparable to the village gossip. He knows, sees and tells all and is czar in his domain of mutton and cabbage smells.

Tenants usually hate him, for excellent reasons, but must hide their feelings. His wife, almost invariably a slatternly woman with a knotted top side wisp of hair, has an acid tongue and regards everybody with that suspicious jealousy born of little lives.

She dislikes to be known as a "janitress," but may be addressed as "the assistant superintendent." In the high-priced apartment house the janitor is no more. In this upper stratum he has become the superintendent, and interviews prospective tenants in braided coat across a glass-topped desk.

The tenement of today is the glorified apartment of yesteryear. The wooden and walk-up structure with dim-lit halls and criss-crossed with fire escapes is almost a memory. The outmoded buildings are those with large and high-ceiled rooms, and the service is third rate, with the inevitable sulking and impudent West Indian elevator operator. They are the sublime in studied insolence, and to be sassed with a British accent doesn't soften matters.

Yet the neighborliness amid the clamor of existence in the tenement building is by far the most pronounced in New York. There are no secrets. Once in a while the drabness flares up into murder, but simmers down again to meaningless monotony. All are trying to struggle up and are willing to lend a helping hand along the toiling way.

* * *

The tenement entrance is the open forum and clearing house for gossip. All the good and the bad news filters through speaking tubes. Mothers and fathers collect in entrance to discuss their domestic, biologic and economic problems; boys and girls occupy the stoops for love making, queer faces with wens and bandages come in and out, and the doorway becomes the laboratory where every visitor undergoes a microscopic examination.

* * *

"I notice," writes someone who doesn't matter, "your frequent reference to your pearl gray hat. Is that the one you talk through?"

One would think I had only one hat. I'm a town man.

The son of a New York millionaire has decided to become both a tenor singer and the leader of a jazz orchestra. Not content to choose just one of two evils.

* * *

The newest in happy nonsense is to be an English imported playlet called: "Twee, Twee! Ssh, ssh; Now, Now! Come, Come!" And it is even money they feature a gossamer-winged lollipop with ribbon cuff links, a mincing walk and flapping wrists.

* * *

And a British fall overcoat model in a style show features 12 pockets, including one under each arm pit. With a coat like that a fellow would have to hire a pickpocket to get his handkerchief.

A gentleman in Florida writes he is "a third rate lawyer, but thoroughly honest." Well, well!

Isn't It So?

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU are seriously offended if you are criticized for inaction.

But you are so busy nursing your offense that you don't improve or speed your action.

Important matters come up for your assistance.

Instead of responding instantly and effectively, you lay the matter aside till you have more time.

Day in and day out, month in and month out, you keep the matter in the back of your mind, so that it bothers you, but you don't act.

You don't have the time to go after the matter as you should.

At least you make yourself think you haven't time, and so, when the consequences of inaction press down upon you, you are indignant.

Just as though you could not attend to your own business without being prodded about matters you understand perfectly.

You think it looks as if you were considered about twelve years old, when you have gained man's estate, and you won't stand for that.

You are judged by results, not by your age, and if you want to be considered a responsible person you must do things promptly whether you have time or not.

Get results and get them accurately and quickly, and you won't have to accuse anyone of nagging.
